HOPEWELL HILL

Hopewell Hill, April 14—The Conservative axe; which has been suspended over the head of the postmaster at Hopewell Cape, for several months, has fallen, another being added to the long list of Libertal office holders who have lost their position under Tory rule.

Hopewell Hill, April 16—A large audience greatly enjoyed the recital given in Gouldon Hall, Albert, this evening by Dean Southwick, president of the Emerson college. A miscellaneous programme was given and those present were delighted with the gifted reader's performance. The services of Pres. Southwick were secured through the instrumentality of Rev. Mr. Pye, who has been postmaster for the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. C.

Within the last two years no less than three fox farms have been established near this village. The farms at Upper Coverdale, of which Moncton men are the principal owners, has a pair of valuable black foxes, and a man is kept at the farm to look after the animals. Charles W. Taylor, at his farm at Cherryvale, has several imported red from the wire enclosure one day last week by the arrival of another son. Mr. and Mrs. C.

Salisbury, N. B., April 17—The most terrific electric storm seen here for many years passed over the valley of the Petit-codiac river between 9 and 10 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The big storm was preceded by an ideal spring day the heat during the middle of the day being almost like summer weather. During the progress of the storm, the reflection of a big fire was seen west of this village and it was learned later in the llage of Petitcodiac, owned by Jacob Steeves, a prominent farmer, had been struck by lightning and burned to the

In the barn at the time were some thirty head of cattle, two horses, hay, feed, and the usual outfit usually stored in a well-equipped stock barn.

A few of the cattle were saved, but the horses and the greater part of the herd of cattle and all other contents of the barn had been in ill health for a long time and his death was not unexpected. He was in his sixty-ninth year and was much respected. All the local ministers attended and took part in the funeral services on Saturday, before the body was taken by train to Oxford for interment.

On the same day James Brawley, a lifelong resident of the parish, carrying on farming in the Passakeag district, died after a three days' illness from pneumonia. He was universially respected as an upright man and good citizen. He leaves his wife, two sons, Herman and John, the former of Hampton Village and the latter and there are no further indications of the same day late of the parish carrying on farming in the Passakeag district, died after a three days' illness from pneumonia. duty to the people. It was true that he had assisted in framing the bill that made the bridge possible. That was about his first practical work as a legislator. In 1908 he had pledged the Hartland people that genuine "Priestley's" he would get the appropriation for a punic building without delay. He had done so cloth. Look for the There was not a town the size of Hardand in any part of Canada with a public building so elaborate. In fact, this building was the beginning of a new policy of the old government. It was something of ar old government. It was something of an experiment and the idea of combining post office, customs and armory under one roof is to be carried out in the future, the new government approving of the plan.

Continuing, Mr. Carvell said Hartland had the name of being an enterprising town, but there was one thing lacking yet and that was electric light. It was seemingly strange that such strenuous opposition should meet the attempt to dam the Becaguimac, but the speaker had the identical experience when he sought a charter to build the dam at Woodstock. There the circumstances were practically the same. circumstances were practically the same. The only difference it made to the other interests on the stream was that it made the log driving a little easier. His sympa-thy was with the Hartland Electric Power Company. Referring to the election, when the Lib eral party met with such reverses, no one should think that the matter of reciprocity was settled.

We have not given the extension of man kets the consideration it deserves. Carvell referred to the British preference and while he did not make a special exhi bition of loyalty he felt he was as loyal as anyone else and especially to Canada, and for her benefit he would like to see the British preference increased to 50 per ont. What the farmers of the east and west needed was a bigger market. Said the speaker: "I stated in the house that in ny constituency alone the farmers had ost $300,000 since the defeat of reciprocity. Even Sir Wilfrid himself question as being extreme. I stated that think $400,000 would be extre figures could be quoted to prov

The question is not dead, and will not die." (Loud cheers and cries of "never!") Mr. Carvell said he had met Page Rideout on a recent trip to Saskatoon nad found him doing big business in farm machinery. Mr. Ride-out claims that there will surely be a revo-lution in the west if there is no southern

This year hundreds of thousands of bus lie there rotting today, because there was more of it than could be shipped eastward. twelve railroads have their noses right up to the boundary line, awaiting traffic from our great west. Mr. Carvell said Page Rideout had told him that in Saskatoon district sufficient ploughing outfits had been sold this year to increase the wheat acreage three times what it is now.

What's going to be done with this wheat? It the United States would take off the 25 cents a bushel daity the solution of this problem would be easy. After we have supplied Great Britain the only country in the world who will take our wheat is the United States.

try in the world who will take our wheat is the United States.

"You have some hope, however," said Mr. Carvell, cheerfully. "Mr. Borden is down in the States now. Perhaps he can come to some trade agreement. I really hope so."

We all know reciprocity is the one great question in the west; we must have mar-kets; if we cannot sell we must cease to produce. Hitherto our prosperity has de-pended upon immigration. Should produc-tion cease and immigration cease there must be stagnation. No matter which way you turn over the question whether for the east or the west it is clearly evident to every fair-minded man that reciprocity is the solution of the market question. Mr. Carvell would like to see farm machinery on the free list. The United States is our nearest mar ket. Everything brings better prices in the States; we all know that. It is un-butter and our mutton cheaper. Con-cluding, Mr. Carvell stated plainly that his position was the greatest freedom of trade, consistent with whatever tariff is neces-would pass.

Space will not permit of further report of the speeches, all of which were excellent. The chairman in closing said there could not have been a gathering more representative of the county, there could not be produced a finer aggregation of men, there faced him 200 sober men who on the morrow morn would have no regrets and morrow morn would have no regrets and morrow morn would have no regrets and no headaches. The contrast with other banquets we have heard of is marked.

The young men's band of Woodstock under the leadership of Geo. Britton discoursed excellent music. For a young band this organization is deserving of praise and patronage.

How To Easily Restore Your VITAL MANHOOD

Strong, vigorous vitality, the crowning glory of mature, healthy

Do you know, reader, what this means to you? leans to you?

If by these few simple inspired words (which every man may with profit read) I should be the means of pointing out to you or other men the straight and sure, if narrow, road to new manhood, new powers, new capacities for a better and more glorious physical and vital development, then in doing this I have rendered a great and lasting service to my fellow beings and one which is infinite in its power for good. This self-same VITALITY, this builder of manhood and manly vigor, may easily be regained, and will tell you how. Have you ever stopped to sider that it is this VITAL FORCE which makes rugged men the real men that they are? It is this same MAN FORCE which is behind every great achievement in the world today, which gives the flower of His Majesty's army and navy the courage to meet and face cath unflinchingly; which gives the rough and rugged man of the plains that compelling power to rescue at all odds loved ones rom some great peril, as our il lustration here portrays, and it is this self-same identical VITAL VIGOR which I must impart to you reader, if you are not the man you should be.

Therefore, if I give you new vitality. I make you young again and keep you feeling young the balance of your days. By increasing your vital supply, I soon have you answering "Simply feeling fine" to your friends' morning greetings, while they in their turn will secretly marvel at the wondrous change for the better which has come over you. A thoroughly vital, manly man is the greatest inspiration in the world; bis power and fascination are felt by men alike who are near him. Nothbut death can conquer the giant of ength and manly vigor. On the er hand, how different with the of-man, the neurasthenic degenerate, who is burning up his vitality in dissi-pation and excesses! Is there any sight more pitiable, more repellant to one's sense of decency, than the weakling who deliberately kills his manhood and self-respect by acts of willful debauchery? Such a man has neither my sympathy nor can he profit by what wisdom I can impart. But any man who is willing to make a fair, square fight for the return of his lost vitality and lost manhood, who will promise faithfully and honestly to discontinue any debasing practices or excesses he may be indulging, who will help me
