

9.2 CONCLUSION

Reaching out for foreign capital and partners is part of the process of adapting to the new global marketplace and it is a logical strategy for growth for many Canadian companies. Your first mission abroad can be an important milestone in the development of your company. Its success is much more likely when preceded by careful planning of the kind described here.