

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Rubbing substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

KINCAID—LEE NUPTIALS

The Rev. St. Marie Express.

St. Luke's Pro-cathedral was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when at 6.30 Wednesday evening Miss Alma Lee, niece of Mr and Mrs Wm. Van Abbott, became the bride of Mr O.
A. Kincaid, of Duluth. Rev H. A.
Brooke performing the ceremony.

The church was prettily decorated with green and gold. Banks of golden rod and golden glow decorated the chancel, while garlands of green and gold festooned the aisle. The decorations were the work of St. Luke's Girl Auxiliary, of which Miss Lee has been a prominent member for a number of years. The bride, who was given away by her cousin, Mr R. H. Carney, was daintily gowned in Egyptian silk madras over white tulle with the conventional veil and orange blossoms. She carried white roses. Miss Julia Lumcombe, who attended the bride, wore a becoming dress of white point d'esprit over yellow silk, with picture hat of white silk and yellow roses. Her bouquet was of white asters.

Little Madge Begg, as flower girl, was in white and carried a basket of white asters.

A reception at the house followed the ceremony, and refreshments were served in the dining room, which was decorated by Miss Nellie Towrie, in pale pink and white, the foundation being white tulle and pink roses. The rest of the house was decorated with green and yellow in accordance with color scheme of church. The bride's going away gown, which was of helio-trope broadcloth with lace waist, was imported, as was much of her trousseau.

Mr and Mrs Kincaid left for Duluth at 9 p. m., amid showers of rice and confetti, with the best wishes of their many friends, among whom Mrs Kincaid will be greatly missed.

The bride's presents, which were both numerous and costly, consisted principally of cut glass, linen and china. A number of substantial checks were also presented including one from the groom. The groom's present to the bride was a gold bracelet, to the flower girl a gold brooch, and to the ushers gold cuff links. The groomsmen, Mr Elliott of Duluth, presented the bride with a grandfather's clock.

THE DECARED POLICY

After questioning the wisdom of that part of the Ontario Government's educational policy which includes the abolition of Model Schools, the Brockville Recorder says:

"Take the one at Athens, for example. All over this part of Ontario are found teachers who have received their practical training at that institution, and the impress of their work has been for good. Not only has the work of practical teaching been well looked after, but a moral tone has pervaded the Model school which has been echoed and reflected in every schoolhouse where the teachers trained at Athens have taught. It is not to be wondered at that under such circumstances, the policy of the Government to abolish these schools is regretted by not a few people. But this is the announced policy of the Government, and just as soon as the proposed Normal schools are completed, the Model schools will cease to exist, and their work will be only a memory. This was announced by the Premier during the last session of the Legislature, and the Government is pledged to that policy."

HUMOR

ALL ABOUT A BOOK.

Trouble in Store For the One Who Threw It Out of the Window.

"Will you please take that book out of this seat?"

"What for?"

"I'd like to sit down here."

"Plenty of other seats in this car, are there not?"

"Yes, sir, but this happens to be the one I want."

"Just so."

(Pause.)

"Will you take that book out of this seat?"

"No, sir."

"You will not?"

"I will not."

"I think it's hogwash for a man to pile his baggage on the seat alongside of him."

"I don't care a continental what you think."

(Another pause.)

"Once more, will you take that book out of this seat?"

"Once more, sir, no."

"Then I'll throw it out of the window."

"I advise you not to do it."

"So?"

"Yes. You might get yourself into trouble."

By the way of reply the irate passenger picked up the offending book and buried it through the open window.

"Now, sir," he demanded, "what are you going to do about it?"

"Nothing. The book isn't mine."

"Whose is it?"

"I think it belongs to that hunky looking fellow in the other end of the car who seems to be coming back to look for it."—Chicago Tribune.

Well Meant, But—

The puzzle department of London Truth recently had a competition on examples of unintentionally funny paragraphs. Here are a few of the specimens sent in: "We regret to announce the death at Cairo of Sir A. B.
Smith, his London physician having recommended a warmer climate." In a discussion on the dress of the clergy a nonconformist minister declared:
"As for me, I will wear no clothes to distinguish me from my fellow men."

This came under the "In Memoriam" column: "In loving memory of —, beloved wife of —, who died —. This is inserted by her sorrowful daughters.
"What is home without a mother?"
"Peace, perfect peace." "For sale, a handsome St. Bernard puppy; six months old; clean and healthy; will eat anything; very fond of children.
Apply X, office of this paper." Seen in a newspaper cutting some years ago.

The following newspaper advertisement appeared in a morning newspaper: "Wanted, a gentleman to undertake the sale of a patent medicine. The advertiser guarantees that it will be profitable to the undertaker."

More Thorough.

Bobby had gone to Canada to visit his English aunt and was trying to be on his best behavior all the time, but at luncheon when his aunt asked him if he would like some curried chicken he was speechless with surprise.

"What is the matter, Bobby?" asked his aunt. "Don't you like curried chicken?"

"I don't know," answered Bobby.
"We don't carry ours. We pick them."

—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Thrilling Report.

"Lady," began the wanderer, "kin I chop some wood fur you?"

"No, thank you," replied the up to date housewife. "We cook and heat entirely by electricity."

"Nothin' I kin do to git a bite to eat?"

"Yes. If you care to peel the shooks from the electric wires I'll allow you to eat the currents."—Harper's Weekly.

Panic.

"You don't look well this morning, old chap," said the tragedian.

"No," replied the comedian. "I was the victim of a fire panic last night."

"What! When?"

"Oh, the panic struck me when I heard I was going to be fired, but I found this morning it was a false alarm."—Philadelphia Press.
