DEATH OF MRS. SCOVILL

Member of Family Noted in History of Kingston

The death of Mrs. Frances Scovill, widow of Rev. William Eliza Scovill, has removed one of the most respected and best known residents of Kingston and marks the passing of one of a family which has been intimately connected with the welfare of the Church of England in Kingston parish from the days of the Loyalists.

Her husband, noted as the inventor of the Scovill system of shorthand, was rector of the Anglican church at Rothney for many years, and was the third of his name to occupy the pastorate, being the grandson of the original incumbent.

Mrs. Scovill was ninety-two years of age and is survived by her son, Samuel, of Cleveland, O. Mrs. Fairweather, wife of Dr. W. A. Fairweather, who died some time ago, was a daughter. Mrs. Scovill's circle of friends was not alone confined to acquaintances about the parish of Kingston, for she was known to a great many throughout the city and province, and by all she was regarded with the highest esteem.

A case against James Flood, charged with selling liquor to two men while they were under the influence, was dismissed in the police court yesterday. One man named Stevens testified that he had seen Flood sell liquor to two men, and they were under the influence of alcohol.

RUNAWAY.

On Saturday afternoon on the old Black River road, three boys were riding on a horse hauled by a spirited horse. The horse took fright and ran away, throwing the three boys to the road. MAY COME HERE.

There is a possibility that the famous American cricketers, champions of the world, may be in the city early in July. T. J. Wall, Canadian general manager for the Spalding Co., Ltd., is in the city and will interview the officers of the local cricket club regarding the prospect of having the visiting players here for a match. The Australians are to come to Montreal on their tour through Canada and the United States about the latter part of June and if arrangements were made to give a sufficient guarantee, would be here early the following week.

ST. JOHN INSURANCE

IN THE SYDNEY FIRE

Several of the St. John fire underwriters are interested in the fire loss at Sydney. Complete reports have not yet been received.

BASEBALL IN WOODSTOCK

As a result of good interest taken in the matter by representative citizens, Woodstock is to have baseball during the coming season. It is a true saying that baseball will advertise a town that has a good team as nothing else will. The feeling was expressed at a meeting held in the town hall on Friday night, that the Woodstock Amateur Baseball Association was formed with S. L. Lyonn, president; J. P. Maloney, secretary-treasurer. These officers, with the captain of the team and Chief Kelly, to be directors.

It was said that A. B. Connell would allow the use of Connell Park for the games, providing no admission be charged, as he felt that some criticism had been made over this feature which prevailed on former occasions. He would accept the suggestion by the offering of refreshments and also by a cash contribution.

The question came before the meeting as to whether the team could keep above board from a financial standpoint by this arrangement.

Subscription paper be started and the citizens asked to contribute, which it was felt they would do, as the admission would be low.

The uniforms and other necessary paraphernalia will be ordered at once.

Charles Donnelly and Harold Ferguson were appointed official umpires. James E. Lyonn and Wightman Manser official scorers. The season will open on Monday, May 12th. All games in the town league will be played in the evening. Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings have been chosen. Games with outside teams will be played in the afternoon for which an admission fee will be charged.

The officers and board of directors will arrange the schedule and will also take up the formation of a league with Houlton, Florenceville and Hartland.
