ENGLISH TEAM WON A GREAT INTERNATIONAL MATCH LAST NIGHT, UPSETTING ALL THE DOPE AND WINNING 2 TO 1

Game Was Watched by Largest Crowd of Season; English Team Scored Both Goals Within Half Hour After Start of Struggle, Which Kept Spectators on Tenterhooks all the Time

SCOTCHMEN LOOKED STRONGER AND WERE FAVORITES

English Forwards Played Long Passing Game, While Scotch Relied on Characteristic Short Ones; Luck Was Not With the Scotchmen; Most Exciting Game in History of Local Football

(By George Taylor)

THE games between Calles and Hillhurst are pretty keen but for real excitement an international game between the Scotch and the English players in the City League cannot be beaten. Last evening the contest of 1912 was played off at Hillhurst park and the largest crowd seen on that enclosure gathered excepting, of course, the Corinthian game, when four thousand people were present, the English winning by two goals to one.

Last night there were quite fifteen hundred spectators, the Soccer league clearing close to $120.00 and charging only a fifteen cent gate, whilst the Hillhurst club, taking the whole of the grand stand receipts, gathered in over $500.00. In addition there was a large number of ladies and members present and fifteen hundred is not an exaggerated estimate by any means.

Perfect Football Weather

The night was perfect for the game. Some of the players were a little late in appearing and at 7.30, the hour at which the game was scheduled to begin, England were minus Dickenson and Rackham and Scotland were wondering who was to keep goal for them. Gilhooley not having made his appearance, but they all turned up and the ball was kicked off at a quarter to eight.

Both teams were cheered loudly as they took the field, England wearing all white, and Scotland the blue and white of Scotland.

Three Scots Missing

There was some disappointment when it was seen that Scotland were without three of their selected men: Melville, Petrie and Nesbitt. The man most missed was Petrie at left half. McGarrachie was put right back in place of Melville and McLean inside right. Nesbitt and both of these men played very fine games, and it is doubtful if the men originally selected could have done better.

Thompson of Neilson's was the substitute for Petrie and whilst he played a good game, still he was not as effective or finished as Jimmy would have been.

Englishmen All There

England to a man turned out as selected. On paper the teams looked very uneven, the Scotch seemingly having an unbeatable eleven. Before the game Sandy Strang was very confident but at the same time he thought they would have to fight hard if they were to carry off the honors.

Art Wakelyn smiled and said every man on his team were out to win if they could but if they lost they would not be to blame for not having tried. It was in this spirit that the teams took the field.

The game started off in fast fashion, and the Scotch got into the English quarters, their forwards showing some pretty passing. But Hills and Dickenson were in form and repulsed them. A pretty pass from Fish to Rackham gave the Post office man a nice chance to centre, but he ran the ball a little too far and finally put it into the goal.

Two dangerous centres from the winners of the Scottish team were got away, and then the English left wing got going. Foley putting a pretty cross to Stan Wakelyn. The centre was too well covered to do anything, and he headed the ball out to the right for Rackham to run in and score the first goal for England ten minutes after the kick off.

Lo J. cheering greeted this early success of the season, which was just as unexpected as it was welcome to the followers of the Ross. Some say it was an act of God, but Referee Nesbitt was in a good position to judge and he says it was a perfectly legitimate point.

From end to end the ball was rushed, and the Scotch forced a corner, which was grandly placed by Stewart, Sutton saving at the expense of another flag kick from the other side, and Wylie placed this in front of goal, Johnston heading over.

England scores No. 2. Then came the second goal for England. Foley got the ball and put it well forward in the centre of the field. Stan Wakelyn and Cooper racing after it, Wakelyn managed to elude his opponent, and running alone he had only thirty yards to beat and he made no mistake.

Two goals ahead for England, and all inside half an hour, was a new experience for the side. "This thing

BRONKS DID THEMSELVES OF BIG BUNCH OF RUSTY ERRORS WHICH HAVE BEEN ACCUMULATING FOR SOME TIME

Local Ball Players Didn't Select Very Good Time for a Big League Scout Was on the Job and He Saw the Deers Wallop Locals by 13 to 4

When, in the course of human events, there comes a time when a baseball club has accumulated in its system, without letting go of them, enough errors and blunders to cause a catastrophe, there is sure to be a blow up. That's just what happened last night at the local ball yard. The Bronks have been traveling along, playing top notch and practically errorless ball for so long that there was something due to happen. And it did happen. The score was 13 to 4 not in favor of the Bronks.

The aforementioned and aforementioned time should have coincided with the arrival in the city of a major league scout can only be chalked down to poor luck. But such was the case. The Bronks have put up some pretty punk exhibitions of baseball this year, but they mostly all came in the early part of the season. For a considerable time they have apparently forgotten how to play that kind of ball, but last night—quick, Watson, the needle—seven fuscous and juicy errors were chalked up by the men in the cage behind home plate. As if this were not enough to lose any respectable game, Big Bill Barenkamp was as wild as a Saskatchewan coyote. In addition to this was the inability of Bunnie Bunstine to hold on to the ball when he was on bases, as well as on several other occasions which did him harm.

The most unfortunate part of it was that Bohile Gilkes, who is scouting for Charlie Summers, the Cleveland mogul, was specially keen about looking over Big Bill with the intention of sending him at least part way up if he showed the goods. For he is known that Cleveland is not the only club in which Summers is interested. He is known to have a controlling interest in the Toledo club of the American Association, the Portland club of the Pacific Coast and the New Orleans club of the South.

All that the scout would say after the game was "rotten" and that in brief described the game. However, he intends staying for a few more days to see if there are not a few bright spots in the local club. But, disgusted as Gilkes must have been at the performance of the local boys, he could not complain very much about the way that the visitors performed. Charlie's bunch played in errorless fashion behind every dunn. They took advantage of every slip made by the locals and played fast, snappy ball. The Bronks outted them, but good fielding prevented the Bronks from getting better than four runs off ten hits, four of which were of the extra base variety.

The details of the affair are too sad to relate. Suffice it to say that the Bronks never had even a look-in to victory. The Deers got four right hits, and by a process of artificial progression added to that start until at the last they had thirteen safe rallies across the plate.

The Hopton Grand Aggregate is the total of the Bass, the Edge, the Walgrave, the Wimbledon, the Halford Memorial and the Albert, all long range matches, the distances varying from 900 to 1,100 yards.

Corp. Mortimer, of Quebec, using a Ross Rifle, has won the Hopton Grand Aggregate with a record score.

The next five places in this aggregate were also won by marksmen using Ross Rifles and Ross Ammunition.

In the "Bass" the first six shot Ross Rifles and ammunition. In the "Edge" the first four shot Ross Rifles and Ammunition.

In the "Wimbledon" the first four shot Ross Rifles and Ammunition. In the "Walgrave" the 2nd and 3rd used Ross Rifles and Ammunition.

In 1911 the Hopton Grand Aggregate, as well as 1st place in the Bass, the Edge, the Halford Memorial and the Wimbledon, were also captured with Ross Rifles.

This triumph at Bisley, confirming previous years' results, classes the Ross Match Rifle as the champion of all long-range rifles in the British Empire—and probably, therefore, in the world.

Sportsmen who seek an accurate and high power arm will be glad to know that the Ross 280 High Velocity Rifle has the same barrel and breech as the military match rifle, which only differs from it in the sights and style of stock. Its low trajectory and reliability have made the Ross a favorite in India with big game hunters.

LEANDER REVERSED HENLEY VERDICT, DEFEATING AUSTRALIANS

Great Race at the Olympic Games; British Success Popular

Stockholm, July 19.—Leander reversed the Henley verdict by beating the Australians in the final of the 1500 metre race at the Olympic games. The British success was popular. It was a magnificent race between the Leander eight and the Australian eight, the latter
