Models are not required by the Patent Office or by ourselves, nor is it necessary for an inventor to have a model constructed before an application for a patent, though frequently it is advisable for his own satisfaction.

It is not necessary for us to have the machine or other device before us while preparing the drawings or specifications, as more frequently than not, our work is all taken from rough sketches and very short descriptions. We are always glad to express an opinion from a sketch submitted as to whether a device contains patentable features or not and for this service, when it does not involve a search into the Official records, we make no charge.
