had returned from a convivial party, and felt in pretty good humour with himself and everybody else. Being inclined to breathe the fresh air, and suffer the effects of good cheer to evaporate, he selected a patch of green sward in camp for a promenade and commenced slowly walking backward and forward. Now it so happened that a sentinel on duty had posted directly in the officer's line of march, and every few minutes would encounter his superior officer, and, as in duty bound, his musket would be presented to salute him, and when he had passed, brought to the shoulder again. This continued for a long time, till the sentinel was quite tired of saluting him, and at last said, 'Colonel, if you pass this way again, I shan't salute you.' His officer passed spread his legs, surveyed his man from his glazed fatigue cap to the toes of his brogans and back to his cap again, and thrusting his hands deep into his breeches pocket, exclaimed, 'And if you think I care whether you do not, you are most infernally mistaken, my fine fellow—that's all I've got to say;' and resuming his promenade, the officer and private passed each other with the utmost indifference.—N. O. Pic. July 26.

The War with Mexico.—The President of the United States has made an overture to the Mexican Government for putting an end to hostilities; and also by official message applied to the Senate, calls for a vote of two millions of dollars to enable him to carry on the negotiation with effect. The overture has been despatched to Mexico, but the Congress has adjourned without voting the money.—New York Albion.

FOR THE CHRONICLE.

MR. EDITOR,—I was truly sorry to find from your paper of Friday last, that "the Directors of the Loyalist Memorial Hospital, having ascertained that a strong feeling of opposition to their late proceedings exists in the community, and that so many grounds of objection have been raised as to render the success of the plan extremely doubtful, if not hopeless, are therefore constrained to suspend all further operations."

Without hazarding an opinion as to the reasonableness of that opposition, I am sure I may safely say that every friend of the poor deeply regrets that so truly benevolent a design should have been stopped in the bud: for this unfortunate misunderstanding has deprived many a poor sufferer of the benefit which such an Institution alone could afford them. But why should the matter be allowed to rest where it is? Why should those who are friendly to the object itself, (and surely there is no one who is not,) allow the proposal to be lost sight of? All agree that the establishment of such an Institution is highly desirable, and many in this community would, I doubt not, be most willing to contribute towards the accomplishment of the design. But even if sufficient funds cannot be raised for carrying out the larger plan, surely a Dispensary might be established, which would be of incalculable benefit to many poor creatures among us, who are daily suffering for the want of such aid as an Institution of that kind could give them.—Humanity claims this at least from us; shall we reject the plea?

It is certainly very remarkable that there should not be an Establishment of the kind proposed in the whole Province, after having been settled for more than sixty years. What a contrast New Brunswick presents, in this respect, to the many noble Institutions in the mother country! We have had our full share of prosperity, but hitherto we have neglected to provide an asylum for our poorer brethren in the hour of sickness; for this we are clearly chargeable with a dereliction of duty,—let us therefore lose no time in wiping away the reproach.
