Perhaps the best welcome of all for the first woman conqueror of the English channel was when her neighbors along Amsterdam avenue, New York City, gave Gertrude Ederle a "block party." But even that is now out of the question, because no Government dare again propose to ask less wealthy industries, paying lower wages, to subsidize coal. So the miners' delegates met this week without a policy in the tightest of tight fixes. It almost serves them right. BERLIN AND HAMBURG. The meeting of the German Colonial Society in Hamburg is the first overt revival, since the signing of the Ver-sailles Treaty, of those old Teutonic ambitions epitomized in the ex-Kaiser's historic phrase about Germany's place n the sun. Hamburg has always been the headquarters of the German colonial party, and the recent conference nial party, and the recent conference took place in the Colonial Institute in Hamburg, whose shipping and trading interests are naturally alive to the importance of oversea expansion. Some of the Junkers in the colonial movement already dream of getting back some at least of Germany's lost oversea possession, and this hope has been the one thing that reconciled them to joining the League of Nations. But there is a conflict of outlook between Hamburg and Berlin. While the former sees visions of a new Germanic colonial empire, the latter, realizing that any such possibility lies in the colonial empire, the latter, realizing that any such possibility lies in the remote future, has its gaze fixed on Proceedings of the color of the co and promising field for German pene-
