Landing ex stmr Columbia;

Excuse me—It was—It seemed to me, a boly, kiss.

"Q.—You have said something about your not returning it? A.—Well, sir, I felt—I felt so deeply grateful that if I had returned the kiss, I might have returned it with an enthusiasm that would have offended her delicacy; it was not best, under the circumstances, that she and I should kiss."

We have before he finishes. Mr. Beeck-WRAPPING PAPER! Or a Short Season of English Opera M. W. FRANCIS, we hope before he finishes, Mr. Beecher will go deeper into this interesting subject, and construct for us a little distinctionary of kissing. What is the kiss of pleasure to which he refers? What relation does it bear to the paroxysmal kiss, and what exactly is the last? May the kiss of pleasure or the paroxysmal kiss be returned? and, if so, is enthusiasm proper under such circumstances? What are the circumstances under which it is not best for a pastor and his female parishioner to kiss? If to return a kiss of inspiration with enthusiasm is to endanger giving offence to her delicacy, what kind of kiss may be so returned without offence to the delicacy of a lady? These are important questions, and we hope Mr. Beecher will answer them. He was lecturing to theological students of New Haven last year, but he did not instruct them in this essential part of a clergyman's duties. Forty-one Cases! DR. Another matter is of great consequence. Shall a minister confine his kisses, whether of pleasure, inspiration, paroxysmal, or holy, to the young and comely sisters, or must be also include the old and ugly ones?
