John H. Oldershaw, ilington St. Near Harrison Hall Dooiey on the Medical Profes-

ENNESSY having expressed the opinion that Christian Science is all foolishness, "Well, sir, who can tell?" said Mr. Dooley. "If it wasn't f'r progress, I'd be sure the Christyan Scien-tists was wrong. But the doctor who attinded me whin I was young 'd be thought as loonatical if he was alive to-day as th' mos' Christyan Scientist that iver rayjooced a swellin' over a long-distance tillyphone. He inthra-jooced near th' whole parish into this life iv sin an' sorrow, he give us calomel with a shovel, bled us like a polis captain, an' niver thought anny mediine was good if it dian't choke ye goin' down. I can see him now as he come up dhrivin' an ol' gray an' yel-low horse in a buggy. He had whisk-ers that he cud tie in a knot round his waist, an' him an' th' priest was th' on'y two men in th' neighborhood that carried a goold watch. He used to say 'twas th' healthiest parish in th' wuruld, barrin' hangin's an' thransportations, an' thim come in Father Hickey's province. Ivrybody thought he was a gr-reat man, but they wudden't lave him threat a spavin in these days. He was catch-as-catch-can, an' he'd tackle annything fr'm pneumony iv th' lungs to premachure baldness. He'd niver heerd iv microbes, an' nayther did I till a few years ago, whin I was tol' they was a kind iv animals or bugs. that crawled around in ye like spiders. I see pitchers iv thim in th' pa-apers with eyes like pooched eggs, till I dhreamed wan night I was a hayloft full iv bats. Thin th' dock down th' sthreet set me r-right. He says th' microbes is a vigitable, an' ivry man is like a conservatory full iv millyons

iv these potted plants.
"Well, that sounds all right, an' I sind f'r a doctor. 'Dock,' says I, 'me vilets ar-re thinnin' out, an' I feel as though I was full by sage brush, say. Th' dock puts a glass chube in me mouth an' says, 'Don't bite it.' 'D'ye think I'm a glass eater?' says I, talkin' through me teeth like a Kerry lawyer. 'What's olt f'r?' I says. 'To take ye'er timprachoor,' says he. About th' time I'm r-ready to sthrangle he removes th' chube. 'How high does she spout?' says I. 'Ninety-nine,' says he. 'Good hivens,' says I. 'Don't come near me, dock, or you'll be sun sthruck, says. T've just examined ye'er blood, Be that time I'm scared to death, an' I say a few prayers, whin he fixes a hose to me chest an begins listenin 'Annything goin' on inside?' says I.
'Tis ye'er heart,' says he. 'Glory be.' says I. 'What's th' matther with that ol' ingine? says I. 'I cud tell ye,' he says, 'but I'll have to call in Dock Vinthricle, th' specyalist, he says. 'I oughtn't be lookin' at ye'er heart at all, he says. 'I niver larned below th' chin, an' I'd be fired be th' Union if they knew I was wurrukin' on th' heart, he says. So he sinds fr Dock Vinthricle, an' th' dock climbs me chest an' listens, an' thin he says. 'They'se something the matter with his. ings, too,' he says. 'At times they're full iv air an' again,' he says, 'they ain't', he says, 'Sind f'r Bellows,' ne says. Bellows comes and pounds me as though I was a roof he was shinglin', an' havin' accidentally hit th' belt, he sinds for Dock Laporatteny, an' th' Dock sticks his finger into me as far as th' knuckle.

'He shakes his head an' goes out v th' room with th' others, an' they alk it over at tin dollars a minyit while I'm layin' there at two dollars a day-docked. Whin they come back, wan iv thim says, 'This here is a mos' inthrestin' case an' we must have th' whole class take a look into it,' he says. It means me, Hinnissy. 'Dock,' he says, 'ye will remove its brain. Vinthricle, ye will have its heart; an', Bellows, ye will take its lungs. As fr. me,' he says, 'I will add wan more vermiform appindix to me belt,' he says. 'Tis sthrange how our foolish preecessors,' says he, 'niver got on to th' dangers iv th' vermiform appindix,' he says. 'I have no doubt that that's what kilt Methusalem,' he says. So they mark out their wurruk on me with a piece iv red chalk, an' if I get well, I look like a rag carpet. Sometimes they lave things in ye, Hinnissy. I knowed a man wanst -Moriarty was his name, Tim Moriarty—an' he had to be hemstitched hurridly because they was goin' to be a ball game that day, an' they locked up in him two sponges, a saw, an' ice pick, a goold watch, an' a pair iv curlin'-irons belongin' to wan the nurses. He tol' me he didn't feel well, but he didn't think annything iv it till he noticed that he jingled whin he walked.

"That's what they do with ye nowadays, Hinnissy. Ivry time I go into Dock Cassidy's office, he gives me a look that makes me wisht I'd wore a suit iv chain armor. His eyes seem to say, 'Can I come in?' Between th' Christyan Scientists an' him, 'tis a question iv whether ye want to be threated like a loonytic or like a can ly presarved vigitables. Father Kelly says th' styles iv medicine changes like th' styles iv hats. Whin he was a boy, they give ye quinine f'r whatiyer ailed ye, an' now they give ye sthrychnine, an' nex' year they'll be givin' ye proosic acid, maybe. He says they're findnew things th' matther with ye ivry day, an' ol' things that have to taken out, ontil th' time is comin' whin not more thin half iv us 'll be rale an' th' rest 'll be rubber. He says they ought to enforce th' law iv assault with a deadly weepin' again th' doctors. He says that if they knew less about pizen an' more about gruel an' opened fewer patients an' more windows, they'd not be so manny Christyan Scientists. He says th' diff'rence between Christyan Scientists an' doctors is that Christyan Scientists thinks they'se no such thing as disease, an' doctors thinks there ain't anny-thing else. An' there ye ar-re."

"What d'ye think about it?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"I think," said Mr. Dooley, "that if th' Christyan Scientists had some science an' th' doctors more Christyanity, it wudden't make anny diff'rence which ye called in-if ye had a good nurse."

Mrs. Jacob Dairmaid, Black River Bridge, Prince Edward County, Ont., suffered intense pain in both limbs for a year and a half, and two physicians were unable to give her relief. The Cause of Nervous readache

This most distressing and comm nalady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the neryous system. Probably the simplest, afest and most efficient remedy is Polson's Nerviline. What Catarrhozone is and is Not Catarrhozone is not a wash. You cannot force liquids into the lungs. It is not an ointment to be snuffed up the nostrils. Ointments are useless and disgusting. Nor is it a powder to be blown up the nostrils and still further irritate the already congested and irritated membrane. It is simbalsamic and healing substances breathed into the lungs and throat. Cures of course. That is nature's way of curing, and nature's way is the only true way. If you suffer from disease of the throat, lungs, nasal passages, do not neglect to test Catarrhozone. Take care of the stomach and the health will take care of itself. If peo-ple only realized the soundness of that statement the majority might live to a good old age like Moses, "the eye undimmed, the natural force unabat ed." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is dispensed to nerve and muscle. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do its whole work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so spread disease throughout the body It was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very cen tre of health and the common source of disease, which led Dr. Pierce to prepare his "Golden Medical Discov-"Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach." The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of diseased organs, heart, liver, lungs, blood,—by the use of the "Discovery" which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine, containing no alcohol, whis-key or other intoxicant.

Schoolboy Humor. Not the Less Sidesplitting From the Fact That it is Unconscious.

O the majority of people, pero the majority of people, per-haps, a schoolmaster's life ap-pears monotonous and unevent-ful, remarks "Chambers' Jour-nal," but to one who is apt to boys are careless, irresponsible creatures, certainly; but there is a fund of genuine, unadulterated humor in the average boy. A schoolmaster of fif-teen years' standing writes: "I have corrected, I might say, a few thousand examination papers in my time. Some

A boy, aged ten, thus answers a estion as to the cause of the Transvaal disturbances: "Krugger and Kannerbulism is one. He is a man of blud Mr. Chamberling has wrote to him saycome out and fite or else give up the blud of the English you have took. he is a boardutchman and wickid hee-thin, lord Kitchener has sent for his goary blud and to bring back his scanderlous hed ded or alive.' An essay on Gladstone by a boy of eleven states: "Mr. Gladstone everybody, he lovd publicans and cinners and irishmen. he wanted the irish to come to England and have home rool, but Mr. Chamberlin says, no, no. so alars he got his blud up and killd Mr. Parnel. Mr. Gladstone died with great rispect and is buried in Westminster with pieceful ashes." Rather ambiguous is this description of Queen Elizabeth by another 'Queen Elizabeth was a vurgin queen and she was never marrid, she was so fond of dresses that she was never seen without one on, she was beautefull and clever with a red hed and freckles. The boy writer of the following is decidedly backward in his Tennyson. Concerning the late poet laureate he writes: "Tenyson wrote buteifull poims with long hair and studid so much that dear? his most graitist poim is called the idle king, he was made a lord but he was a good man and wrote many hoads, he luvd our dear Queen so much that he made a poim to her called the fairy Queen."

Another boy wishes to become an editor. In an essay on "The Choice o." Profession," he gives his reasons in hese words: "A editur is always happy man because he can read luvis tales and artikels all day and pages of sweet luv poems. A good editur has branes, but it must be very sail for him having to read melankolle stories of luv so as to make him allmost weep with tears from his eyes. a editur is a rich man because he never pays for artikels and so has all this

One could hardly put the following deas of a certain youth on "Honesty" to a practical use: "It is a nobel thing to be a honist man. If you are a honist man you can look the world in its face and never be ashamed of the devill, it is good to be honist when sum one is looking becaws you may get a reeward. I know a churchwarding who is a honist man who collects money on Sunday in his black clothes. if you are honist when you are young you may grow to be rich and the lord

'My hero is my father because he is a Christyun clergyman, my father says o my son gro up like your father and ct yourself because nobody else will rispect you. I am goin' to be clergyman because my father says I am a ass in school and have no branes to get a livin' in bizniss."

Shakespeare is hardly appreciated by the young hopeful who writes:"Shakespeare was a famus polt and poachur, he wrote luvly plaze called the tame shrew, hamblet and a scotch piece called Macdoogul. In Shakespeares time some of the plaze were very rude but now everything is so polite that a innercent father can take his baby and it wont disgust it. Shakespeare was so ill when he died that he cried out oh my cursid bones. One youth, who is a poet in embryo, is a great admirer of Longfellow. "Longfellow," he says, "wrote a grate poem called "The brik," he butefully poemises in this way—I stood on a brik at midnight and gazed at the clock for an hour.' A boy, mourning the loss of an uncle, writes the following letter to his mas-ter: "Dear Reverend Sir, I am injoying my holidays and have only been ill twice, my unkel died with being old in three days larst week, and we have had a plesant fewneral. I want to work in my arithmetic sir as you sed but it would be wicked if I lid it with a ded unkel, my father says if I dont get a prize next term sumthing will happen -I am Your rispectabul pupil "JOHN."

"No such thing as a new story now," rrowled Watterson, "It is imposs keep a story good for two days. What's the use of thinking up new stories when they get spread all over the country between daylight and dawn? Why, sir, do you know that it is impossible to keep a good story as your own pro-perty. It's these blank telegraph operators who like good stories better than anybody. Suppose Chauncey Depew has a good story in New York. He tells it. Some telegraph operator hears it, and that night when things are quiet on the wire he asks the fellow at San Francisco or Denver or Timbuctoo it he has heard the latest, and then he ticks it off. Every man along the line hears it and ticks it off to the fellow he is working with, and by daylight the new story is the property of the wide, wide world. New story? Faugh!"
