

INTEREST AWAKE IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Brought About by the Increase in Cost of Living.

WOMEN ARE ROUSED

Toronto Housewives Making Plans to Combat Situation.

One thing that the high cost of living has brought about is an awakened interest in domestic science in many city homes where before this part of everyday life was left to be solved by the baker; the only part in which the housekeeper took any part was that of paying the weekly bill for the family bread.

Human nature for the most part is long-enduring. The population said nothing when bread rose from five to six and from six to seven cents a loaf, but when eight was the figure with a prospect of nine appearing in the near future the public really began to sit up and take notice. Above all the women have awakened and in diverse ways they are showing their determination to be no longer the puppet of circumstance, but to attain if possible an intelligent understanding of why things are as they are in the matter of the present exorbitant prices of many articles of food.

Regarding the rate of eight cents the small loaf for bread, there has not yet been sufficient proof to show that it is the price of what that is the source of the trouble. The hitherto inexplicable disparity between the actual cost of bread and the price at which it is sold still remains. In the absence of reason for the high charge women are acting upon suggestions given and are endeavoring to bring back the art of bread-baking into the home. One instance at least has been heard of in a certain district where women of a certain class are planning an exhibition and demonstration of bread and bread-making with the view of proving to other women the possibilities of home production in this direction.

Will Take Lessons. Housekeeping at the Technical School, and it may be taken as a certainty that the lessons in bread-making will receive more attention this year than during any former sessions of the institution. The price of bread is not the only reason for this. Scarcity of domestic help is another factor. Women are beginning to understand that unless they waken up to the need of being their own help in the home, all semblance of this establishment will disappear. Woman is naturally the home-maker, but unnatural conditions of congested city life have done much to destroy the domestic instinct. The high cost of living, together with the scarcity of home help, has had the effect of first depressing the home-maker and then to arouse the latent home-instinct with which every woman is provided as part of her make-up. Bread-making is an art that cannot be attained in its perfection in one or two attempts. There is, too, a good deal of "knack" in its success. Some women have deft hands and light fingers and these play a certain part in the evolution of the white, flaky loaf inside the golden crust. A good recipe, too, is an asset of value, and here is one given which seems to promise good results:

Ingredients required—3½ cupsful of sifted bread flour, 2 tablespoonfuls of shortening, 1 cupful of water, 1 teaspoonful of salt, 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar, 1 cake of compressed yeast. Sift and measure the flour; rub lightly into the flour with tips of fingers two tablespoonfuls of fat; divide the water into three cups; add the salt and sugar; soften yeast in the third cup; combine liquid and add to flour. Mix lightly with the fingers. When dough is sufficiently mixed lift from bowl and raise high in the air. Strike the dough with force on table four times, then replace in bowl. Cover the dough and let it rise for 2½ hours in bulk bake 50 to 60 minutes. When bread shrinks from side of pan, tap; and if the sound is hollow the bread is done.

TORONTO VARSITY REGISTRATION LOW

Less Than Four Hundred Students in Arts Department Register.

DROP ALL AROUND

War Main Theme of President's Address—Long Honor Roll.

This year's registration at the university is even lower than last year's, according to the close estimates to be obtained at the various registry offices at five o'clock yesterday afternoon.

By that time in the arts department 350 students had registered in the first year. While a few more applications may be received, it is not expected that the number will reach 400. Last year at the end of the session the registration was 538. Last year it was necessary to extend the time for registration. This year it is not expected that this will be necessary.

In applied science the drop is even more sudden: 122 have registered so far, as against 340 last year. It is not expected that the number this year will exceed 175. This is less than a quarter the registration in 1909, when there were 692 students; in '10 there were 749; in '11, 784; in '12, 612; in '13, 652; in '14, 554; in '15, 240.

In medicine 32 registered this year, as against 95 for this time last year. Probably the final registration will be about in that proportion. In the 2nd year there will be about 76, in the 3rd about 80, in the 4th between 80 and 90. In the 5th there will be some 25 returned from overseas. The fifth year, it will be remembered, began its studies on the Monday after the Saturday on which the session closed last spring, continuing thru the summer with only a break of one month.

President Falconer in his opening address in the afternoon spoke very gravely of the serious decisions which many of the students would be called upon to make during the coming year. The war was the central theme of his address. The university this year must not only on what was done for the war by students last year. The honor roll was large, 3,000 graduates had gone, while 1,400 undergraduates and 1,700 graduates were in training. Eighty members of the staff had been released for service, 113 had fallen. The long honor roll follows:

Express fees that expressmen were raised a trifle, but not to the height desired by the druggists which requested the raise at a previous meeting.

A merit mark was awarded Plainclothesman Ward for his recent capture of a man who attempted to rob a West Queen street liquor store. He was also highly commended for the good work he had done during previous years.
