PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC.

"It Happens to Everybody."
"It Happens to Everybody," a comedy by H. S. Sheldon, the author of "The Havoc," will be the attraction at the Princess the first part of this week, with a Wednesday matinee. Audiences are promised three hours of Audiences are promised three hours of fun and excitement in this most unusual play. William F. Muenster, who presents the play, has been fortunate in selecting a most capable cast. Jas. Gleason, who will be seen in the leading role, will be remembered for his delightful portrayal of "Checkers," that fascinating racing play of the same title. Other members of the cast are: W. P. Carleton, Josephine Stevens, Nila Mac, Frank Joyner, George B. Miller, Dorothy Allen, Olive Oliver, John Todd, Dorothy Hammock and Alfred Dayton. The play has been staged by Ira Hards.

The Hippedrome Show.

The William Fox all-star production, "The Calliaux Case," is billed as the headline attraction of a varied bill at Shea's Hippodrome this week. The picture tells in thrilling fashion the life and adventures of two of the most talked of characters in France in modern times—Joseph Calliaux and Bolo Pasha. It shows the even's which led up to arrest, conviction and execution tion of the arch-traitor, Pasha. The Bison City Four will offer a number of songs, both solo and quartet work, John Todd, Dorothy Hammock and Alfred Dayton. The play has been staged by Ira Hards.

William Faversham and Maxine Elliott.

A brilliant audience will witness the opening of the engagement of William Faversham and Maxine Elliott at the Royal Alexandra tonight, when they will be seen in R. C. Carton's sparkling English comedy, "Lord and Lady Algy." There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday of this week. The return of these famous players as co-stars is an event of unusual significance. Mr. Faversham has appeared there in many of his most successful plays, while Miss Elliott, before her retirement from the stage, was one of the most popular of all actresses who visited this city. "Lord and Lady Algy" tells of the marital troubles of Lord Algernon and Lady Chetland, who tho still loving each other, agreed to separate, but they find it very difficult to carry out this compact, and Carton in deft amd delightful fashion, tells the story of how they are reconciled, despite various incidents which threaten to cause their separation to reach the final and irrevocable state.

Matinee Today at Grand.

Guss Hill's merry minstries will open their week's engagement at the stage was proposed to the organism of exceptional merit, while Mason and Bradford are singing and dancing comedians. The Brads in a comedy knockabout act; Kenny, Mason and Scholl, a comedy variety novelty, and the Pathe News and comedy are also included in the holiday program.

At the Gayety.

An event of more than passing importance is the announcement of the next attraction at the Gayety Theatre are commencing today. It is known as "The Butterflies of Broadway" and presented by Sam Howe's Big Show, a high class production constituted and arranged on different which threater to cause their separation to reach the final and irrevocable state.

"Chu Chin Chew."

The seat sale for "Chu Chin Chow," the wonderful extravaganza of the Orient, which will be presented by William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, all next week at the Royal Alexandra, will open tomorrow (Tuesday) morning at the theatre box office.

"Chu Chin Chow" is said to be the biggest attraction ever sent on tour. It is in 14 scenes, it utilizes the services of 300 people, and the brilliant costumes and scenes were all created in London, exact duplicates of Mr. Asche's production now running there. "Chu Chin Chow" was an enormous success in New York, and has broken all records. The matinees will be as usual on Wednesday and Saturday.

secretary to a wealthy lady of languid interest in social reform. Polly accompanies her employer to a reform school for girls and discovers imprisoned there a girl she knows. She learns the truth thru the cell window and determines to expose the cruelty of the place herself. She consults a judge and he agrees to send her there for some trivial offence. Polly has hard work getting arrested, only to find herself confronted by an associate of the judge, who is seriously ill. It is too late. The young reformer has smashed a window and stolen a bunch of watches. She is made an example of and sent up for a term of three years. Her experiences are dreadful enough to gradually break her down, and the judge who was to have released her has died. Dorothy Gish is the heroine and she is supported by a capable company. This amusing and entertaining comedy commences today at the Allen.

The final important choral concert of the season will be that of the Paulist Choristers of New York, to be given in Massey Hall next Wednesday evening. This organization, which has been on tour for some time, giving within a year over 300 performances in aid of the French relief fund, has made in this way a remarkable record, and their offering here is one that should not be missed by those who love and appreciate unaccompanied choral music in its highest form of development. A splendid program has been arranged for this concert by Father Finn, the director, which includes secular and sacred works by the best composers including Bach. Rossini and Gounod among the sacred works and Dr. Vogt, Gardiner, Dett and others in secular numbers, and several solos by Masters Probst, McManus and Arthur George. The plan of seat's is now open at Massey Hall and good locations may still be secured.
