cruisers prowling around in the waters of the North Atlantic, every light was dimmed or covered on the vessels. To make matters worse the ships were in dense fog, and just before the fog enveloped them they caught a glimpse of three icebergs. Not a sound issued from the fog signals. while the wireless was silent too, for none of the three wished to attract the attention of hostile ships. So for three nights they ran along in darkness or lay to in the thick fog. The ships brought nearly 3,000 Canadian and Americans from the Continent.

One night, the story goes among the passengers on the Teutonic, a German cruiser was sweeping the sea with her searchlight to find the ship. It lay in darkness, and the enemy could not discover it. Then a call went forth to the British for assist-Help came in the form of a British cruiser, the passengers thought it was the Essex, that sent the German cruiser flying again. The officers would say nothing of what had happened, but on deck it was commo talk that the vessel had run one hundred miles north of her course to avoid the enemy, and that they had been sought by the Kaiser's warships. Dr. Loucks, Detroit, who attended the medical congress in London, told on landing from the Teutonic of how c existed for 24 hours in London on

Rev. J. E. Rheame, Chicago, another Teutonic passenger, had to live in Brussels for 24 hours on 15 cents. He first managed to get a bed in the Teutonic steerage. He said he was n The Hague when war broke out, and got an emergency passport to Brussels He was pulled off train after train, and finally made Calais, rom which point he got a ship to England

A sensational act of Captain Kendall, who was in charge of the Empress of Ireland when she went down, is told by an officer of the steamer Virginian. Kendall was placed i charge of the Montrose, and not only escued a number of Canadians and Americans stranded in Antwerp and an the gauntlet to London, but towed out the C.P.R. steamer Montreal, undergoing engine repairs.

So grateful were the people on the Virginian to Captain Rennie for bringing them through a dangerous passage so safely, that the whole 600 signed a testimonial of thanks to him.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—Another substantial drop was brought about in wheat prices by lower Liverpool cables and extremely weak United States markets. No definite arrangement regarding export and stocks accumulating in the south, with an early movement of spring wheat on both sides of the line, were also depressing factors. Trading was quiet, Only a light volume of business was transacted. There was a reaction before closing, caused by shorts covering.

Wheat opened 1c to 1%c lower, and closed 1 c to 1%c lower.

OUR WEEKLY NEWS

Within the last three or four days several men have come to us for garden properties. Their statements are as follows: We have been working in the shops for the last ten years or so, and have come to the conclusion that it will be better for us to own and work a good garden property near the city, so that if times should be worse, and, on account of war or from any other cause, that Brantford's export trade would suffer, then our living would be secured by having a good garden and growing our vegetables and fruits and having some to sell as well. We will be happier and more healthy. Now we want gardens for these men, near the city, not more than three or four miles out. Bring in descriptions to this agency if you have such properties to sell.

Again, for investments. Our office was crowded on Saturday from morning until night, by parties looking for good houses and farm properties to buy for investments, saying "We want our money invested in real estate, the basis of all security." We have some good properties that will pay a good rate of interest on the price asked, but we want more, as we have a considerable number of investing customers, and we wish to give them a good list to choose from

We also have a very fine centrally located residential property on the corner of two fine streets, 92 feet frontage on one street and 97 feet on the other. Price only $7500. This is a fine investment. Particulars given at our agency on personal application.
