

In the field of development co-operation, the earlier decision of the Canadian government to suspend co-operation in the nuclear field and to concentrate its aid to India during the current year largely in the food and agricultural areas is being maintained.