CROWN JEWELS TO BE SHOWN AGAIN

Intricate Mechanism All About Strong Room Where They Are.

London, Nov. 24.—Once more visitors will be able to gaze upon the English crown jewels and regalia in the Wakefield tower of the Tower of London. It is about nine months since the jewels were removed in a plain four-wheeled cab to a secret hiding place while their own famous room was converted into the most elaborate burglar-proof apartment in the United Kingdom.

Since the Dublin crown jewels mysteriously disappeared from Dublin Castle some three years ago the authorities have felt uncomfortable about the Tower regalia, but the intricate mechanism that has now been installed would defy a Raffles or an Arsene Lupin.

Strongly Guarded.
The jewels are in a strong room of steel and stone. The glass case enclosing them is protected above by a thick steel dome and below by solid steel bars, steel shutters and two rings of armor plate 12 inches thick. The floor is of concrete several feet thick. The displacement of a single bar would automatically bring down steel shutters which would entirely enclose the regalia in a tomb of steel. At the same time electric alarm gongs would ring, the thick steel doors at the entrance to the room would close, and in less than thirty seconds a guard of soldiers would surround the room.

The return of the jewels was as unostentatious as their departure. On Monday morning a van with "H. M. Stationery Office" on it made its way through the gates and immediately behind was a taxicab in which sat Earl Spencer, the lord chamberlain. The van did not contain stationery, but a few millions worth of jewels. The most valuable of all, the Cullinan diamonds, Earl Spencer carried in his pockets.

For Older Jewels.
The place of honor in the new jewel fortress is occupied by the royal crown which was originally made for Queen Victoria's coronation, when the chief jewels were taken from older crowns and the royal collection. Among them in the centre of the Maltese cross is the great ruby given to the Black Prince by Peter the Cruel after the battle of Navarre in 1267, and worn by Henry V. in the crown encircling his helmet at the battle of Agincourt.

The crown was enlarged and brightened for the coronation of the late King, and then contained 2,818 diamonds, 237 pearls and many other jewels, the whole weighing 33 ounces 5 pennyweight. It has lately been again somewhat altered. The large oblong Cullinan diamond, weighing 309 carats, being attached in front. For the new arrangement two sapphires, fifty-six brilliants and fifty-two rose diamonds have been added. The smaller "drop" cut from the original stone is now at the head of the royal sceptre.

Both the "Stars of Africa," as the large twin Cullinan diamonds have been renamed by the King, are detachable and can be worn as pendants by the Queen.

BIG INCREASE

Mails Are 32 Per Cent Greater as Result of New Rate.

London, Nov. 24.—The mails from England to the United States are heavier by 32 per cent since the postage was reduced to two cents, says the postmaster-general's annual report which has just appeared. Among the mass of facts and figures given by the report, another notable feature is that Londoners are now writing fewer letters and are using the telephone more. For the first time a decrease is noted in the number of letters passing through the metropolitan postoffice. The report gives a striking instance of British absentmindedness, the mild temporary insanity which makes people drop unaddressed letters in mail boxes or send half-wrapped parcels that shed their contents in the mails. These stray letters contained in all $75,635 in cash and bank notes and $1,162,525 in checks, drafts and stamps. The British telegraph and postoffice telephone services, which are also controlled by the postmaster-general, are still run at a loss, the deficit on the former being $5,081,835 and on the latter $259,925, but the profit of $24,547,725 made on the postal service results in a balance of $19,101,925.

CAN'T TAKE SEAT.
Ottawa, Nov. 24.—The official returns of the Drummond-Arthurs election not having been received, the new National member, Mr. Gilbert, is not able to take his seat in the House of Commons. The return is several days overdue.

WEDDING CELEBRATION.
Kingston, Nov. 24.—An interesting event last night was the celebration of the 60th wedding anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. William Arneil, a venerable couple resident on Gore street. Though over 80 years of age, both are in fair health.

CORRESPONDENCE

A Reply to Rev. T. B. Clark.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of goodwill." The above was the hymn and proclamation with which the birth of the Son of God and of the Blessed Virgin Mary was announced to man. And I believe that every man standing forth as a minister of God and ambassador of our Divine Lord and only Savior, Jesus Christ, is recreant to the office he holds if he prostitutes his pulpit to stir up strife or the angry passions of man. A preacher is a teacher, and for his every word as such is responsible to God. If a preacher by slander, misrepresentation or exaggeration, appeals to words or deeds of violence, or stirring up bad feeling, he is morally responsible to God and man. The house of God should be the place for praise, prayer, adoration and thanksgiving to the Almighty God.

A Catholic priest is ordained to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ, to administer the sacraments, and to offer up the holy sacrifice for the living and the dead. I can remember back for 55 years, and never have I heard from a priest or bishop, old Catholic or convert, one harsh word against non-Catholics. Our teachings are for peace, goodwill, concord, brotherly love, unity. Our priests will never teach us falsehood, slander, or misrepresent the beliefs of those outside the church, or appeal to ignorance, narrow-mindedness or prejudice, to build us up in our faith, or to stir us up against our neighbor, whom we are taught to love and help for God's sake, and for the sake of our own souls and the souls of others. We are taught to hate false doctrine, but to love and pray for those in error. We are taught not to cherish in our hearts unkind thoughts or feelings, or to attempt toward others—"out of the fullness of the heart, the tongue giveth utterance."

But, Mr. Editor, Catholics are mortal, as well as immortal. We are human, not divine. And to err is mortal, not divine. As we are human, we cannot always control our thoughts and feelings. Evidently, we may, hot indignation, resentment, scorn and contempt, will struggle for the mastery when we read such wild outpourings as those of the Rev. T. B. Clark on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 6. Such a tirade of abuse and misrepresentation, such an appeal to the worst of passions, creed and race, such an appeal to ignorance, bigotry and prejudice is a reproach to the man and a desecration of the day and the place, if he regards his church as the house which should be as the very gate of heaven. "It is written: 'My house shall be the house of Prayer,' but this man turned it into a political hustling and delivered a tirade more befitting a hired politician than a man of God. It was an indication of what filled his heart and seethed in his brain. It was as the ravings of a mad man, or the barking of an idiot, or the barking of a dog."

As I read and reread that sermon it seemed to be the outbreak of a fanatical Turk, proclaiming a holy war, or the wild ravings of a Hindu, or a Boxer leader. It recalled what I have read of the Lord George Gordon, the old London and other parts of England—the Know Nothing Riots in New York and the New England States. This sermon (?) brought back the days when the "no popery" horse was trotted out at almost every election in this Province, when Mere-hew, the leader of the Conservatives, in the "Know Nothing" days, and of how Protestant preachers went on the platforms, and took into their churches to abuse Catholic doctrines and practices, bishops, priests and nuns, that shameless liar, forger, drunkard and prostitute (as she was called in the court at Toronto), the woman who called herself Margaret L. Shepherd.

What caused this outbreak of Brother Clark? Had some Catholic given him a pin-prick in return for a sword thrust? Or was he puffed up with conceit and spiritual pride? Or had he his eyes fixed on the chair of the grand sovereign of the Orangemen of British North America?

Rev. Brother Clark starts his sermon by telling the congregation that the building in which he is called "St. John's." They knew that. But he added a most unnecessary insinuation when he added, "But the saints are not worshipped here." Yet that church was erected in honor of all the saints, who, every one of them, were children of that church of which the Pope is the head. No, the holy servants of God are the saints, loved, honored, venerated or their prayers invoked, in Mr. Clark's church, and if any one of the saints descended from heaven to London, the crowd, the throng, the multitude that saint only till he or she looked inside. No second look would be needed. But seeing the crowds over at St. Mary's, the saint would hurry over, look in, and with his eyes open, say, "Ah, I know this place! This is my home." But this man, by the use of the word "worshiped" meant to convey the idea that the saints of God are adored, that supreme love and worship we give to God, the Living Lord, and Creator of all. That we, the children of the one holy catholic and apostolic church render to the Creator alone, which belongs to the Creator alone. Non-Catholics seem to have no idea of a difference in love, reverence, veneration and adoration.

Then this man cries out, "Do you believe in the supremacy of the Bishop of Rome?" "Do you believe in the papal infallibility?" "Do you believe in the papal immaculate conception?" No, Mr. Clark, you know those who heard you do not believe those grand and very necessary doctrines, and more than you do, as they know just as much about them as you do, or as you know about the incarnation of the Son of God. If you really did understand and believe the immaculate conception of Mary, and call her Blessed and Holy Mother of God. Strange, but true, but during the week of the great contest in Montreal, a non-Catholic preacher shouted out the three above questions, in the self-same order as Brother Clark. This, dear brother, the Loyal (?) Orange Order says: "We will have one school and one language." Ah, I have heard that cry 36 years back. These are the very words of Leader Meredith. How strange! But, Mr. Editor, the Catholics, the good and true people outside the Catholic Church and throughout Canada, and the Parliament of Great Britain, have a little, just a little, to say on that point. I have no doubt in my mind, judging Mr. Clark by his words, that he would like to do with our schools what the enemies of God and man have done in France, and are trying to do in Italy, Portugal and Spain—that is, drive God and his Christ out of our schools in Canada. No chance, Chappie, dear.

Then, upon whose or what authority does this right worthy brother make the statement "that there is a syndicate with millions of money formed to buy up the land, and drive the Protestants back in the four eastern counties of this province? What rot! What nonsense! Let the Protestant preachers and Protestants lay men and women not interfere with the natural results of marriage, but obey the divine command to increase and multiply. Let the babies come into the world; or do not complain because God is giving possession of the land into the hands of those who glory in being the joyful and fruitful parents of many children.

Bro. Clark says that ten years back there were in the city of Quebec 17,000 non-Catholics; now there are only 5,000. So then 12,000 have left the city, or died out through decrease of births amongst them, or horror of horrors have come into the Catholic Church. Now this reminds me that several months back a Baptist preacher of Montreal informed us in a letter which appeared in The Advertiser that tens of thousands of the Catholics of Quebec were flocking into the various Protestant sects.

Bro. Clark cries out, "Look at France, Italy, Portugal, Spain." Yes, look with sorrow and shame, not with joy and gladness. What we see going on in those countries, dear Bro. C., is the natural, legitimate result of the teachings of such men as yourself—the agents of the Protestant mission societies. And the same game is being played in England, Ireland, Quebec, New Ontario, and the western provinces. Will Bro. Clark tell us what part or parts of Spain is or are Protestant; how many Protestants there are in Spain, and what they are there for? This Christian minister tells us to look at the material wealth of Protestant countries as a proof of God's favor and the truth of Protestantism. So he is a materialist. This humble follower of the Telling Carpenter of Nazareth cries, "Look at England!" Well, if time and space permitted, I might take a look at England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Germany, and go into the subject as to what Protestantism has and has not done for the people. I could tell a good deal as to where the Protestants got a very large part of their wealth from, and how they got it. But, as a Catholic, I would wish to let bygones be bygones. I would let the dead past bury the dead, with all its bitterness. I would wish to think of the present, and to build wisely and well for the future.

Pity cannot the non-Catholic preachers leave us alone, and go after the vice and crime, cruelties, oppression and drunkenness, cursing, swearing and irreverence which abounds on every hand? Why do they not go after those preachers and professors in their own churches who are doing the work of hell by their attacks upon the Holy Bible? If Rev. T. B. Clark, and the Orangemen, will read, "Just Weights and Measures," by Rev. Charles Thorndyke (English Church Theologian), Macaulay's, Froude's, Lingard's Histories of England, Cobden's History of the Protestant Reformation, his letters to the ministers of England, and his letters to the people of England; Mitchell's History of Ireland, the Viceroy's of Ireland, and the Confessions of Ireland. They will learn something that will do them good. Asking pardon for intruding, I am respectfully,

AN ENGLISH-CATHOLIC LAYMAN.

ALLEGED FRAUDS EXCEED MILLIONS

Postmaster Hitchcock Says the Operations in Knight Case Were Heavy.

[Associated Press.]
Washington, Nov. 24.—Commenting on the arrest yesterday by postoffice inspectors of John W. Knight, senior member of the cotton brokerage firm of Knight, Yancey & Co., Decatur, Ala., Postmaster Hitchcock today gave out a statement in which he says that the operations of this concern through the alleged fraudulent use of the mails would doubtless exceed a million dollars.

The alleged fraud was committed, he says, by the use of bogus bills of lading, covering fictitious shipments.

How They Were Found.
Mr. Hitchcock declares that transactions of Knight, Yancey & Co. were similar to those of another concern of Corinth, Miss., whose members were recently indicted on evidence procured by postoffice inspectors. The postmaster-general's statement further alleges that "the new investigation developed that the two concerns had an arrangement by which they exchanged drafts, each holding power of attorney for the other to accept such drafts, and that together they committed frauds aggregating between two and three million dollars."

Mr. Hitchcock refers also to the operations of Sandels, Griffin & Co. of Cleveland, the principals of which concern were arrested yesterday by postoffice inspectors for alleged fraudulent use of the mails in selling oil stock through misrepresentation.

"The successful development of certain legitimate oil projects during the past year has been taken advantage of by some promoters to defraud the public through the sale of stocks in wild-cat oil companies," says the statement. "Investigations recently made have disclosed the fact that the mails are being extensively used in these operations."

KISSES BABY AND SKIPS WITH $260

New York Burglar "Hypnotizes" the Father and Holds Up Whole Family.

New York, Nov. 24.—"He said he liked my looks. He kissed the baby, shook hands with all the family and then helped himself to $200 worth of jewelry. And me sitting on the kitchen chair without the power of my legs and so sleepy and happy it seemed all right."

"Do you think you were hypnotized?" asked the incredulous police lieutenant. James Ammonne did not know, but he was sure he had been robbed and when his whole family backed up his narrative and agreed with him in giving an accurate description of the robber, detectives were put on the case. Early today they arrested Herman Hafers, who was identified by Mrs. Ammonne. He denied the charge.

The whole family of twelve insist that after their visitor shook hands with them and looked them once in the eye they had no volition of their own. They say he gained admission by representing himself as an insurance agent.

A GREAT STATION

Montreal's Will Have a Sixteen-Story Tower 280 Feet in Height.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—It was stated at the C. P. R. yesterday that the new annex now being built at the Windsor street headquarters would have a sixteen-story tower, rising 280 feet from the foundations to the top of the flag-staff. Rapid progress is being made on the work, and over a thousand tons of structural steel have already been riveted up. Five hundred men are engaged, and steel is being placed at the rate of 300 tons a week. Work will continue all winter, and it is expected that the steel will be finished by April, when the stonework will be started. It is expected that the whole work will be finished by the end of 1912, when the station will be one of the very big railway terminals of the world.

Orrine Cured Him of DRUNKENNESS

Her Husband Now Spends His Evenings at Home.

She bought Orrine from the druggist in her home town—she bought it after reading the Orrine Free Booklet. In the Booklet she read of the wonderful cures of drunkenness which were accomplished by the aid of Orrine. On page ten of the Booklet she read the liberal guarantee to refund all money paid for Orrine if it failed to effect a cure. After reading the Booklet she became convinced that Orrine was a remedy of unusual merit. She decided to purchase it and cure her husband of drunkenness. Orrine cured him. Now she is a happy wife in a happy home. Orrine helped to purchase the home. Read the following letter from Walter K. Schmidt, Co., 84 Canal street, Grand Rapids, Mich.: "For a number of years we have been agents for Orrine. During that time we have had occasion to be convinced, beyond a doubt, that Orrine is a reputable remedy, worthy of recommendation. One of the many cases coming to our attention, a mechanic earning $2.20 per week, who had not taken a full pay envelope home for over five years, was induced to try Orrine, a complete cure being the result. The man became worth more to his firm, receiving an advance in pay, and has purchased a home. The house stands there showing the merits of Orrine. We cannot help but feel that we were most fortunate when we secured the agency for this reliable liquor cure."

Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orrine costs only $1 a box. The guarantee is in each box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orrine Company, 577 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. Orrine is for sale in this city by W. T. Strong, 184 Dundas street. They know Orrine is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness, and they will not offer you a substitute.
