JAPS AND BOLSHEVIKI IN STRENUOUS FIGHTING

Vladivostok, March 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Two companies of Japanese troops were virtually wiped out by the Bolsheviki in fighting near Siamko, fifty miles northeast of Blagovestchensk, Feb. 26. Two hundred and fifty men were engaged. Major Tanaka, commanding the Japanese, was killed. In a second battle on March 9, at Pralovka, thirty miles to the north, the Japanese suffered ninety casualties. In

When the Boys Arrive

What form will the presentation take? From the inquiries we receive from Village, Town and County Councils, we know it's not so easy to decide.

Many are giving special medals, others watches or signet rings. All strive to give something that will be lasting enough to be prized in the years to come.

One thing we know—if it's a "Birks" Watch, a "Birks" Ring or a "Birks" Medal, neither we, the donor, nor the wearer will ever have cause to be ashamed of it.

That's worth consideration, isn't it?

ST. JOHN WOMAN HAD DONE MUCH FOR TEMPERANCE

Death of Mrs. George W. Richardson in Concord

WAS ELLEN R. RUDDICK

Stricken at Meeting in Interests of Prohibition, She Passed Away Next Morning—Had Been National W. C. T. U. Vice-President

(Concord (N. H.) Patriot, March 11.)
With the passing away of Ellen R. Richardson, wife of George W. Richardson, which occurred at 9.40 o'clock Monday, not only Concord, but New Hampshire, has lost one of its most prominent and best loved women. It is worthy of mention that Mrs. Richardson's last work was in the interest of the cause to which she had devoted so many years of her life.

Mrs. Richardson was stricken in the Pleasant Street Baptist church last night, where she was one of the speakers at a "Prohibition Jubilee," held under the direction of the Christian Society. Suffering a hemorrhage of the brain, she never regained consciousness. She was removed at once to her home, where she died peacefully this morning.

Mrs. Richardson was born on Dec. 27, 1846, in St. John's, N. B., being the daughter of Dr. James Ruddick, a prominent physician and early temperance worker. She came to Boston when sixteen years of age, and in 1870 was united in marriage with George W. Richardson, a veteran of the Civil War. For a number of years they made their home in East Haverhill, this state, where Mr. Richardson was a storekeeper and the postmaster for many years. At two sessions of the legislature Mr. Richardson represented the town of Haverhill, and while in this city during the winter Mrs. Richardson joined him, the result being that they finally decided to make Concord their permanent home.

From childhood Mrs. Richardson was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. She was always very active in church work and was identified with many good causes. But the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union appealed to her so strongly that she gave to it her best efforts, being local, county and state president, holding the latter position for nearly twenty years, in fact until the present time. She was vice-president of the National W. C. T. U. and attended its annual conventions, two of which were held on the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Richardson had made public addresses in every city and practically every town in New Hampshire.

A fine example of a self-educated woman was Mrs. Richardson. Left an orphan at the age of sixteen years, she was compelled to leave school after receiving only a grammar school education. In 1869 she was graduated from the Chautauque course.

Mrs. Richardson was a very active member of the Baker Memorial Church of this city, where she was the teacher of a Sunday school class and was interested in the various activities of the church, having at one time been lay delegate to the annual Methodist conference, an unusual honor for a woman. She had recently addressed the senate committee, for which, with others, she had labored so zealously and which she had predicted so confidently.

A trustee of the Mercy Home in Manchester since its foundation, Mrs. Richardson was deeply interested in its work. She had a very wide circle of friends, far and near, and had a large correspondence. Her summer residence was at Ocean Park, Me., where she was prominent in the life of the community. The survivors are her husband, George W. Richardson, and her only child, Guy, of Boston, editor of Our Dumb Animals, and secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; and one brother, Dr. William H. Ruddick of Boston.

IN HONOR OF HOME COMING
At the home of Lieut. J. H. Roberts 41 Albert street, Friday evening, a jolly company assembled to give him a hearty welcome home, after a career of four years overseas. A part of the evening was spent in dancing, and games and music were also enjoyed. A dainty pass around was served, and the party broke up about 1.30 giving their best wishes to Lieut. and Mrs. Roberts.

NEW READY-TO-WEAR GARMENTS

This display comprises the very newest designs upon which Dame Fashion has set her seal of approval. Here you will find a number of exclusive and individual models that will appeal to the most fastidious and to good taste.

Garments selected with greatest care, as to the Style, Quality and Workmanship.

THE SUITS are beautifully tailored and have the most fascinating touches—Silk Embroidery or Tricotee Vestee—Clusters of buttons at sides and cunningly set in pockets; but you must see them to realize how beautiful they are.

THE DRESSES, never so charming as they are this Season, rich Charmeuse and Crepe Meteor, lovely embroidered Georgettes and smart Taffetas.

THE BLOUSES, daintier than ever, they are of suit shades and have the loveliest touches of beading, or embroidery, or tucks.

THE COATS are especially attractive with their full loose backs, or in cape effects. The ultra smart dolman coat, as well as the becoming belted coat.

Don't fail to pay us a visit on Tuesday. It will be a pleasure to show you the new things and to tell you about the style features.
