As several new houses are in process of construction, it is very important that the general appearance of the premises con-nected with such buildings should receive some attention. The difference between a picturesque and pleasing arrangement of grounds and outbuildings and an illconsidered and vulgar condition of the premises is readily perceived. The concert given by the Keatville
Philharmonic and Dramatic Society on Thursday evening, April 28th, was largely attended and was considered a success throughout. The violin solo by Mr Barnett was one of his best efforts, and Mrs Richardson's song "Lullaby," received an encore. The other pieces were all well rendered. The second half of the enter-tainment consisted of a farce entitled "Our Friend the Major." This furnished lots amusement for the audience for about an hour and a half. All the characters were well acted, and the farce from first to last was without hesitation or blunder.

Samuel Chipman to be surveyor of highways in district 1, Ward 3, in place of differences. As the Village lies at the the base and the side of a hill, it is the more to be regretted that want of consideration in regard to these matters is sometimes exhibited. The financial value of a property is very much increased by such an arrangement of the premises as indicates refinement rather than coarselings. To a much larger extent than is often supposed, we are judged by little things.

While the Village is growing is time to consider these matters. It ought not to be overlooked that this regard to decent appearances does not call for any grattine rease in expediture, but rather for a little foresight and the exercise of a wholesome judgment in making plans. It is quite possible to escape vulgarity without striving for excessive refinement.

Cheap Trip to Europe.

Editor James of The Statesman, Bownanville, goes to Europe nearly every summer in charge af a tourist party and has got travel in the Old Land reduced ins got travel in the Old Land reduced to a system and the expenses down very fine. He has issued a pamphlet containing cheap excursion rates and telling how and when to go, what to wear, what bagge to take and other useful information for ocean travellers. He has lowest rates with steamships and railway lines, hotels, etc., and all who buy tickets from him get the benefit. He is agent for leading steamship lines sailing from New York, Halifax and Montreal and does a big ticket business all the year round. He leaves with his tourist party for 1892 about July 1st or a trip through Scotland and England. Mrs James will accompany him. We want any of our readers who join Mr James' party to send us for publication letters, descriptive of their travels and we will gladly mail this paper to them during their absence if they will give us their address. Mr and Mrs B. Webster returned from Halifax last Saturday evening. Mr Webster looks quite well after the fatiguing meetings of the Committee of Investigation. The electors of Kings must certainly-feel that they have been represented by one of the ablest men in the House of Assembly.

Miss Whitman, teacher in elocution, gave a literary and dramatic entertainment in Margeson's Hall last Monday evening. The audience was small. The entertainment consisted of Jean Ingelow's "Bongs of Seven," several readings by Mism Whitman, and 16 pletured emotions in Greek costume by the same. Miss Whitman is a good elocutionst and deserves a better audience when she again appears upon the stage with her pupils.

The Arlington Minstrels paraded the street on Tuesday with their band, and in the evening they gave a ministrel show in Margeson's Hall. The music was considered very good and a few local hits were given during the performance.
