

When Labour Rules

life. And I am optimistic enough to hope that, when they see our objects are fair play all round, when they have it proved to them that our administration will mean industrial peace, with all the stupendous saving that means, they will be ready, not only to give us the credit for having the good of the community at heart, but will come forward and associate themselves with our ideals both in home and international affairs.