IN MEMORIAM.

Lines on the melancholy demise of the late George F. Anderson, who departed this life May 29th, 1899, aged 14 years. Respectfully dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

His hour is come, he breathes his last,
His parting glance on heaven is cast,
The sign of death is on his brow,
His heart is done with earthly woe,
The son, the brother, friend, is gone,
His spirit stands before the throne.

And thou who bending o'er his head,
Those drops of misery dost shed,
When looking round thy silent room,
Feels in thy heart a ten-fold gloom;
Oh, victim of pure love and agony,
May mercy flow on thine and thee.

And they have seen him borne away
And soon the day returned to clay,
Dust given to dust, and heard the sound,
Strike through their bosom like a wound,
And felt beside his burial stone
What 'tis to be on earth—alone.

Oh, thou, whose kingdom is above
Whose nature and whose name is Love,
Those who for man did not disdain
The life of toil, the death of pain,—
Teach them to love and love like thee,
King Saviour, God of Charity.

Written for the QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE, by Estella M. Reid, Summer Hill, Queens county, N. B., July 6th, 1899.

ON GROWING OLD.

They call it going down the hill, when we are growing old,
And speak with mournful accent when our tale is nearly told;
They sigh when talking of the past—the days that used to be—
As if the future were not bright with immortality.

But oh, it is not going down, 'tis climbing higher and higher,
Until we almost see the mansions that our souls desire;
For, if the natural eye grows dim, it is but dim to earth,
While the eye of faith grows keener to perceive the Saviour's worth.

Those bygone days, those days of joy, we wish not back again,—
Were there not also many days of sorrow and of pain?
But in the days awaiting us, the days beyond the tomb,
Sorrow shall find no place, but joy unmarred forever bloom.

Who would exchange for shooting blade, the waving golden grain?
Or when the corn is fully ripe would wish it green again?
And who would wish the hoary head found in the way of truth,
To be again encircled with the sunny locks of youth?

For though in truth the outward man must perish and decay,
The inward man shall be renewed by grace from day to day;
They who are planted by the Lord unshaken in their root,
Even in old age, shall flourish still, and still bring forth their fruit.

It is not years that make men old,—the spirit may be young
Though for the 'threescore years and ten' the wheels of life have run;
God has Himself recorded in His blessed Word of Truth,
That they who wait upon the Lord, they shall renew their youth.

And when the eyes now dim shall open to behold the King,
And ears now dull with age shall hear the harp of Heaven ring,
And on the head now hoary shall be placed the crown of gold,
Then shall be known the lasting joy of never growing old.
—"Day of Days."

BEFORE AND AFTER.

Three bachelors slept in their shuttered room—
In their shuttered room when the sun shone high;
Not one of them felt he must rise till noon,
Or take his breakfast till by and by;
For single men may happily sleep—
A pillow is good and a breakfast will keep
Till ten o'clock in the morning.

Three fair maids smiled on these bachelors three—
On these bachelors three when they came to town;
They waited, they sang, they made high tea,
And had their accomplishments quickly known;

For it matters not if bachelors sleep,
The maids are awake quite soon in the week,
And sometimes rise in the morning.
Three married men jumped when the sun shone,
And left their pillows in swift dismay,
They felt for their shoes, they seized their clothes,
And thoroughly realized it was day.
For women will never let men sleep
When there's breakfast to get and a wash for the week.
Though it's only five in the morning.

THE VEIL UPLIFTED.

When the veil shall be uplifted,
Hiding from our mortal sight
All the scenes of wondrous glory
Where the saints are robed in white,
I shall see what now I see not,
Hear what none on earth may hear;
Walk in everlasting sunshine,
With my Saviour's presence near.

When the Saviour home shall call me,
There to taste eternal joy,
Washed in His all cleansing fountain,
Praise shall be my glad employ;
Where, 'midst angels gathered round Him,
Streams of heavenly music flow,
I shall join th' angelic chorus,
Such as none on earth may know.

When our pilgrimage is ended,
And its pain and perils o'er,
Sin and sorrow gone forever,
Never to assail us more,
I shall tune my harp with gladness,
Where, in robes of glory dressed,
Round the throne the angels worship,
Sinless and forever blest.

"Glory, glory, hallelujah!"—
Such their song, for ever new—
"Unto Thee, our God and Saviour,
Everlasting praise is due!
Thou hast made us glad forever,
In Thy presence we abide;
Thine we are, O blessed Saviour,
And in Thee are satisfied."

COOK'S ANODYNE LINIMENT.

Useful Closets.

Plenty of closet room is a feature which probably every housewife prizes. Things accumulate in an amazing manner in a large family, and to have them of any avail in emergencies or for daily use they must be classified and stored in an orderly and convenient manner which is hardly possible with insufficient closet room. The Household has given some illustrated hints about improving closets and making the most of space, from which the following is reproduced:

In every closet there should be a shelf placed just above the hooks, and this should extend on all sides of the closet, if it is a large one. The hooks should be placed as low down as possible to allow for a second shelf above the first, which should be six inches wider than the lower shelf. Upon this may be stored the travelling bags, bonnet, hat and other boxes which take up room, and yet one likes to have such things conveniently at hand.

Usually in a closet there is but one shelf, and above that is so much waste room, but with the second shelf a part of this is utilized, and if the hooks are placed so that the skirts escape the floor by six inches the second shelf need not be so high that a step ladder is necessary. Both shelves should have a row of hooks on the outer edge, and this will give three times the usual amount of hanging space. It will be found a convenience to hang the skirts on the row, the waists outside of that, and the jackets and wraps outside the whole.

The same treatment may be carried out in a shallow closet, provided there is depth enough for two shelves. One shelf at least there could be, and if this was provided with hooks it would give double the amount of hanging space.

But what shall we do in a bedroom minus a closet—a hall bedroom, for instance, in which a young woman, who has hired the room for economy, must stow away all her belongings in that little 7 by 12 box, into which a full bedroom set and one easy chair must be crowded?

Utilize every inch of space against the wall with wooden boxes covered with cretonne or bright chintz. Then if there is a spare corner, fit two or three cornered shelves into it, one above the other, and drape it with an inner curtain of cheese-cloth or dotted muslin and an outer curtain of figured chintz to match your boxes.

The space between the two shelves will give a place for your bonnets or hats, and you can place a piece of bric-a-brac in front to give a decorative effect.
