SOMETHING CHOICE
IN LATEST FOOTWEARShoe and Leather Market Fair
Opens in Boston; The Modern Ideas Revealed

(Boston Globe, Wednesday.)

Twice a year the American and foreign representatives of the shoe and leather trade assemble in Boston in great numbers, while during the other months of the year they come and go as do the buyers and traders in other lines. This is the period for the summer gathering of these men, and at two this afternoon there opened in Mechanics Building the Eighth National Shoe and Leather Market Fair.

In the winter the shoe and leather men merely meet in certain hotels and do business there or about the wholesale leather districts of the city. But this time, to have things more convenient and all under one roof for their benefit, the fair has been opened. And the exhibits are worth while going to see.

All the available space in the mammoth building has been taken and more than 150 booths, all tastefully decorated, rented by exhibitors. As usual the main feature is the wonderful exhibit by the United Machine Company.

Buyers from all over this country and from abroad are in town. One of the most prominent merchants from Holland, Matthieu Van Loon, is here for the first time in three years. There are show men from Java, buyers from various Canadian centers, and the South American representatives of the trade are well represented. There are also a few from France and England.

New England, as the shoe and leather trade centre of this country, has prepared an exhibit of shoes, leather and the parts that enter into shoes as well as the machinery for their manufacture and the preparation of the leather, that is by far the best ever seen even in Boston. The display of women's shoes especially will interest every woman who gives much thought to the appearance of her feet. Some of the exhibitors show ideas in women's footwear that are extremely novel and attractive. There are all sorts and varieties to be seen, shoes showing the seven colors of the rainbow—iridescent shoes, they are called; shoes that are intended to match the color or shade of any gown you may choose to select; metal cloth shoes in gold, silver and aluminum, as well as the latest ideas in Parisian footwear. There are models in low shoes, medium shoes and high shoes; shoes that are extreme in every way; modifications of some of the more extreme ideas, and extremely modest and quiet shoes; in fact, footwear to meet the needs and tastes of every class of men and women. The fair will remain open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. until and including July 19. The bulk of the Canadian guests are expected July 17. Each will be known as "Canadian Day." There will be much to interest and instruct the general public, and special plans have been made for the entertainment of the visiting shoe and leather men. There is a large orchestra in attendance. Tomorrow the Boston Shoe Travelers' Association with visiting shoe and leather merchants and buyers will enjoy an excursion down the harbor to Nantasket. William Noll and W. M. Oakman of Boston will be in charge and the trip will be made by special steamship.

THIS IS THE FOUNDATION of our Ready-to-Wear Department. And it is a good, honest, solid foundation. While we sell many suits at $10 and $12.50, those at $18 are truly the starters. We build up on that to our wear-defying worsted suits at $30. For every dollar you get a full one hundred cents of value or your money back promptly, no "patient waiting." The range of prices is $10 to $30, and those at $15, $20 and $25 are attractive values. Two-piece suits, $12.50, $13.50, $15 and $20. Finished to your measure in an hour.

To Start Work at Jemseg Bridge. Joseph McVay, head of the firm of Joseph McVay & Sons, of St. Stephen, with a party of workmen, are en route to Jemseg, Queen's County, where they are to start work on the new steel bridge. The company's plant is being taken to Jemseg via the Bay of Fundy and the St. John river.

An incident is told of a woman whose husband, a wealthy man, died suddenly, without leaving any will. The widow, desirous of securing the whole of the property, concealed her husband's death and persuaded a poor little shoemaker to take his place while a will could be made. Accordingly he was closely muffled in bed as if very sick, and the lawyer was called in to write the will. The shoemaker, in a feeble voice, bequeathed half of all the property to the widow. "What shall be done with the remainder?" asked the lawyer. "The remainder?" replied he, "I give and bequeath to the poor little shoemaker across the street, who has always been a good neighbor and a deserving man," thus securing a rich bequest for himself. The widow was thunderstruck with the man's audacious cunning, but did not dare to expose the fraud and so the two rogues shared the estate.
