

CONTENTS—CANALS.

CONTINENT OF EUROPE.

BELGIUM.

Large canals, 79; small canals, 80, 81; length and ownership and expenses of canals, 82; tolls and efforts to cheapen transportation, 83. Meuse-Scheldt Canal, history of, 83; description, 84; rights of navigation, supervision, locomotion, and boats, 85. Turnhout-Antwerp Canal, description and tolls, 86; bureau of collection, towage, boats, telegraph, and freight, 87. Blaton Canal, water gauge, 87; water supply, navigation, and description, 88. Brussels Canal, water supply, towing, wharves, boats, and price of trips, 88; nature of transports and description, 89. Charleroi Canal, towing, transports, description, and navigation tax, 89. Mousme Canal, towing and navigation tax, 89; transports and description, 90. Pommerœul and Antoing Canal, towing, navigation tax, boats, description, 90. The Ourthe, Sambre Lys, Dyle, and Denner Canals, towing, boats, and description, 91. Antiquity of Belgian canals and time and manner of their construction, 91; Grand par Bruges à Ostende, Schipdonk, Plasschendaels à Nieuport, Lys River, Roulers à la Lys, and Boesnyt à Courtrai Canals, 92; Haut-Escant River, Dendre, Yzer River, Ypres à l'Yzer, Canal di Loo, Nieuport par Furnes, and Canal dit de Baccordement à Gand Canals, 93; extent and capacity of Belgian canals, 93, 94; canal traffic, 94, 95; management and effect in cheapening freight rates, 96, 97.

DENMARK.

Odense Canal, 97; Frederick the Seventh's Canal, statistics of, 98; irrigating canals, 99, 100.

FRANCE.

History of French canals, 100-104; statistics of French canals, 105, 106; the Donle, history and statistics of, 107-109; canals prior to the sixteenth century, 109; the feudal period, and boatmen's corporations, 110; canal grants; canals during the first steam navigation, 111; special appropriation of tolls, 112; grants and concessions; canal navigation, 113; census of canal boats, 114; towing from the bank, 115; compulsory towing, steam navigation, 116; grappels on the Rhine, cable towing, 117; canal vs. railway traffic, 117, 118; expenses of water ways, 119; canal revenue and expenditures, 120-122; the Forez (Irrigation) canal, description, 122; expense, working, sale of the water, mode of distribution, irrigation tables, 123; methods of irrigation, procedure, results of irrigation, 124; department of the Lozère; sources of water supply, character of works, 125; water distribution; climate and soil, 126; rainfall, 127. Canal of Tancarville, statistics of, 128-130; canal from Caen to the sea, statistics of, 130, 131; canal from Nantes to Brest, description and statistics of, 131, 132; canal vs. railway traffic, 133.

GERMANY.

German canals, importance, ownership, traffic, 133; administration and construction, 134; Rhine-Rhône canal, 135; Strasburg Canal system, 136-139; Breusch Canal, 139; Rhône-Marne Canal, 140-142; Saar Canal, 142, 143; Moselle Canal, 144; Nied Canal, 144, 145; statistics of the canals of Alsace-Lorraine, 146; canalized rivers, description and statistics of, 147-150; East Prussian canals, 150-153; West Prussia, 153.

GREECE.

The Corinth canals, 154, 155.

RUSSIA.

The Basin of the Volga, 155; canal to unite the Volga and Baltic Sea, 156; Marie system, 158; the Rybinsk Wharf, 160; the Vishniyolodsk system, 161; the Tikhvinsky system; Rybinsk and Bologoe Railway, 162; canal vs. railway transportation, 163; irrigating canals, 164; canals in Finland, 165.

SWEDEN.

Trollhättan Canal, 166; Göta Canal, 167-169.