Perfectly Cured

Weak and Low Spirited - Nervous Prostration - Appetite Poor and Could Not Rest.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla to others. It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had heard it highly praised, and I um glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." G. BELLAMY, 321 Hannah St., West, Hamilton, Ontario. Remember

LONDON. Business has picked up considerably on the London cheese board, and it now looks as though all difficulty between buyers and sellers is a thing of the past. Three of the factorymen refused to sign the agreement, but they will likely find it to their interest to do so before the season closes. Saturday's sales amounted to 4.287 boxes, of which 795 boxes were white. The highest bid was 8%c, and the lowest 81/8c. The outlook for the season is good. Of-

In Connection With the Notorious Dreyfus Case.

Major Esterhazy Makes Important Admissions.

Dreyfus Said To Have Escaped From Devil's Island Two Years Ago, and the Prisoner Now Held is Only a Substitute.

A CONFESSION COMING.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19.-The Courier this morning has the following special cable from London: Major Esterhazy is about to make a full confession of his connection with the plot to disgrace

The major has been safely staying in London for some days. Shaving off his mustache was his only attempt at disguise, but this has proved sufficient, as his whereabouts remained undiscovered by private detectives, both English and French, who have been hunting him in the interest of the Dreyfus family. The major has authorized the following

"There is no longer any justice for me in my own country, and the time has arrived to make a full disclosure of the part I played in the Dreyfus affair. I intend to make this disclosure in the interest of truth, regardless of its result to Dreyfus personally. I can no longer allow myself to be made a scapegoat. The responsibility must be fairly distributed. Everything I did

to my superior officer. I am a professional soldier. I know no law but the law of absolute obedience to my superiors. If I were ordered to take a gun and shoot my own brother, I would do so without the slightest hesitation. I have now only my own honor to consider. My military chiefs have abandoned me. I owe them no further allegiance.

"You ask me if I was a spy, a secret agent, employed by the French military staff, to watch the attaches of foreign powers. I answer that I acted loyally under orders. My justification shall be made plain at the proper time, which is very near at hand.

You want to know whether my disclosures will clear Dreyfus. I answer that out of a thousand documents making up the Dreyfus-Dossier papers in the case, I know that six hundred are forged. I am prepared to show by whom and under what circumstances these forgeries were committed. Whether Dreyfus is the innocent his champions suppose remains to be seen. That can be safely left to the public to judge when they are in possession of all the facts."

HOW IS THIS?

New York, Sept. 19 .- A cable from London to the World says: George R. Sims, the playwright and journalist, has long maintained that Dreyfus was rescued from Devil's Island two years ago through the instrumentality of a French syndicate, organized to secure the liberation of prisoners in penal settlements who can pay heavily for their freedom.

Sims now says: "The real difficulty the French Government is in with regard to Dreyfus is to find him. When he was rescued from Devil's Island two years ago and a substitute was left in his place, the government officials, terrified at the outcry which would be raised in France, accepted the substi-

WHERE IS HE NOW?

"Dreyfus himself went to South America, where he is living under an assumed name. His wife dares not quit France to join him; that would mean a plot for his rearrest or assassination. Dreyfus does not yet feel sufficient confidence in the authorities and the French people to put his head in the lion's den. If Dreyfus ever returns to take a new trial, you may be sure his acquittal will have been guaranteed beforehand." ENGAGED AS A SPY.

David Christie Murray publishes in the Morning Chronicle today a long story regarding the Dreyfus affair. The author vouches for the truth of the story, but declares that he cannot disclose the cources from which he got his information. The article states in effect that Dreyfus was engaged as a spy in the employment of a secret department of the French army against those suspected of trafficking with Germany and other powers. The Pacific was coming out from Kagawong; the Jones was going in. She was struck by the Pacific on the forward port bow. She immediately started to settle, and sank in about eight minutes. Only three passengers and crew were on board, all of whom were saved and taken on board the Pacific to Gore Bay. THE BRIDGEPORT MURDER MYS-TERY.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 19.-Inquiry made today in connection with the latest phase of the Bridgeport murder mystery paves the way for the conclusion that the girl, who was afforded shelter in the Home for Associated Charities of Bridgeport, by Matron Gibbons, and who has been considered as possibly the victim in the mysterious tragedy, was in error when she connected Rev. Father W. J. Slocum, of Waterbury, with her case.

According to the statements of those connected with the home in Bridgeport, the girl stated that she had been sent to a New York convent from South Norwalk, and that Father Slocum, then in that city, was instrumental in placing her in that convent.

Father Slocum, when seen today, says so far as he can remember, when in South Norwalk but one girl was sent to any convent from that city. He added that Rev. J. H. O'Donnell, now his assistant, now of Watertown, had that girl in charge, Moreover, the girl who was placed in the convent has since married, and has been a member of the Notre Dame congregation in Wa terbury. Father Slocum further annihilates the theory that the former Couth Norwalk girl may have been the Bridgeport victim by stating that he has heard from her within three days.

MAN'S ODD NIGHT HABIT.

What We Unconsciously Do to Insure Quick Visit of Sleep.

What is the first thing you do after the lights are out and you have retired for the night?" asked the physician who is fond of psychological investigation.

'Try to sleep, of course," I replied. 'Is it a riddle?' "No," said he, "but I want you to tell me what little trick you resort to-what particular disposition of your anatomy you make in order to woo the dream god?' I failed to answer satisfactorily, so, with a gratified smile, the physician continued: "I scarcely expected you would know. In fact, there are few persons who can tell off hand just what positions they assume to invite sleep, and yet there is not an individual in the world who has not some favorite, esoteric little plan, some trick of distributing limbs and trunk, to insure slumber's blissful spell which he practices unconsciously. This is a night habit, as perpetual and immutable under normal conditions as the succession of the seasons. "No sooner are we really off for the land of nod than the night habit asserts its dominion. Our hands and arms seek the same parts of the bed or the same portions of our bodies upon which they have nightly rested since infancy, our feet and legs stretch at the same angles or loosely entwine in comfortable relaxation, as commanded by unconscious will. It is seldom of our own deliberate volition that we place our bodies in position for sleep, as you will find tonight on going to bed if you remember my words. In truth, if you do not seek to combat the inclinations of your mysterious instincts you will be surprised at the disposition of the various members involuntarily made. "If you endeavor to go to sleep by a new arrangement of the body and limbs, you will also be surprised by the revolt against slumber which will surely ensue, but even before the struggle is well begun you will probably surrender and permit the all masterful night habit to reinstate those little details of position which long practice has made necessary to your comfort."-New York Herald.

MOTHER OF SHIPS.

The Ark Was the First Vessel Within Ha-

man Sympathy. The ark is the first ship, then, to appeal to human sympathy. Let her be called the mether of ships. Though we need not toe ariously consider her, it is a strange fact nevertheless that the dimensions of this ship, taking the cubit about 18 inches, correspond very nearly with the proportions of a sailing ship of today. Her bur den was 15,000 tons. The Great Eastern was 7,000 tons larger than the ark. Noah when he laid his keel designed with strict reference to the animals and to the living sheets of water that were to descend from the heavens. He would have need to build with great caution nevertheless, for unless animals were stalled a sudden panic among them would occasion a dangerous "list. Noah seems to have provided against this by building his extraordinary stables upon a gigantic spoon shaped hull. He required neither sails nor helm. When the ark was once awash, she lifted easily to the tremendous weight of rain and floated off into the gray vapors of steam, which rose hissing midway to heaven from the fierce stroke of God's pitiless storm. Sir Thomas Browne, a genius of gleriously quaint imaginations, who saw things, as Coleridge puts it, by the light of the halo of genius that shone about his head, wonders whether Noah might not have been the first man that compassed the globe. "Since." says he. "if the flood covered the whole earth and no lands appeared to hinder the current. Noah must be carried with the wind and current according to the sun, and so in the space of the deluge might even make the tour of the globe. And since, if there were no continent of America, and all that tract sea, a ship setting out from Africa without help would at last fall upon some part of India or China."-Pall Mall Magazine

A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I we reduced to such a state that I doubt the power of any remedy to do me good.
