

Of Interest to Women

The Feminine Paderevski

Of Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, the world renowned pianist, who appeared recently at Atlanta, Ga., the critic of The Journal said:

"When Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler ended her concert at the Grand Hotel last night with Liszt's stirring transcription, 'The Erl King,' the audience, from box to gallery, sprang up and cheered and cheered and cheered until she was forced to come back and play again. Her renderings compressed the possibilities of the piano from the subtlest technique to the most spiritual depths of creative interpretation. And thru her entire performance, it was impossible to say where her woman's instinctive delicacy left off and her masculine vigor of attack began, so wonderfully did the one melt into the other. As a player, Mrs. Zeisler did for the piano what Chopin did for it as a composer. To the end, she was a woman, and she was a pianist. This greatest of all female pianists will give her farewell recital at Massey Music Hall on April 21."

WORKING GIRLS AS WIVES.

Some time ago I read an article which advised young men to marry working girls if they wished sympathetic, economical wives. Girls who have been rubbed and bumped against the outside world, and understand the hardships of earning their own living. "Not long since I was calling upon a friend who for years before her marriage had held a position as saleswoman in one of our dry goods stores. I had her two months old baby upon my lap, toying and playing with it and remarking upon the extraordinary smartness, beauty and what a comfort it must be and all such talk, just as every woman does when she sees a baby, and I was greatly surprised when my friend said wistfully: 'Yes, she is a good baby, but I will be so glad when he is a little older so I can take him over to mamma's and go back to work in the store again.'"

"Now this girl had a good husband and a dear little home with what looked to me, every comfort, and yet she was not contented. Perhaps, too, there was an invisible skeleton hidden somewhere in the closet, who knows? But it set me thinking seriously, do girls accustomed to making their own living, make contented wives? Can they settle down to the monotonous, everyday drudgery, connected with house-keeping? In other words, can a girl who has for years had her own salary to spend exactly as she pleases, be dependent upon her husband for every cent she gets, and yet be contented?"

"For instance, take a girl who is a stenographer in some large office. She is boarding, or better still she may be living at home with a dear, good mother, who constantly watches to lift every care from her daughter, because, as she tells every one, 'Daughter has to work so hard at the office, she must not be let do anything at home.'"

The girl sleeps in the morning till the breakfast bell rings. In cool mornings a bright fire is built in her room before she is disturbed. She takes plenty of time to dress her hair prettily, powder her face to perfection, manicure the nails of her beautiful soft white hands and study over which of her fresh delicate colored ribbons will be the most becoming for her neck, for she does not go to the office till half past eight and has nothing else to do, not even her bed to make up, the others will attend to that and she never gives it a thought."

After a time this girl marries. A year passes and winter has come once more. The young husband is employed in another office, and while his salary is not large, it is sufficient for them to comfortably go to housekeeping. His wife, of course, does her own work. He gets up early in the morning and starts the fire in the kitchen stove. He doesn't wait to start any in their bedroom, tho the morning is very cold. After a little his wife comes out. Can it be the same girl? Her pretty hair is combed straight back from her face, and rolled into a little tight knot at the back of her head. There is no powder on her sallow face, her dress is an old-fashioned calico wrapper, there is no ribbon about her neck, for she does not have time to do any of these things now, her husband must have his breakfast early and get to his office. She gets her hands well into the biscuit dough, and the baby wakes up and begins to cry. The proud father takes him up and tosses him about until he is obliged to put him back on the bed while he leaves with a hurried kiss, and his wife, heated, hurried and exhausted, sinks into a chair and glances helplessly about the disordered room. The baby must have his bath before he will stop fretting. The dishes are to be washed. The whole house is topsy-turvy. Out upon the back porch is a tub full of the baby's clothes waiting to be washed, for it takes so many things for him she is obliged to do part of the washing herself. She glances out of the window and sees some of her daintily-dressed, fur-muffled business girl friends stepping along briskly and freely as they go to their work and she wishes she were back with them.

SHE PATIENTLY BORE DISGRACE

A Sad letter from a lady whose Husband was Dissipated.

How She Cured Him with a Secret Remedy.

"I had for years patiently borne the disgrace, suffering, misery and privations due to my husband's drinking habits. Hearing of your marvelous remedy for the cure of drunkards, which I could give my husband secretly, I decided to try it. I procured a package and mixed it in his food and coffee, and, as the remedy was odorless and tasteless, he did not know what it was that so quickly relieved his craving for liquor. He soon began to pick up flesh, his appetite for solid food returned, he stuck to his work regularly, and we now have a happy home. After he was completely cured I told him what I had done, when he acknowledged that it had been his saving, as he had not the resolution to break off of his own accord. I hereby advise all women afflicted as I was to give your remedy a trial."

Free Package and pamphlet giving full particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence strictly confidential. Address: THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., 30 Jordan Chambers, Jordan St., London, W. Also for sale by Geo. A. Bingham, 100 Yonge-street, and by E. J. Doak, Drugist, 466 Queen-street west.

BAPTIST MISSIONS.

Eight New Missions Will Be Opened—The Locations.

About eight new missions will be opened in New Ontario by the Baptist Home Mission Board of Ontario and Quebec. For this work, $2000 was set aside yesterday. One missionary will be placed at Charlton; one between Cobalt and Latchford; one at Grand River; one at Laird, near Sault Ste. Marie; one at Scandinavia, to make itinerant visits touching points on the Soo branch of the C.P.R.; one on St. Joseph's island; one at Monteville, and another on the new C.P.R. line to Sudbury.

In spite of the fact that all mission reports reported exceedingly bad roads during the entire past winter, 261 baptisms into missions were reported, and in addition 160 were admitted by quarter. Appropriations for the past quarter, amounting to $8000, were passed, and estimates of $14,000 for the work of the ensuing six months were endorsed.

The present deficit of the board is $14,000. Rev. G. H. Harber, former missionary in Central Africa, and at present preaching in Arcola, was appointed to minister to the Ojibway Indians in the Lake of the Woods district, commencing about the middle of May.

GHOSTLY REGULARITY.

A Musical Monk Who Came Back Annually to Rouen Cathedral.

There is a story that in the Cathedral of Rouen years ago, the ghost of a monk played the organ once a year, on All Saints' Eve. No one was visible, but the fine old organ was played. At last the ghost was exorcised by bell, book and candle, and to the relief of the fleshly organist and his carol choir, the ghostly organ was silenced. Ghosts do not play organs as much now-a-days as they once did, but all is playing piano. The pneumatic piano-player is common enough, and ordinary enough. All the tones are of the same quality and power and the operator pumps and looks as pleasant as he can. But the Angelus does not sink with these ordinary players. With an Angelus the musician has all the gradations of touch and tone that can be found in the fingers of a great artist. He has the dainty grace of a De Paeckmann or the power of a Hambourg. Two tiny levers and a couple of buttons control the speed and tone of the music. The change from a powerful forte to a delicate piano may be instantaneous. A rikard or an accelerando can be secured just as quickly. With such an equipment, the musician can play the great piano music with all the poetic expression that his temperament demands. This marvelous piano-player has been secured for Canada by Messrs. Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, and is integrated as a part of their splendid Gourlay piano. No finer instrument is made in this country than the Gourlay, as hundreds of musicians will testify. The union of the Gourlay and the Angelus is an artistic union, as any musician will find who visits the Yonge-street warehouses of the firm.

The Passion of Christ.

Palm Sunday, or as some prefer to call it, "Passion Sunday," will be suitably and impressively observed to-morrow night at the People's Sunday Night Service in Massey Hall. A large electric cross, with red lights for the Crucifixion, and white lights for Easter, will shine over the platform while the concert of the Cross.

Kathryn Chalot-Morton, Toronto's favorite contralto, will sing "He is Despoised and Rejected of Men," and "Near the Cross." Miss George Rogers will sing "There is a Green Hill Christ I Gave." Mr. Wilkinson's pictorial sermon will be on the events of the Passion Week. 15-minute prelude to the Hammett Play of Oberammergau. The magnificent voices on the parables of the "Sower" and the "Prodigal Son," loaned by John Dadds, will be shown. The Arion Orchestra will play from 6.30 to 7 p.m.

The service will be intensely interesting and in keeping with the season of the year.

RESTAURANT LICENSE AND SUNDAY SELLING

Justice Clute Says Candies, Popcorn and So on Form a Tabooed List.

Justice Clute yesterday announced his decision in the stated case submitted to him by Magistrate R. T. Kingsford in the case of the King v. Henry Weatheral, who was tried for an infringement of the Lord's Day Act, and the city bylaw, under which he was licensed as a restaurant-keeper, by selling candies by the box, peanuts in bags, and soft drinks to customers, on Sunday, June 9, 1907. Weatheral was the keeper of a booth at Haglan's Point, and claimed that he was within the law in selling the articles, with which view the magistrate differed.

The judgment in part says: "Under sub-section 7 of section 2 of said bylaw, the defendant, as licensee of a victualling house, is only licensed to sell fruit, oysters, clams, or victuals, to be eaten in such victualling house. 'I do not think that the mere fact that Weatheral holds a license as restaurant-keeper enables him to sell on the Lord's Day candies, peanuts and soft drinks, notwithstanding the statute. The question in each case depends upon the facts.'"

His lordship also answers in the negative a question as to whether a bona-fide restaurant-keeper can sell on Sunday candies, etc., and the question taken of the premises, and the question: "Can Weatheral justify selling commodities as foodstuffs on the Lord's Day, notwithstanding the prohibition contained in the bylaw under which the license in question is issued?" is answered: "Yes," if sold as a restaurant-keeper; "No," if the restaurant license is only a cloak to cover the privilege of selling.

HAS CITY THE RIGHT?

Objections to Guelph's Old Home Week Contribution.

GUELPH, April 10.—(Special.)—At its meeting on Monday night the city council made a grant of $1000 to the Old Home Week committee. This morning Mayor Newstead received a communication from the law firm of MacDonald & Drew stating that a client of theirs, a ratepayer of the city, would take out an injunction restraining the council from making the grant if the city's offer was not withdrawn. The ratepayer is not taking action for any personal feelings he has toward the Old Home Week celebration, but he wishes to ascertain whether or not the city council may make grants out of the city's treasury, to any cause it sees fit. The case is arousing considerable local interest.
