SOUTHERN HIGH ROLLER PROTECT NAVVIES SUICIDES ON BROADWAY

> by a Strange Shooting Tragedy.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Aug. 21.—That part of Broadway known as the Riaite was the scene of another strange shooting early today when a young man, registered at a local hotel as A. W. Rogers, of Jacksom, Miss., suddenly remarked to a young woman with whom he had spent the evening:

"You go along. I'm tiged of this thing. I'm going to kill myself."

As the girl fied, Rogers drew a heavy calibre revolver and sent a bullet through his brain. Pedestrians thought another Rosenthal shooting was in progress.

The police believe the name Rogers was an assumed one, for on the man's watch fob were the initials "A. W. Y.," and the same initials were engraved on his cuff links. Rogers came here about a month age. He was evidently a man of means, for much jewelry and a large roll of bills was found on his clothing.

The girl teld the police that Rogers had torn the labels out of his hat "and coat during the evening.

There were guns, in fact hundreds of them, toted into the limit last night, but their use was confined to poor family remain as evidence of the night's activities. It speaks high-ly for the law-abiding tendency of the prospectors of the north country that a concerted effort was made to observe the law that forbade staking inside the portion thrown open this morning before the time limit had expired. Hired Special Train. One of the sensational features of the staking in Gillies Limit was the of the special train which Manager B. Neally, of the Penn Canadian Mines, had arranged for to make the staking and other matters connected run to Halleybury. Mr. Neally stated with the ownership of the claims.

Cobalt, Aug. 20.—The great rush has come and gone, and will go down into history as the midnight rush when the fiat of Hon. W. H. Hearst converted the sylvan fastness of the Gillies Limit later than the sylvan fastness of the Gillies Limit later than the had taken the precaution to have a watch which was absolutely correct, and which could not get out of order, and that he started staking at exactly 12 o'clock. He was assisted by Gordon Summers, one of the most experienced and efficient surveyors in the sylvan fastness of the Gillies Limit experienced and efficient surveyors in into a miniature Coney Island, with Northern Ontario, and a number of flashing lights, an illuminated lake, trustworthy men. It took Mr. Neally and the noises of all descriptions that properly, and in a strictly legal man-combine to form the summer resort ner. As Mr. Neally is a mining man of the Tenderloin. Predictions were of experience, there is little probabil-rife that the midnight rush into Gillies ity that anyone could have properly staked a claim in any quicker time. He rushed to his special train, which was waiting near the scene, and the run for Haileybury was on. The railway had taken every precaution to give the best service possible, and the train went over the line at probably a faster rate than any engine has ever moved over the Tem-islaming and Northern Ontario Rail-way, and there was but a brief halt at Cobalt to let a freight angine pull out of the way. The special ran into Haileybury at a rate little short of a night, but their use vas conned to signalling. Not one sanguinary incident occurred during the night, and the ground is still unstrewn with corpses, although sufficient stakes to provide winter's firewood for many a suddence of time could be made.
