

Treaties, Agreements and Memoranda of Understanding

Agreements between Canada and Israel continue to be established which contribute to the development and benefit of both countries. As Canada and Israel move forward and strengthen our political, economic, social and cultural ties, benefits accrue to both countries. Social security, reciprocal assistance on criminal matters, telecommunications, military relations, industrial research and development, space exploration and culture have all been strengthened through bilateral agreements.

- 1 Visiting soldiers in the hospital (A. Bronfman/Israeli Six Day War, visiting soldiers in the hospital), 1967.
Source: Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (PC05/2/48a.7)
- 2 Women visiting building dedicated to Hadassah Wizo organization.
Source: Library and Archives Canada (Purchased)
- 3 Avigdor Liberman, Israeli Foreign Minister.
Source: Embassy of Israel
- 4 Mr. Chaim Gouri, Israeli poet, meeting with students from the United Jewish Teachers' Seminary, sponsored by the Canadian Jewish Congress (CJC), in Montreal, as reported in the Congress Bulletin of April 1966. Standing from left to right: Dr. Samuel Lewin of CJC, Mr. Chaim Ghouri, Mr. Usher Wilcher (director of Kerem Hetarbut) and Mr. M. Magid, teacher of the class.
Source: Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada (PC-01/3/54a.1 UJTS/C GHOURI)
- 5 Wheelchairs donated to the Israel Foundation for Infantile Paralysis from the National Congress of Jewish Women of Canada.
Source: Canadian Jewish Congress Charities Committee National Archives (PC 03/1/28c)
- 6 Steve MacLean, President, Canadian Space Agency.
Source: Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada

"The borderless and captivating field of space must be pursued in partnership with other countries who share common objectives. Space relations between Canada and Israel—past, present and future—remain firmly rooted in a mutual desire to bring the benefits that much closer to our citizens as well as to all of humanity."

— Steve MacLean, President, Canadian Space Agency

