WORK'S GREAT EXTENSION

Rescue Department Grown Steadily Here Since Inauguration 27 Years Ago.

Plans for the erection of the new Salvation Army Maternity Hospital, for which $35,000 has been collected from to citizens of London, were completed today, with the arrival of Brigadier Go Miller of Toronto, the Salvation Army architect. The contract was awarded Saturday and work staris this week.

Adjutant F. W. Martin has been in charge of the work of securing the necessary funds for the erection of the hospital since it was decided by officials of the Salvation Army and certain prominent men of the City, that an addition to the present rescue hospital was required. Altogether $40,000 has been collected, which besides the erection of the addition will provide for new equipment and renovation of the present rescue home.

equipment and renovation of the present rescue home.

A grant of $5,000 was secured from the city and about $5,000 more was contributed by other municipalities of the district. The remainder represents donations from private individuals.

The cost of maintenance is expected to be covered to a large extent by money derived from the maternity section of the hospital which will occupy one floor of the building.

For 27 years the Salvation Army has looked after rescue work of the city. The original rescue home was a cottage built and maintained by the army and situated on Dundas street. The building was found inadequate for the increased number of occupants, and the O'Brien homestead of Riverview avenue was secured about fifteen years ago. Since then many additions have been rected, $12,000 being devoted for its enlargement last year.

During the last decade, rescue work carried out by the hospital has reached large proportions, and many young women added after being taken to the home through the efforts of the Salvation Army.

Postoffice Department Here Has Already Secured Close to 200 Replies, With Service Reports in Minority.

Reports for service, and claims for exemptions under the military service act, are flowing in from all points of Military mption or a report for service.

The claims for exemption up to the present predominate by a slight percentage.

The postoffice inspector's department is busy today taking a record of the originals. These will be placed Tuesday morning in the hands of Deputy Registrar W. E. Wismer.

The latter's department will then notify each man what action he must take.

The postoffice inspector's department will in future record the forms received each day and the day following turn them over to the deputy registrar's department.

Quite a number of the claims for exemption are from farmers, who will seek exemption from service on the grounds that their benefit to the country as food producers would be more in the interest of the nation than fighters.

With the official issue of the military service act proclamation Saturday every male Canadian between the age of 20 and 34 became a soldier. Every man eligible under the first draft—20-34 and unmarried—is liable, irrespective of his whereabouts or physical condition. Obviously those who are listed as "unfit" by the medical boards are to be exempt, but the exemption does not interfere in any way with a man's eligibility for service. Even hopeless invalids and eligibles who are now seriously ill are as much under the act as those who can pass the medical board with a rating of A2. In the case of men now ill, there is a possibility that they may be granted a temporary exemption, which will have to be applied for by some relative or friend, and come up for examination later when they are in a position to personally report.

Milital Not Exempt.

Members of the Canadian militia, other than those units which are part of the Canadian expeditionary forces, come under the same regulations as civilians. District orders issued here today make this ddubly clear. Those officers who volunteer to serve in the ranks will be given preference over those who merely wait for the call.

The official orders on the subject say: (A) Status of Militial Officers. Non-Commissioned Officers and Men, Under the Military Service Act.

Officers—All militia, officers must report for service under their respective classes or claim exemption as laid down by ordinary civilians.

Having, regard to the above, militia officers who come within the terms of the proclamation will be compelled to comply if they do not claim exemption, and pending further instructions as to the capacity in which the service of such officers will be utilized when subsequently called upon, the following information may be observed as a guide:

(a) Officers liable under the act, who may volunteer to serve in the ranks will be seconded from their militia regiments, and their seniority in the active militia preserved.

(b) Those who do not volunteer to serve as in sub-para. "a" will be subject to call and their services utilized in whatever capacity the exigencies of the service may render necessary, and provision made for their status as commissioned officers in sub-para. "a"

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown of the head-quarters staff, at the luncheon of the Rotary Club at noon today, declared emphatically that soldiers were more Rotary Club at noon today, declared emphatically that soldiers were more in danger from immoralities in Canada than they were in England.

"My own experience, and that of a large number of fellow-officers, lead me to say that the soldier is in much more danger from disease in Canada than he is in England," said Col. Brown.

"One medical man of large experience has told me that the danger was twice as great here as over in England. That is my opinion, backed up by personal knowledge of conditions in both countries. I know that this has been and is a debatable question, but I am giving my impressions as I got them."

Less Prevalent in Army.

Col. Brown also stated that disease was less prevalent among the soldiers than among civilians. The army officers recognize the conditions, and make strict laws against it. Urges isolation.

Lieut.-Col. Brown was glad, he said, that the leaders of thought in Canada were taking an interest in this evil, and were united in their efforts to stamp it out. It constituted a grave medace to Great Britain, and if it was not checked, the nation would fall to pieces, as Greece did in the days gone by. There were many causes, faulty co-education, bad cooking, unhygienic living, lack of education on sex questions, and other things. All cases should be isolatel, and placed under the care of the medical officer of heatth. Suspected cases should be taken over by the medical officer. To accomplish this, strict laws would have to be placed on the statute books. There should be proper instruction of the youth of both sexes on this matter.

Harry Greenberg was introduced as the new member. D. H. McDermid called attention to the fact that a child welfare exhibit would be in London shortly, and a committee was named composed of Mr. McDermid, D. C. MacGregor and Dr. H. W. Hill to co-operate with the Chilidren's Ald Society in this exhibit.

The preliminary list of subscriptions to the British Red Cross will be published tomorrow evening. that the list will be held until tomorrow.

Plans are being perfected by the team captains to make the canvass on Thursday 100 per cent efficient, and it is hoped that if any persons should have to be away from their places of business or their homes that day, they will provide for the occasion by leaving checks for the Red Cross.

"Our Day," October 18, will likely produce a wonderful outburst of patrictism from the Canadian people, for all over the Dominoin efforts are being made to bring to the support of the Red Cross the fullest measure of Canadian assistance. London is expected to do its share that day, and the opinion of those who are working on this campaign is that there will be no falling off in the usual generosity of Londoners.

Magistrate Sentences Team-

A.bert Stinchcombe, 74 Rectory street, employed by his brother as a driver, was sentenced in six months in Juli for stealing coal from the Grand Trunk when he appeared before Magistrate Graydon today for sentence. Should the fine of $200 and costs be paid the theft sentence will then date from the day the fine is paid.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Graydon stated that he believed Stinchcombe's downfall due to whiskey. He pointed out the seriousness of stealing from a railway company, which was regarded under the criminal code as an offence, justifying greater punishment than, theft from other places.

Stinchcombe still declined to offer any explanation for committing the offence.
