320 CHRONOLOGICAL ANNALS

In 1761, it was stipulated that the Subjects of France should exercise their Cod-Fishery on a Part of the Coasts of Newfoundland and in the River St. Laurence, according to the Tenor of the 13th Article of the Treaty of Utrecht, abstaining from every other Part of the Coafts belonging to Great-Britain, whether of the Continent, or of the Islands. The Island of St. Pierre, without Fortifications, was to have been ceded to them for the fole Purposes of their own Fishery, subjected to the Refidence and Infpection of an English Commiffary. - The Island of Miguelon is now added to that of St. Pierre: The most Christian King's royal Word is preferred to the keeping of an English Commissary upon the Spot; but the French are not permitted to fifh within a certain specified Distance of our Coasts.

In 1761, the French demanded Akra and Anamaboo in Exchange for Gorée and Senegal; or Senegal in Exchange for Gorée. — Now they have obtained Gorée.

In 1761, we confented to treat of an equal Partition of the four neutral Iflands; but France infifted that Santa Lucia fhould be declared a Part of her Division. — Santa Lucia is now reftored to France, and the other three remain with Great-Britain.
