SALUBRITY SUMMIT.
New Capital of the Australian Commonwealth is Also Picturesque.

Tumut, the new capital of the Australian Commonwealth, half-way between Sydney and Melbourne, is at the present moment so remote from the outer world that it is fully twenty miles distant from the nearest line of railroad, with which it keeps in touch by means of a daily coach service. But what it lacks in prosperity and in accessibility it makes up in salubrity and in the picturesque beauty of its surroundings. The town as now constituted has a population of about thirteen hundred, with four banks, four churches, curiously placed, as if they were the reflection of the painter's eye of the Southern Cross; a few schools, a lecture hall and three inns. The principle buildings are of red brick, while the others are of the weatherboard verandah fronted, corrugated iron roof variety, as common in the small western towns of this country as in Australia, and are protected on the slope of the hills, along the banks of the River Tumut, from which the town takes its name, and which, unlike most Australian rivers, does not become infinitesimally small during the hot weather, but remains at the high water mark always, thanks, perhaps, to the melting snows of the neighboring mountains, the loftiest of which is Mount Kosciusko, the culminating point of the entire continent.

This abundance of water all the year round—so rare in Australia—contributes to render the Town of Tumut and its vicinity a perfect garden from January to December. The river is overhung by closely set willows, while the roads are bordered by hedgerows of sweet briar, intermingled with wattle, the golden blossom of which is the floral emblem of Australia. Long lines of poplars are dwarfed here and there by huge gum trees, while the valley is green with Indian corn, Tumut maize commanding the top prices in the markets of Sydney and Melbourne. In fact, the vegetation of Tumut never becomes the withered, bone dry spectacle, so familiar during the heated season in other parts of Australia; and situated as it is in a sheltered mountain valley, its climatic conditions are those of a sanatorium as compared with those of Sydney and Melbourne. Indeed, it is difficult to conceive of political strife taking any acute form at Tumut, where the mountain air, cooled by the snows of towering Kosciusko, will always be at hand to soothe the heated passions and to calm the fevered brow of the Australian legislator.

Tumut has the rare advantage of being able to have its name spelled forward or backward, according to the wishes of its inhabitants, and, moreover, it is originally and therefore characteristically Australian.

Art Schools in Britain.
According to the Cornhill Magazine the youth of Britain who has a liking for art has a choice of 250 schools and 1,600 art classes conducted at the expense of the State. His next step is the Royal College of Art at South Kensington, which is also under the Board of Education. Art teachers are formed here, but other students can enter on payment of $65 a term if they pass the tests. There is the State school in London at University College. The Royal Academy schools have a five-year course. The last report of the examiners at the Victoria and Albert Museum (South Kensington) shows that 5,722 works were entered for competition out of 41,510 sent up to London for examination. Birmingham took seventy-four prizes, of which nineteen are for jewelry and metalwork. The report takes a shot at a modern fashion by the remark: "We regret to notice the pernicious influence in some of the designs of that modern phase of work which has been called 'L'Art Nouveau.' The rebuke has struck very close home for the Victoria and Albert Museum has been acquiring of late a good many specimens of the modern art to which the examiners attribute a 'pernicious influence.'"

Phoenix Park, Dublin.
Phoenix Park at Dublin, in which the Vice-regal Lodge is situated and which in the old duelling days was the place where gallant Irish gentlemen were accustomed to settle their little differences, says the Magazine de l'Art Nouveau, derived its name, not from Phoenix, the mythological hero, brother of Europa and companion of Achilles to the Trojan war, but from the old Irish word "Fionn-Uisce" (pronounced "Finu-isk"), which may be translated as "a spring of running water," and many will doubtless be interested to know that it is from this same word in the combination "Uiscebeugh" that is derived the modern word of whiskey.

Unlucky Day, Friday.
It was Monday morning, and the rent collector was busy pursuing his fell task. His bag was getting heavier, but his heart was light till he reached the house of Mrs. Sandish. Master Sandish opened the door here, and with the air of one who had learned his message well, he said: "Mither and father's out. Will you please to call on Friday?" "H'm!" said the collector. He would have said more, but it did not seem of much use. Then a thought struck him. "And why on Friday, my little man?" "That's what I dinna ken," said the little man, "unless it's because we be gain the fit on Thursday." London Tit-Bits.

THE FIRSTBORN.

Why is it that the firstborn child is so often the healthiest of a family of children? The reason seems to suggest itself. As child follows child the mother has less and less vitality, energy, not enough for herself and none, therefore, for her child.

Expectant mothers who use Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription find that it keeps them in vigorous health. They eat well, sleep well and are not nervous. When baby comes its advent is practically painless, and the mother is made happy by the birth of a healthy child. If you would be a healthy mother of healthy children use "Favorite Prescription."

"I will be very glad to say a few words for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. P. S. Douglas, of Mansfield, Brimco Co., Quebec. "During the first four months, when I looked forward to becoming a mother, I suffered very much from nausea and vomiting. I felt so terribly sick I could eat nothing, and I felt all kinds of things. I had all kinds of food. At this time I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he told me to get his 'Favorite Prescription' and a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I got a bottle of each, and when I had taken them a few days, I felt much better, and when I had taken hardly three parts of each bottle I felt well and could eat as well as any one, and could do my work without any trouble (I could not do anything before). I feel very thankful to Dr. Pierce for his medicine, and I tell all who tell me they are sick, to get these medicines, or write to Dr. Pierce."

SECOND LETTER.

This Time Mr. Chamberlain Writes to Tariff Reform League.

London, Sept. 18.—Writing from his home at Highbury, Birmingham, Mr. Chamberlain made his first public statement since his resignation. His letter is in reply to Mr. C. A. Pearson, Chairman of the Executive Council of the Tariff Reform League, who asked if Mr. Chamberlain coincides with his view, that the examination of the tariff may be considered as sufficiently advanced, and that the league should now use its resources to advocate the employment of a tariff for the purpose of consolidating and developing the resources of the empire and defending the industries of the United Kingdom.

Mr. Chamberlain says:—"I agree with your views, that we have sufficient material in the way of facts and figures. We have now to state our conclusions and endeavor to get the people to adopt them."

Mr. Chamberlain then gives his understanding of the position of the Tariff Reform League under two heads as coinciding with his position. Their objects, he says, are:—"First, a closer union with the colonies by means of preferential tariffs, in order to endeavor to make the empire self-sufficient as regards its food supply."

Secondly, the employment of a tariff as a weapon to secure greater reciprocity with foreign nations; or, failing such arrangement, to prevent loss to the home industrial markets, under the competition of protected countries, by retaliating upon them the treatment they mete out to us.

"On this understanding," Mr. Chamberlain concludes, "with the league success and the support of everyone desiring the union of the empire and the continued prosperity of British commerce."

The Associated Press is informed that Lord Lansdowne will remain Secretary for Foreign Affairs. The persistency with which it is rumored that Austen Chamberlain, the Postmaster-General, will succeed Mr. Ritchie as Chancellor of the Exchequer, emphasizes the extraordinary nature of the relations which Mr. Balfour still maintains towards his colleagues. The Liberal organs point out the futility of any supposed change of heart on the part of a Government which includes Mr. Chamberlain's son, who has been almost as active as his father in organizing the preferential tariff agitation.

THE STAGE

"All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

At the Chatham Grand:—

Henrik Ibsen's drama, "Ghosts"—Monday, Sept. 21st.
Perry O'Dell & Dee—Sept. 22, 23 and 24.
"Quincy Adams Sawyer,"—Sept. 29.

(Supplied to The Planet by Press Agency.)

"GHOSTS" TO-NIGHT.

"Ghosts" will be seen at the Grand Opera House this Monday night with Edith Ellis-Baker in the role of Mrs. Alving and Donald Robertson in the part of Pastor Manders. This extraordinary play may safely be rated the sensation of the season. The critics have pronounced Ibsen to be more subtle than Tolstoi, Sudermann or Maeterlinck, and all agree that he is the master of stage literature.

"Ghosts" is the craze of the period and has electrified London, Paris, Berlin and New York. The first performance in America was given at Carnegie Hall, New York, the admission being five dollars, since which it has had successful runs at two of the most fashionable play houses in the city. The cast must necessarily be made up of high-class players, as the quality of the play makes unusual demands upon the actors. The performances everywhere are patronized by the elite of the city.

COMEDIANS COMING.

Perry, O'Dell & Dee's Comedians and Vaudeville Company will appear here on Fair Night. This company enjoys the reputation of a splendid evening's entertainment. Speaking of their appearance in Guelph the Daily Herald says:—"Perry, O'Dell & Dee's Comedians opened a four nights' engagement at the Royal Opera House, and by the applause the artists received, went to show that the audience was more than pleased with the performance. Among those taking part was Baby Bonnie Dee, the cleverest young actress on the stage to-day. W. H. Abel who is without doubt unequalled as a performer on the slack wire; and several new and excellent views on the kinetograph. Also some beautifully illustrated songs. The Three Dees have a singing and dancing sketch which is intensely interesting and very clever. The balance of the company goes up to a very high standard, and all the acts brought forth loud applause. This entertainment is one of the best and cleanest of the kind that has ever visited this city, and should draw large houses." The press all over the country seem to have nothing but praise for the performance given by the Perry, O'Dell & Dee Company, and a most satisfactory engagement is looked forward to upon their appearance here.

They will appear at the Grand Opera House September 22, 23 and 24.

Stole a Ship.

It is the fashion when a famous judge or detective retires to give a list of his most remarkable cases. Sir Hartley Williams, the retiring senior puisne judge of Victoria, has been the subject of such a retrospect. One of the first cases he had to try was a very rare offence indeed—stealing a steamship. A couple of audacious scoundrels named Henderson and Wallace stole a steamer from the Clyde, disguised her very skillfully and went on a pleasure cruise around the world. At Melbourne, where they posed as scions of English nobility and received much social attention, the fraud was detected. They were arrested, convicted and sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. Stealing a ship is like stealing an elephant, a very unprofitable form of crime. The risks are enormous, and it is difficult to get rid of the stolen property or convert it into cash.—London Chronicle.

THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vices of early youth, exposure to contagious diseases, or the excesses of manhood. They feel they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The vim, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you nervous and despondent? Are you irritable and excitable? Are you unable to force yourself through the day's work? Have you little ambition and energy? Are you irritable and excitable? Are you sunken, depressed and haggard looking? Memory poor and brain fogged? Have you weak back with dreams and losses at night?
