CHAPTER VI.

In one of the railway cars which run from the Capital, we had a very pleasing experience, and one that taught us a good lesson in the value of "little things". Just as the train left the station, a lady to my left took from her satchel a skein of wool, and having opened it, she passed it to her husband for the purpose of holding it out while she balled it. It is not often that husbands hold out skeins of wool for their wives: of the station of the purpose of holding it out while she balled it. It is not often that husbands hold out skeins of wool for their wives: of the same and that one of them should be "ever at it," nor that leisure should be forfeited and life made a drudgery. There was not a happier nor a more congenial group of passengers on the train that evening than those I refer to. They all seemed at ease, they indulged in a becoming share of laughter, and in the height of it all they drew from under the seat a skeins of wool for their wives; of they drew from under the seat a course they did it before they be-

He could not have done it better, had it been in his prospective father-in-law's parlour instead of in a railway car with his wife. What a nice lesson the best of the process of the lower than the lesson that the better of the journey.

How strange that marriage is so different from courtship. Of course, it is all the woman's fault. It would never that the home heart is now, a super but it would never that the home heart is now, a super but it would dear the heart only a super but it would dear the heart only a super but it would dear the heart only a super but it would dear the heart only a super but it woulded. fect and that settles it.

On finishing the balling, the lady again opened her satchel, and produced a set of knitting needles, and immediately began to set up a sock for one of our soldiers lads now at the front. 25-cent bottle destroys dandruff and doubles beauty of your hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at firstyes-but really new hair-growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. "Somewhere in France," Dated Sth November, 1915, to his Brother George who has Recently Joined the Newfoundland Contingent.

"Well O. M. (old man) I could scarcely find words in my limited vocabulary to express my feelings when you told me that you had enlisted. I am delighted and feel very proud of you as a brother and it is my earnest wish that you succeed in your new sphere of life and satisfy your ambition by serving your King and Country who are so much in need of men of your calibre at the present time. I know mother and father must feel hurt at the idea of your leaving them on such an undertaking, but, O. M., when they look into the matter as they should (which I am sure they will), they will be convinced that you are doing the right thing. As for myself, I feel confident that you will meet with things that will appear at first sight.

On Nov. 20 a very pretty wedding took place in the Parish Church, St. Mary's, when Capt. Wm. Meehan, of Mall Bay, and Miss Ellie Rourke, of the same place, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Very Rev. S. O'Driscoll, P.P. The bride who was charmingly attired in white was attended by her sister, Miss Gertie Rourke, and Mr. Michael Meehan performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony the happy couple accompanied by a large number of guests repaired to the groom's home where full justice was done to the good things provided, after which dancing, etc., were kept up till the following morning. All join in wishing the young couple many happy years.—Com.
