Canada and Newfoundland

(From the Montreal Gazette.) There has always been, in the Dominion, a sort of standing invitation to Newfoundland to come in and there by "round-off Confederation." When the British North America Act was drawn up, the possibility of the entry of Newfoundland was in the minds of Canadian statesmen, and provision was made for it in the Act itself; it is there to-day. The disposition in this country toward the absorption of Newdland has been, in a general way, favorable. This attitude has not, however, been reciprocated in Newfoundland, except at times when it has appeared that the island people doubted their ability to get along alone. A desire for Confederation, growing out of a financial depression and having for its immediate object the transfer of public debt from Newfoundland to an enlarged Dominion, is not, perhaps the happiest foundation for a mutually beneficial union. At present, particularly, Canada has financial problem of its own which seem likely to test with unusual severity, the resource

We say that if you retail sugar out of a barrel you should figure 1 cent per pound to ecently eluded a Revenue cruiser by cover cost of bags, twine, time, tear and wear on your scales, loss of 2 or 8 ounces here and there.

> If your clerks are human they will make mistakes, they will waste a bag or two now and then, they will waste a little sugar here and there. Why, even you make mistakes.

Tell your clerks to weigh up 30-1 lb. bags, 30-2 lb. bags, 30-7 lb. bags; see how long they take to do this, count the bags spoiled, figure on the twine used, note what other work is being held up whilst the weighing and parcelling is being done.

Note how many customers leave your store because your clerks are too busy to serve them. Compare the weight turned out with the weight you paid for. You'll agree that I cent per lb. is a fair estimate of your loss in retailing sugar out of a barrel.

Lantic Sugar in yellow packages costs you less than I cent per lb. over the price in barrels and you don't have to guess at your cost. You know it.
