

this prize, but Messrs. Russell, Mackedie, Walsh, Anderson and Alexander, represented the Civil Service Corps, and won the cup, with the following score: Russell 11, Mackedie 15, Walsh 7, Anderson 10, and Alexander 8. Total 51 points.

The members of the Corps passed their evenings very pleasantly with their companions in arms, the "Victorias," and the companies of "regulars" on the Island were also an additional chance for the Volunteers to learn somewhat of life under canvas, its duties, and charms. The three days of the match were all that could be desired, and the return, on the Orleans steamer (some seven miles), to the old city of Quebec, singing popular songs and fraternizing generally, must ever be remembered with pleasure.

The presentation of the "Ladies Prize," took place at the Cavalry Riding School, Grand Allée, which presented a very lively spectacle on the evening of October the 17th. The interior of that lofty building—although plain and suitable for the purpose for which it was built—afforded great scope for decoration and arrangement; and this, I must say, had not been neglected. A large dais had been erected at one end for the members of the committee, gentlemen distributing prizes, and officers of the regular and volunteer force, among which were Hon. J. A. Macdonald, Judge McLean, and Cols. DeSalaberry, D.A.G.; Bean, R.A.; Bell, Vol. Cavalry; Boomer, Vol. Artillery; Sewell, Commanding Active Volunteer Force 7th Mil. District; Major Burstall, &c., &c.
