

1. The Kansas City Chiefs, in 1970. The Chiefs finished second in the old AFL Western Division in 1969, then defeated the defending World Champion New York Jets and the Western Division winners, the Oakland Raiders, before defeating Minnesota 23-7 in the 1970 Super Bowl.

2. The Miami Dolphins and Washington Redskins; Miami won in '73, the Skins in their rematch last year.

3. The New Orleans Saints.

4. The Redskins started in Boston, the Raiders in Oakland.

5. John Riggins, of Washington.

6. A couple of Joes - Kapp with B.C. and Minnesota, Theisman with Toronto and Washington.

7. Daryle Lamonica, of the Oakland Raiders in Super Bowl II.

7. Who was the first former Notre Dame quarterback to play for a Super Bowl participant?

6. What two quarterbacks have led their teams to the Grey Cup final and Super Bowl berths?

5. Who holds the Super Bowl single game rushing record?

4. What cities were this year's Super Bowl contestants originally located in?

3. What current NFL franchise is the only team that has never made the post-season play-offs?

2. What two teams have played each other twice in the Super Bowl and split the games?

1. What team was the first "wild card" entry to win a Super Bowl.

Super Bowl Quiz (answers below)

WL: 125-108-1 (.536) vs. spread: 80-23 (.777)

Overall: 3-5 (.375) vs. spread: 2-1 (.667)

WL: 122-103-1 (.542) vs. spread: 78-22 (.780)

Playoffs: Final Regular Season Record:

"Way back in August, I picked the Cowboys and Jets to meet in the Super Bowl. With Dallas eliminated, my crystal football barometer decided (We already know what happened to the Jets, and I will not offer any more commentary on that team!) So much for long range predictions. However, I can figure the Rams would beat the Cowboys. And the Seahawks, win over Miami had to be a major upset."

I'm fairly happy with my final overall record: I was well above the .500 mark, and I finished off the regular season with a rush, posting a 10-4 mark for Week 16. The play-offs have been another story, though. (See below.) Never in my wildest dreams (and I've had some pretty wild ones!) did I expect that we have to put up with Howard for one final game.

After that - the Pro Bowl! Actually, there is one game of significance - the U.S. vs. the U.S.A. in the Super Bowl. The Rebels host the Rebels in the NFL season - the just one more game remains in the NFL season - the game that signifies the ultimate pinnacle of Pro Football.
