"Or slippers!" says Carrie.
"Or slippers!" says Mr. Harrington.
"There ought to be a law passed prohibiting elderly men from attending this kind of thing! Good-might! I wish I were going to bed as early as you will be!"

whith sided force nead, above which waggie a spiendid bunch of feathers—feathers were worn in her young days, and she still stacks to them, staunch oid lady as she is.

Carrie smiles as this direct question is put, and waits for the answer. If only

"Good-night!" says Lord Cecil. "Good-night, Miss Carrie! My fervent hopes for your enjoyment!"
"Thanks!" says Carrie, airily. "They are certain to be fulfilled."
Then she gets into the fly, and, drawing her skirts around her, falls into an intense silence, which lasts until the vehicle joins the line of carriages at the entrance to the Town Hall. The building is a blaze of light; footmen in their best liveries stand in double file on either side of the crimson carpet under the "Thanks!' says Carrie, airily. "They are certain to be fulfilled."

Then she gets into the fly, and, drawing her skirts around her, falls into an intense silence, which least until the vehicle joins the line of carriages at the entrance to the Town Hall. The building is a blaze of light; footneen in their best liveries stand in double file on either side of the crimson carpet under they gay awning; overfed horses are prancing; Perspiring coachmen are swearing under their breath; and confusion which is not half so confounded as is looks reigns triumphant.

"We shall be kept here for an hour," says Mr. Harrington, uttering the grumble which he had given vent to for years on similar ocasions.

reigns triumphant.

"We shall be kept here for an hour," says Mr. Harrington, uttering the grumble which he had given vent to for years on similar ceasions.

make way, and coordinate entrance.

"Ah, Willie, how are you!" says Mr. Harrington, dolefully; but Willie, taking mo heed of him, gets hold of Carrie's hand and helps her out.

"How good of you to come so early!" he murmurs, his honest, handsome face.

"I don't mind in the very least," says Carrie, with a laugh. He offers her his arm, and just touching it with her fingers, she allows him to escort her upstairs into the bailroom, Mr. Harrington taking charge of Philippa, or rather, to be correct, Philippa taking charge of him.

A waltz has just commenced as they enter, and Willie Fairfold, with badly-concealed eagerness, presses for her hand, but Carrie declines.
"I don't know that I shall dance at ali," says Carrie, coldly.
"Not dance!" he says, staring at her.
"Oh, come—"

passes on.

"Here is a seat, if you are sure you won't dance," says Willie, longingly.
"Not this one," says Carrie; and she scats herself within earshot of the grandees. "But don't let me kep you. Send my father to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"No you's here to me, and go and dance."
"You won't have to me, and go and dance."
"You won't have to me, and go and dance."

I said, I may not dance all the evening."
"Then I will not, either," he says, with determination; and he seats himseelf be-

"That's absurd." she says, shortly. "As I said, I may not dance all the evening."
"Then I will not, either," he says, with determination; and he seats himself be side her.

Five—two—minutes have not elapsed before they are surrounded. Soldiers are quick to acknowledge grace and beauty, and some of the officers of the regiment gather round the beautiful young Miss Harrington in an admiring and solicitous group.

But to one and all Carrie expresses her determination, and some of them go id desagaingly, while others remain to of desagaingly, while others remain to "Do," says Carrie; then she turns away. Five—two—minutes have not elapsed before they are surrounded. Soldiers are quick to acknowledge grace and beauty, and some of the officers of the regiment gather round the beautiful young Miss Harrington in an admiring and solici-expectantly on the door.

"Yes, I should think so," says the countess, with a smile that barely conceals her anxiety—poor mother! "He would never think of refusing, surely."

"Oh. dear me, no, dear Lady Catesby," says Lady Bellairs, with a bland, self-satisfied smile; "Lord Neville quite promised to come—didn't he, Euphemia?"

Euphemia smiles vacantly, and the grandees, who have not at all forgiven Lady Bellairs the butcher's shop, eye the pair coldly and doubtfully.

"Rather an eccentric young man, isn't he?" says the old duchess, who is more than rather deaf, and who, like most deaf people, speaks in a particularly loud and distinct voice. "Something wrong here, eh?" and she touched her imassional surface in the says, "no more," and there is something in her voice that makes him hesitate and look at her.

Carrie smiles as this direct question is put, and waits for the answer. If only Lord Cecil could hear them?

"N-o," says Lady Sexton, who is rather young and pretty, and was nearly a professional beauty for half a season. "Oh, no, only eccentric; it runs in the famu," ble which he had given vent to for years on similar ocasions.

But, as if in answer to the complaint, a tall, stalwart figure in evening dress comes to the door, and Willie Fairfold's voice says cheerily:

"Here you are! I'll make way for you!" and with a word or two he does make way, and the fly moves up to the entrance.

"Ah, Willie, how are you!" says Mr. Harrington, dobfully; but Willie, taking no heed of him, gets hold of Carrie's pretend not to understand, and quuetly retend not to understand, and quuetly pretend not to understand, and quietl attempt to evade the question, but her grace is accustomed to be answered, and siterates the interrogatory rather more undly this time. But Carrie smiles he murmurs, his honest, handsome face raddening with delight and gratification. They have only got through two dances. I have waited outside, thinking you wouldn't be late."

"But why?" says Carrie, coldly. "We could have got in without your taking so much trouble."

"It is no trouble," he says, quickly, and peering into the fly. "Is—is Lord Cecil with you"

"No," says Carrie, shortly.

His face clears again.

"No? Well, never mind——"

"I don't mind in the very least," says Carrie, with a laugh.

He offers her his arm, and just touch ing it with her fingrers, she allows him to The ladies round the august old dame should like to know her—"

The ladies round the august old dame stare at each other aghast, and the duchess, who likes to be obeyed, is about to repeat the request in her loudest tones, when Carrie, crimson to her delicate ear-tips, looks up with a smile at Willie, and says:

"I think I will have a turn if you are still of the same mind"

"I think I will have a turn it you are still of the same mind."

Of the same mind! With a flash of the eyes he puts his arm round her waist, and as the gentleman comes for-ward with the duchess' message, Carrie

"Not dance!" he says, staring at her.
"Oh, come—"
"Why should I:" she says, looking round the crowded room. "There are quite enough without me!"
"Why!" he says, aghast, "the ball wouldn't be the ball if you didn't dance! If you won't give me this, give me the next," he pleads.

She remains silent, and with a patient sigh he walks round the room searching for a seat.

As they make the circuit they come to the further end of the room, where, whented on rout seats and gathered to "Oh, the old duchess says what she likes, you kalow," he explains

As they make the circuit they come to the further end of the room, where, planted on rout seats and gathered to gether as if for mutual protection, are the elite, the titled grandees whom Carrie has declared that she hates.

There are the Dowager Duchess of Clevebook, the Countess of Doromore and her six marriageable daughters, Lady Sexton, and last, but not leastin bulk—Lady Bellairs.

There they sit, enthroned, as it were.

Clevebook, the Countess of Doromore and her six marriageable daughters, Lady Sexton, and last, but not leastin bulk—Lady Bellairs.

There they sit, enthroned, as it were apart from the vulgar herd, exclusive and aristocratic.

As Carrie approaches, the modesty and meckness which Philippa commended so highly disappear; the finely-cut liped and the beautiful eyes harden and become icy.

Lady Bellairs, the butcher's daughter, surveying the seene patronizingly through her gold eye-glasses, sees the beautiful vision approaching, and at one—immediately—stiffens into stone, and bestows an elaborate "cut" upon Carrie, and tries to look as if she didn't see her. Carrie smiles sarcastically, and, in an audible whisper to Willie, says:

"The best people have not come yet, 1 see."

"And having thus delivered her thrust, passes on.

"Here is a seat, if you are sure you."

"But the year of the result well, say say well us she thought she would, and very soon she tone, of the looking on better than dancing. There is a nice little corner. Let us stand there."

"All right," says Willie, delighted at the prospect of a tete-a-tete.

And they go into the corner. But they are not aione, for a small party of aged ladies in the character of wall-flowers are seated on the rout seat, snilling inanely, and looking on through their inveglasses, in imitation of the grandees at the other end of the room.

One old lady recognizes Carrie and greets her effusively.

"How well you are looking, my dear, and is your papa here?" she wheezes.
"And Mr. Fairfold, too! What a lot of people! More crowded than ever. But, Carrie, dear," in a hushed and excited whisper.

"Well?" says Carrie, bending her head

"No, no." he says, blushing. "You won't dance with me."

"That's absurd." she says, shortly. "As I said. I may not dance will me."

"That's absurd." she says, shortly. "As I said. I may not dance will be avenium."

The old party chuckles.

but to one and all Carrie expresses her determination, and some of them go of despairingly, while others remain to bask in her presence, and to catch a word or a smile from the girl who threatens to be the most beautiful in the room.

In the midst of the noise of the band and the dancers Carrie can still hear the voices of the grandees behind her; and presently she hears Lord Cecil Neville's name mentioned.

"I should think he will be sure to be here," says Lady Cateshy to the Countess of Donomore, whose eyes, together with those of her six daughters, are fix ed expectantly on the door.

"Yes, I should think so," says the countess, with a smile that barely conceals her anxiety—poor mother! "He would never think of refusing, surely."

"Oh, dear me, no, dear Lady Catesby," "If is a nice thing to be a young lord," he says, looking down moodily. "I don't know," retorts Carrie, re-lectively, "one would be awfully bored. Before to-morrow's sun has set old Mrs. Callendar will be down on him—Lord Cecil, not the sun!—with her missionary card!" and she laughs. "Think how they would have mobbed him if he had come! He was wise to stay at home in his slippers."

"Miss Ilarrington, do give me this dance!" says a voice at her clow, and a capatain of the regiment, a handsome fel-

"But—" he pleads.
"No more," she says, with a smile. "I didn't mean to dance at all."

He stares; he knows that she is the best waltzer in the room, but, too gentlemanly to ask for a reason or expostulate, he bows; and they start.

They have not taken a dozen turns before Carrie is conscious of a sudden faint stir in the room, that electric movement of sympathy which a crowd makes when something of common interest suddenly occurs, and looking up, she sees that all eyes are turned toward the ontrance, and that the object of interest is—Lord Cecil Neville.

(To be Continued.)

A SMART SURPLICE WAIST.

No. 8401.—Box pleats are introduced in the make-up of this pretty blouss waist, shown in a development of blue waist, shown in a development of blue satin. The surplice front discloses a chemisette topped by a high stand-ing collar of all-over lace. The mode will develop well in Brussels lace, embroidered batiste, crepe de chine, louisine, organdy and chiffon taffeta. yards of 27-inch or 2½ yards of nch material will be required. adies' Surplice Blouse—Sizes for Ladies' Surplice Blouse—Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust

The pattern here illustrated will be mailed to any address on mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Address, "Pattern Department," Times Office, Hamilton.

It will take several days before you can get patterns.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY. Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets Druggists refund money if it fails to cure E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c

ROBBING I. C. R.

A System of Frauds Alleged Against Officials.

Montreal, March 14.-What is said o be a series of frauds against the Government has been brought to light the I. C. R. in this city and Monoton are implicated. The frauds consist in false weighing at several points along the system, and have caused heavy losses to the road. It is stated here that a

The false billing of lumber between here and Point Levis was the cause of the discovery. Two cars loaded with lumber for Nicolet were inspected by a high official, who found them to be sixty thousand pounds over the weight paid for. Other reports of a like nature have been received, and a general cleanup of the system will likely take place.

DISEASE, INSANITY.

Strange Case of Auricular Abscess at Cobourg Jail.

Cobourg, March 14 .- A young man named Sam Yates was brought to the Cobourg jail recently from the eastern county violently insane. The a heavy eruption of matter was flowing from his ears. Apparently he had had an auricular abscess which pressed upon an auricular abscess which pressed upon the brain, and when the pressure was removed he became quiet and rational. It is considered a very strange case.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Chart H. Flitchers

Notice to Housekeepers.

When buying house supplies do not forget to order Gerrie's Perfection Baking Powder. It is the strongest, purest and highest grade powder sold; 2,500 of Hamilton's best housekeepers use it. Try it and you will use no other. Price, 30c. per lb.—Gerrie's drug store, 32 James street north.

MACDONALD SCHOOL BURNED. Forty-Thousand-Dollar Building at Kingston, N.B., Destroyed.

St. John, N. B., March 14 .- A tele phone message received from Sussex, N. B., says that the consolidated school N. B., says that the consolidated school building at Kingston, N. B., was de-stroyed by fire to-night. After this much information was received further mmunication was received further mmunication with Kingston could not obtained. The building was erected 1903 by Sir William Macdonald, of atreal, for the better education of the children of the country districts near Kingston. He also contributed to the CRESOLENE ANTISEPTIC TABLETS A simple and effective remedy for SORE THROATS AND COUGHS They combine the germicidal value of Cresolene with the soothing properties of allippery almand licotics. Your druggist or from us, 100 in stamps. Lammes, Mans Co., Limited, Agents, Mostreal, co.

AT R. MCKAY & CO'S.

TUESDAY, MARCH 16, 1909 HAMILTON'S MOST PROGRESSIVE STORE

SPECIAL SHOWING OF

TAILOR-MADE SUITS AND COATS

The largest and best showing of Suits and Coats ever shown by us in all the popular styles and colors. A visit to this splendid department will convince you,

Tailor-made Suits at $15.00 A large assortment to select from in all the popular up-to-date styles and colors. Coats semi and hipless models, nicely tailored and trimmed. Skirts new gored models. They are worth from $18.50 to $20.00, very special at $15.00

Tailor-made Suits at $18.50

Spring Coats $5.50 Box and semi-fitting models, in easter and black chiffen broadcloths, beautifully tailored garments, all newest styles. Regularly $8.50, very special at

Purchased From the Toronto Wholesale Bankrupt Stock

Many lines are now being cleared at this store from these well-known Toronto wholesale importers, Burton & Spence. Our buyers were one of the first to get in on the deal, and secured many of the best lines. The following for ong Kid Gloves, Reg. $3 for $1.98 Reg. $2.50 Moire Underskirts $1.49

These people were noted for their igh class kid gloves, therefore this Underskirts, made with deep accordion pleated flounce and finished with fold

Another Shipment of Shadow Striped Dress Goods

Worth Regular 65c, Sale Price 39c

Another shipment of smart up-to-date Dress Goods in a Tuesday flurry. We are simply repeating our success of Saturday by offering another lot of this swell and up-to-date material. In the lot you will find brown, green, navy, red, cream and black, all perfect shades. See this line to-morrow at per yard 39c.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT!

Grand Spring opening display will take place on Thursday, March 18th, and we promise you one of the finest displays ever attempted by this store. Wait for it.

Special Sale of Black Taffeta Silk 39c

To-morrow we will offer a special sale of 400 yards of Black Taffeta Silk. is an all-silk taffeta, bought abroad at a job price. See this splendid

Special Values for Tuesday

Cambric 121/2 c 20 pieces fine soft finish Underwear Cambric, thoroughly shrunk, full 36 nes wide, a splendid quality for fine underwear; worth 15c, special 121/2c

Pillow Cotton 18c

R. McKAY & CO.

HUMBLE HEIRESS.

Northampton Woman's Windfall to Concealed in Master's Pocket He be Subject of Law-Suit.

Northampton, Eng., is greatly excited ver the report that a humble resident of the town is heiress to the greater portion of the huge fortune left by a New York millionaire.

New York millionaire.

The first news of the legacy was contained in the following message sent by Reuter on Thursday:

The members of the family of the late Mr. Samuel H. Roebuek, the millionaire wire manufacturer of New York, threaten to contest the will, which was filed for probate yesterday.

Under this, Mrs. Flizabeth Fird, wife to America, and an even longer period o silence ensued than was the case when he first disappeared. It was twenty-five he first disappeared. It was twenty five years ere he gave another sign. Then he wrote to his sister, asking her, if possible, to find his daughter.

The sister knew her niece had married a baker named Bird, and that they lived in Northampton, but did not know their address. However, as at that time there was only one baker of the name in the town she soon found Mrs. Bird, and the latter sent her father her portrait.

The direct result of this correspondence was that Mr, Roebuck made arrangements with an assurance society to pay Mrs. Bird £1 per week, and for some years she has drawn the allowance.

of late years, too, Mr. Roebuck ha written several letters to Mrs. Bird, and often declared he would one day make her a lady. How he has kept his word Reuter's telegram shows.

MONKEY THIEF

Managed Many Thefts.

Following a shabbily dressed man, whose visits to various establishments to various establishments (5.5. 11.55 a.m. 12.65. 15.5 2.55. 3.55. 4.55. (5.5. 6.56. 7.55. 9.15. 16.15. 11.09 p. m. Cerr always associated with theft. the Following a shabbily dressed man, were always associated with theft, the Paris police have stumbled on the extra 11.15 6 16. ordinary fact of a monkey being employed for shoplifting purposes.

On Tuesday afternoon the man entered a large emporium, and was soon in quiring the price of different trinkets. As the salesman was answering his ques-tions a queer-looking head was seen to for probate yesterday.

Under this, Mrs. Elizabeth Bird, wife of Mr. Richard Bird, of Northampton, England, described as the testator's daughter, is the principal beneficiary.

The dissatisfied relatives maintain that Mr. Roebuck never mentioned having any daughter in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Bird keep a baker's shop in a working quarter of Northampton, and the heiress says her father went to America over fifty years ago, leaving her and her mother behind.

For twenty years he was as one dead. Then he unexpectedly came to England. He was only here a month, and a sad month it must have been, for in that short time his wife and mother died, and he attended the funerals.

At the end of the month he returned to America, and an even longer period of silence enought than was the east when

The man was taken to the of the Prefecture of Police, and the ous monkey to the pound.

STRUCK BY BRANCH.

Herbert Lawrence, of Toronto, Killed in Egremont.

Durham, Ont., March 13 .- Herbert Lawrence, a young man nineteen years

IRAVELER'S GUIDE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Niagara Falla, New York—2.20 a. m., *5.07 a. m., *5.05 a. m., *10.05 a. m., *5.10 p. m., *5.10 p. m., *5.10 p. m., *5.10 p. m., *1.00 p. m., *5.10 p. m., *1.00 p

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

7.49 a. m. for Toronto, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon. Tweed, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, St. John, N. B., Haitfax, N. S., and all points in the Maritime Provinces and New England States.

8.35 a. m. for Toronto, Tottenham, Beeton,

8.35 a. m. for Toronto, Tottenham, Beeton,

8.35 a. m. for Toronto, Bala, the Muskoka
Lakee, Party Sadar, Politi au Baril, Byng
Inet, and Sudbury,

10.00 a. m. (daily) for Toronto,

12.25 p. m. for Toronto, Guelph, Elmira,

Miyerton and Goderich.

3.15 p. m. (daily), for Toronto, Myrtis,

2.1dasay, Bobcaygeon, Peterboro, Tweed,

Brampton, Fergus, Elora, Orangeville, Owen
Sound, Arthur, Mount Forest, Harriston,

Wingham, Coldwater and immediate sta
15.06 p. m. for Toronto and Immediate sta-

5.6% p.m.for Toronto.
8.15 p.m. for Toronto.
8.15 p.m. for Toronto, Peterboro Ot
Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Portland
Bostor, also for Alliston, Coldwater,
Parry Sound, Sadbury, Sault Ste. Marie,
William. Winnipeg, Canadian Norte
Koctecay and British Columbia points.

TORONTO, HAMILTON & BUFFALO BAILWAY.

Arrive
Hamilton

*2.66 p. m. ... Niagara Falis and Buffalo Express *5.50 a. m.
*8.65 p. m. Buffalo Express *5.50 a. m.
*8.65 p. m. Buffalo Express *5.50 a. m.
*9.55 a. m. Niagara Falis, Buffalo. New York and Boston Express *6.20 p. m.

*7.35 a. m. ... Niagara Falis, Buffalo. New York and Boston Express *6.20 p. m.

*7.35 a. m. ... Niagara Falis, Buffalo accommodation ... *4.50 p. m.

York Express *8.15 p. m.

Sleeping car, dining car and parlor car on trail priving at 9.55 a. m. Diling car and parlor car and parlor car and train arriving at 8.00 p. m. Pullman parlor cars on all through trains.

Train leaving Hamilton at 8.15 m. daily.

Train leaving Hamilton at 8.15 m. daily.

Hamilton to New York.

Arrive

Leave
Hamilton
Express ... *Cartive
Hamilton
Leave
Hamilton
Express ... *Cartive
Expr

HAMILTON RADIAL ELECTRIC RAILWAY. EAST BOUND

7.10. 8.10. 9.10 p. m. Hamilton to Oakville—8.10, 10.10 a. m., 12.10, 2.10, 5.10, 8.10 p. m. WEST BOUND. Burlington to Hamilton-8.10, 9.10, 10.10, 11.10 a. m. 12.10, 1.10, 2.10, 3.10, 4.10, 5.10, 6.10, 7.10, 8.10, 10.10, p. m. Oakville to Hamilton-9.30, 11.40 a. m., 1.40, 4.40, 6.40, 9.40 p. m.

HAMILTON & DUNDAS RAILWAY

Terminal Station—6.15, 7.15, 8.15, 9.15, 10.15, 1.15 a m., 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 2.15, 4.15, 5.15, 1.15, 7.15, 8.15, 9.30, 10.30, 11.15 p. m.

HAMILTON, GRIMSBY & BEAMS VILLE ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

WEEK DAY' SERVICE Leave Hamilton-7.10, 8.10, 9.10, 10.10, 11.10 a. 12.10, 1.10, 2.10, 3.10, 4.10, 5.10, 6.10, 7.10, 8.10, 9.10, 11.10 p.m. Leave Beamsville-6.15, 7.15, 8.15, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15, a.m., 12.15, 11.15, 2.15, 2.15, 4.15, 5.15, Leave Beamsville 11.15 a m. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 6.15, 7.15, 8.15, 9.40, SUNDAY TIME TABLE.

BRANTFORD & HAMILTON ELEC-TRIC RAILWAY.

KING SHUNS CROWDS.

Only Wilbur Wright Knows When

King Edward Will See Him Fly. Pau, March 14.-Hundreds of auton Pau, March 14.—Hundreds of automobiles arrived at the aero grounds here early on Friday carrying Americans, Frenchmen, Englishmen and others to see King Edward, but the King, who is doing his utmost to shun publicity during his period of rest, did not arrive. It is understood that he intends to come, but it will be a surprise visit so far as the public is concerned. It is believed that Wilbur Wright knows the date that has been fixed, but he will not talk.

written several letters to Mrs. Bird, and often declared he would one day make her a lady. How he has kept his word Reuter's telegram shows.

Brockville Boy Badly Injured.
Brockville, Ont., March 14.—A peculiar accident befell a lad named Jas. Redgate yesterday. He was riding hebind a farmer's cutter, standing on the runner. As the outfit drove past a horse led by Fred McLeman kieked Redgate behind the right ear, producing a fracture of the base of the skull. The lad fell unconscious, and was removed to the hospital. His condition is critical.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Taylor says the decay of religion is going on fast in Toronto.

RAILWAYS

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM

Pacific Coast Excursions

DAILY UNTIL APRIL 30TH

To Cobalt and Gow Ganda

DAILY UNTIL APRIL 30TH Tourist Sleeping Cars on all Trains Hamilton office, cor. James and King streets, W. J. Grant, agent.

T., H. & B. Railway

NEW YORK

ROYAL MAIL TRAINS

INTERCOLONIAL

Express

apply to
TORONTO TICKET OFFICE, 51 King street East. GENERAL PASSENGER DEPART-

F. W. CATES & BRO.

WESTERN ASSURANCE Co.

Phone 2584 W. O. TIDSWELL, Agent.

DOMINION LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS From Portland for Liverpool. Vancouver....March 27 Dominion ... Apr. 17 Canada Apr. 3 Vancouver .. May 1

St. Lawrence, season 1909, White Star-Laurente, 15,340 triple screw; Megantic, 15,000, largest and finest steamers sailing from Montreal, second class. Apply to local agents, or White Star-Dominion Line, 113 Notro Dame street, Montreal.

Plasterers' Salamanders, Garbage Tanks, Metal Hods for mortar and brick, Slating, Tilling, All kinds of Roofing, Vallies and Flashings.

hene 687.

BLACHFORD & SON FUNERAL DIRECTORS

COAST SECOND CLASS ONE WAY

$9.40

Maritime Express

Famed for excellence of Sleeping and Dining Car Service. Leaves Montreal 12 noon daily, ex-sept Saturday for QUEBEC, ST. JOHN, N.B., HALIFAX. Friday's Maritime Carries the EUROPEAN MAIL and tands passengers and baggage at the side of the steamship at Halifax the following Saturday. Intercolonial Railway uses Bonarenture Union Depot, Montreal, making direct connection with Grand Trunk trains.

For timetables and other information apply to

MENT, Moneton, N.B.

INSURANCE Royal Insurance Co. Assets, including Capit $45,000,000

STEAMSHIPS

Canada, first class, $70.00; second, $45.00; other steamers in moderate rate service called accord class. Only one class cabia passengers. $12.50 to $45.00, according to steamer. Third class to Liverpool, London, Londonerry, Belfast, Glasgow, $27.50.

FOR SALE CHEAP

JOHN E. RIDDELL 257 King Street East