

GREEK CONFERENCE IN ALLIES' REVIVEL

DONNED KHAKI TO CATCH HER ERRING "HUBBY"

Soldier's Wife, Masquerading As Man, Brought Up at Police Headquarters.

The wife of a soldier found herself in rather a trying predicament last evening, when she was seen parading about the streets attired in the uniform of one of the king's soldiers.

The St. John woman who got into serious difficulty last evening, did not try to disguise herself with false whiskers and even forgot to tuck her back hair up under her cap. She is a woman of medium build and very pretty, and certainly made an attractive looking little soldier.

It was about eight o'clock when she was first detected, and then she was standing on the corner of Prince William and Princess streets, at the head of the bill leading to the ferry dock.

Numerous persons who passed took the second look at the handsome young soldier, but never thought it was a woman attired in soldier's uniform. She wore military boots, (though they were several sizes too large for her), then came the puttees, trousers, tunic, great coat, and cap, and the make-up was so complete that she even used a swigger stick with as much ease as a real hero.

The collar of the great coat was turned up and between the top of the collar and the cap could be seen a mass of black hair. As she stroled about it was seen that she did not walk like a woman, especially a soldier, and in that manner she attracted more than the ordinary glance from some who were passing along the street.

Finally Lieut. Weldon, of the 115th Battalion, came along. As a soldier, this person in khaki did not look "good," and on giving a second and harder glance at the form in uniform, the lieutenant noticed the hair between the collar and the cap. The officer was greatly surprised and, meeting a reporter from The Standard, told him of the "soldier" who was parading in a woman masquerading about in uniform. A second visit convinced Lieut. Weldon that it was a woman and he telephoned to the recruiting rooms in gaiters in touch with Sergeant Kniff, notified him to report. When the sergeant arrived on the scene he and the lieutenant accosted the female. She did not deny her sex but said she dressed in uniform to catch her husband. The officers advised the woman that it would be better for her to return home and don female attire. Sergeant Kniff called on four soldiers who were near, they formed a guard, and headed by the sergeant the woman was marched up Princess and Sydney street to the chief of police's office. The affair was handled quietly and no notice was taken of the men in uniform as they walked along the streets. In fact persons about police headquarters were unaware that there was a woman in the building attired in a soldier's uniform.

After an interview with the woman, and learning the facts, the chief dismissed her, and told her to return to her home.

When asked about the matter the chief of police refused to discuss it. While the woman was in conversation with the military officers on Water street, she said that her husband had been acting badly of late, that he had visited her home some time ago and had stolen her separation allowance, and that she had not seen him since. She said she obtained the uniform from a returned soldier who was living in the same house, and she thought if she could disguise herself as a soldier she would have a better chance of finding her husband.

From all appearances the woman has not been well used, she was suf-

GREEKS AS PEOPLE NEVER PRO-GERMAN, KING SAYS

London, March 3, 233 a. m.—In an interview with the Athens correspondent of the Chronicle, King Constantine declared that his conference with General Sarrail had done much to revive confidence in the Entente Allies.

"As far as I am aware," King Constantine is quoted as saying, "the Greeks as a body have never been pro-German, but putting it mildly the series of pin pricks administered by the Franco-English have made them anti-Entente. I am now told that the pin pricks are to cease, but even though a radical change in the treatment toward Greece has been inaugurated, the irritation caused by the former series will take some time to disappear."

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleanser" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

York L. O. L. Anniversary. The 32nd anniversary of the York Loyal Orange Lodge No. 3 was celebrated in their rooms on German street last evening. The Grandmaster, Dr. W. B. Wallace occupied the chair. A nicely arranged program was thoroughly carried out, after which the ladies' auxiliary served refreshments.

A feature of the entertainment was the singing of Master Granville Ring, who was encored no less than three times. His first number, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," was greatly enjoyed by the audience. The program was as follows:

N. J. Morrison, reading; Miss Rose, reading; Mr. Kennedy, solo; Mrs. Hamilton, reading; R. Spencer, violin solo; Miss E. Moore, reading; Miss E. Spencer, solo; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, assisted by Miss Milton, a selection; Master G. Ring, solo; W. E. Spencer, reading; H. McEachern, solo; J. McEachern, reading; God Save the King.

104th Band Going to Fredericton. Capt. Lawrence, of the 104th Battalion, passed through the city yesterday on his way to Fredericton, where he will make arrangements for the concert which is to be held by the band of the 104th Battalion in the capital city.

Feeling greatly from nervousness and it was not until she neared the police headquarters that she appeared to realize her position. Then she began to weaken. When she found she could not return home, and would not be escorted by the military or local police, she was very grateful. She has undergone an experience she will not want to repeat, and undoubtedly the next time she wishes to go scouting for her husband she will use the garb of her sex.

For Better Housing. J. Roy Campbell, solicitor for the Board of Health, is preparing a bill to be presented to the local legislature, giving the board authority to inspect and placard houses which are considered untenable. Dr. Melvin, medical health officer is assisting Dr. Campbell in this work.

ORDERED NOT TO FIRE EXCEPT IN SELF DEFENCE

Admiralty Makes Public Instructions Issued to Armed Merchantmen and These Give Lie to German Charge.

London, March 2 (10.30 p. m.).—The British admiralty tonight officially made public the admiralty's orders to armed merchantmen, given October 20, 1915. The orders say that the armament of such vessels must be used solely for resisting an attack by an armed vessel, and for no other purpose. As British submarines and aircraft are ordered not to approach merchantmen, the orders say, the approach to a British merchantman by a submarine is to be regarded as done with a hostile intention.

The official statement reads as follows: "In view of the recent issue by the German government of a memorandum on the treatment of armed merchant ships, the Admiralty has decided to make public the instructions actually governing the actions of British merchant vessels armed for self-defence."

When the cost of tea at the gardens goes up beyond a previous limit, the packet tea merchants must raise prices to the consumer or lower their qualities. The latter is often done by placing dust and foreign matter in the tea. Examine a packet of "SALADA" and see how free from dust it is compared with other teas.

STATE DEPARTMENT REACHES DECISION IN APPAM CASE
Washington, Mar. 2.—The state department today sent to Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, its decision in the case of the British liner Appam, which was captured by a German raider and brought into Hampton Roads in charge of a prize crew. Announcement of the contents will be withheld at the request of counsel for the German government, pending a decision in libel action brought by agents of the original British owners in the federal courts at Norfolk.

Consequently the court will be allowed to interpret the Prussian-American treaty, which is claimed by Germany to provide that a German prize may remain in American waters indefinitely, with immunity from legal proceedings instituted by the original owners in an attempt to regain possession of the ship. In awaiting an interpretation of the treaty by the courts, the state department is acting in accordance with precedent.
