ESCAPED PRISONER

"Stone walls do not a prison make

On Friday last, August 20, Judge Carleton held Court in the County Court House to conduct, under the Speedy Trials Act, the trial of William Cripps and Harold Mann, who had been arrested the previous Saturday in St. Stephen and sent down by Police Magistrate Richardson for trial on the charge of burglary and theft. Both prisoners pleaded guilty; and Judge Carleton allowed Mann out on prohibition, but sentenced Cripps, who is an old offender, Miss Marv McLaughlin. to seven years in Dorchester Penitentiary On Saturday morning Cripps asked the Jailer, Thos. A. Kendrick, for permission to go to the telephone to speak to his wife in Calais. The Jailer granted permission but ordered the prisoner first to leave his coat, shoes and hat in his cell. Cripps went to the cell and removed the articles of clothing as requested, but poked them through a narrow slit in the wall that lights the cell. The Jailer opened the door for Cripps, and as it was being locked Cripps darted into the jail office and took header out of the window, carrying We Have a Large Lot flower-pots and fly-screen with him. The Jailer made a grab at the man's feet, but missed them; and the next instant he saw the man jump over the jail fence into the yard on the stock. To-day the price is $65.00 per doz., and will be higher.
