THE ROMANCE OF YOUNG ADMIRAL

Marquis of Donegal, Only Nineteen Years Old—His Mother Belonged to Hal-fax.

(Toronto Telegram)

The visit of a British Lord High Admiral, who is only 19 years of age, and of his Canadian mother is stirring New York society. The admiral, he is said, is the young Marquis of Donegal, who, despite his youth, is really a Lord High Admiral and entitled to wear a resplendent naval uniform at state functions. Of course no such title exists in the working ranks of the British navy in this year of grace. The young Marquis is not even a midshipman. His dignity comes to him, not from service afloat, but by inheritance, along with the Earldom of Belfast, the Viscountcy of Chichester and the barony of Waterford. His full naval title is Lord High Admiral of Lough Neagh.

which, though the largest lake in the United Kingdom, with an area of 168 square miles and a shore line of 65 miles, is really no bigger than Lake Conchiching, on which Orillia is situated. Naval Battles on Lough Neagh. But whereas Conchiching's peaceful waters never heard the roar of a cannon, important naval engagements occurred on Lough Neagh in the 16th and 17th centuries, the last big fight taking place in 1642. In those days the office of Admiral did mean something. They are talking of draining the lake for agricultural purposes. It has an average depth of between 30 and 40 feet and is 70 feet above sea level. Young Lord Donegal will not inherit much with his patrimony. His ancestors once owned the greater part of the city of Belfast, but most of the estates were alienated long ago, and his father exhausted much of the remaining property. The new peer will, however, inherit considerable wealth from his mother.

Daughter of George Twining, a well known resident of Halifax, she went to school in the States and graduated from Wellesley College. When quite a young girl Violet Twining became engaged to an officer in the Halifax garrison, and when he went to the South African War Miss Twining and her mother followed him to Cape Town. The officer was killed early in the war, and it was discovered that in a will made just before he left for the front he had bequeathed his fiancée the whole of his large fortune. Society Gasp. When two years later, in December, 1902, Miss Twining, a pretty girl of only 22, married the 32-year-old Marquis of Donegal, society on both sides of the Atlantic gasped. It was said that his young bride had to assist him to his feet after he had been kneeling on the church floor to receive the blessing from his mother. It is claimed that Miss Twining's

MRS. A. GODWIN.

Stratford, Ont.—"I do think that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is one of the best medicines I have ever known for the ailments of women. I had for quite a long time been having irregular trouble which caused me to become all run-down, weak and nervous. I doctored, but nothing seemed to give me relief until I began taking the Favorite Prescription. This medicine gave me such wonderful relief that I am glad to recommend it to others."—Mrs. A. Godwin, 60 Brant St.

mother induced her to marry the old Marquis, says the Marquis de Fontenay, a well known American writer, and that the affair was suggested by his advertisement in a newspaper stating that he was willing to settle $100,000 on a bride. Some time later the Marquis, a distinguished looking old gentleman with a mass of wavy white hair and flowing white whiskers, and the settlement made was not $100,000, but $400,000. Three months after the marriage the Marquis and his mother went abroad for a prolonged tour of the Orient, but the Marquis remained in England, declaring that he did not care to undertake the hardships of travel. Lord Donegal died 18 months after his marriage, but he lived to see his tiny heir, who, born in October, 1903, succeeded his father in 1904.

Lord and Lady Strathearn were always kind friends to the young yearlings. Lady Strathearn it was who arranged her presentation at Court prior to the marriage. Lady Strathearn gave the bride away in historic St. George's. Indeed, the rugged old Canadian High Commissioner and his good wife did much to smooth the way for the young woman whose marriage to a man 60 years older than herself had aroused some rather unfair prejudice in society. But even if any prejudice of this nature had not died years ago in the effusion of time, the devotion and good judgment which the Canadian marchioness showed in the bringing up of

- WOOLLEN MARKET ACTIVE
New York, Feb. 20.—The possibility that a runaway market will develop in wools and worsteds is growing stronger daily. Selling agents report that many lines have been overbought and that orders that have been placed since the fall selling season began last month will be materially scaled down. Until the business on the books is readjusted to suit the requirements and producing facilities of the various mills it will be difficult to side up the status of the market.

Rheumatic Pains
Are relieved in a few days by taking 30 drops of Fisher's Siget's Syrup after meals and on retiring. It dissolves the lime and acid accumulation in the muscles and joints, so these deposits can be expelled, thus relieving pain and soreness. Siget's Syrup, also known as "Extract of Roast," contains no dope or other strong drugs to kill or mask the pain of rheumatism or lumbago; it removes the cause. 50c. and $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Up Goes Sugar to

The Consumers

(Montreal Gazette, Monday.)

Sugar at eleven cents a pound will confront the housewife when she goes shopping today. In some instances the corner grocer may hold off the increase in cost for a day or two until he has disposed of the sugar stock he has on hand, but it is only a matter of a day or two, since the average grocery store does not stock up with sugar. The prices last week were ten cents.
