AND BUNIONS

Put one on-the pain is gone!

Perhaps the matter of labor disputes is one that is least in the minds of the officials of the T. S. Simms & Co., Ltd., but if some of the officials of many of the big troublesome industries could have seen the members of the staff of this local concern celebrating the fittieth birthday of the company they would have seen how employer and employer and be brought together to work in unison for the good of all.

Last evening upwards of 130 employes of the company assembled around the festive board at Bond's to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the entry of the late T. S. Simms into the brush-making industry. As a tribute to the management which the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence was a placard on the wall bearing the hames of thirty-five men who have been the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence was a placard on the wall bearing the hames of thirty-five men who have been the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence was a placard on the wall bearing the hames of thirty-five men who have been the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence was a placard on the wall bearing the hames of thirty-five men who have been the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence was a placard on the wall bearing the hames of thirty-five men who have been the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence was a placard on the wall bearing the hames of thirty-five men who have been the company has enjoyed during the half century of its existence.

During the evening an admirable toast list was carried out. The feature of the mining district of Northern Ontario this summer, visiting all the active mines and other areas where at present there is no active work being done.

For Safety's Sake

first brush was made in this city by a man named Andrews on the west side of the harbor in 1845. Mr. Simms told of the advances made with the venture and of the beginning which his father, the late T. S. Simms, made in 1872 in a partnership with M. Murphy. In the following year they employed about fifty men and they had an output worth $41,000. It was in the following year that John Kennedy, at the age of twelve, and Ben Knowles, at the age of fifteen, and who were at the banquet last night, entered the employ of Murphy and Simms. A Great Increase.

The business at present had increased twenty times what it was at that time and last year the company did business amounting to $853,000. In the course of his address, Mr. Simms told of the reverses which his father had met with before the industry was placed on a firm footing. He told how his father and mother had sat in the old burial ground and watched their building at the corner of Union and Carmarthen streets burn to the ground, which caused his father to remark that he had seen his last dollar burn up. But he was not daunted by this misfortune and soon started up again in Dock street. The firm later moved to Smyth street and Union, street before the present plant was constructed at Fairville in 1912.

A. M. Belding, on behalf of the press, expressed his appreciation for the invitation to attend and said that he was expressed his appreciation to the was tation to attend and said that he was glad to see evidences of such co-opera-tion on the part of employers and em-

Do not put the Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first. Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber coloured liquid; put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you will have enough for a batch of clothes. If the clothes are extra soiled, use more

An Appeal to Housewives

THE local hardware merchant is one of the most useful citizens in any community. His one object is to serve faithfully the householders of the community in which his store is located. Give him Fair

He is vitally interested in the neighborhood and all its citi-zens. He pays his local taxes and helps maintain the community. The money he gets from selling his goods to you, he spends in turn with other merchants of the community. His life's savings are invested in the hardware business he conducts. He is raising his family and helping to keep up the schools where your children are being educated.

But, unfortunately, all these things are forgotten when some householders buy goods at their doors from peddlers or house-to-house canvassers. These individuals are very persistent in their efforts and will go to great lengths to sell you their wares. They deliberately play on your sympathies. They should be turned down at once! They have no grain or tittle of interest in you or the neighborhood, other than to sell their wares and be gone. You will probably never see him or her again.

When you buy kitchen utensils or household articles from one of these peddlers you are not playing fair either with yourself or the hardware man of your community. You are injuring your hardware man for the reason that these peddlers are in direct competition with him.

The hardware merchant is in business to serve you. To sell you his goods at a fair, reasonable price is his daily occupation. Strengthen him by buying from him and he will be of even greater service to you.

Loyalty to those who serve you is as fine a thing as loyalty to those whom you serve. Re-member the hardware merchand Buy from him when you can, and treat him with the same fairness that you expect from
