Canada Occupies an Important Place as a Producer of Gold and Silver.

To the end of 1923 Canada had purchased over $512,000,000 in gold. The prospect of rapid increase in the present rate of production is good, and there is reason to expect that Canada will soon become the second largest gold producing country in the world, says the Mines Branch of the Canadian Department of Mines.

Gold is found in every province of Canada, with the exception of Prince Edward Island, and in point of value, next to coal, is the most important mineral product of the Dominion.
Present indications, indeed, point to the possibility of the value of Canada's gold output surpassing even that of her coal during the next few years.

The opening up of the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake gold camps marked the beginning of a new era in the history of gold mining in Ontario, which is now one of the important gold producing countries of the world.
Though the first productive operations at Porcupine date only from 1909, and at Kirkland Lake from 1913, these two camps had at the end of 1923 paid out in dividends over $34,000,000. With nearly every producing mine increasing both its proved ore reserves and its milling capacity, and with a number of new mines rapidly approaching the productive stage, the gold output of Ontario, which in 1923, amounted to $20,000,000 should show a marked increase within the next few years.

Canada's total gold production in 1923 was a little under $25-000,000, of which about 90 per cent was produced as bullion.

Silver comes second only to gold among the metals produced in the Dominion, in point of value of annual production, and among the silver producing countries of the world Canada ranks third.

Developments at Cobalt have made Ontario not only the premier silver mining province of the Dominion, but also one of the greatest silver producing countries of the world. To the end of 1922, this and other northern Ontario silver camps have contributed a total of about 325,000,000 ounces, or nearly 11,143 tons of fine silver to the world's stock.
The maximum annual production of 30,500,000 ounces was reached in 1911.

For many years the silver output of British Columbia ranged between two and four million ounces annually, largely from silver-lead mines in the Koot-enays, but in 1922 this was increased to over 7,000,000 ounces due principally to the increased production from the Premier mine near Stewart.

In Yukon Territory rich silver lead ores which are now being shipped from Keno Hill in the Mayo district, give promise of a silver production exceeding in value the present gold production of the territory.

The greater part of British Columbia's production is recovered as refined silver at the Trail Smelter and Refinery.

In Ontario, much of the ore, the silver content of the highest grades of which may run into thousands of ounces per ton, is treated at the mines for the recovery of silver only, the remaining ore and concentrates together with the residues from the local reduction plants, which still contain some silver as well as cobalt, nickel, arsenic, etc., are shipped either to smelters and refineries in southern Ontario, at Thorold and Deboro, or exported for final treatment. The final products derived from the Cobalt ores include in addition to silver, metallic cobalt and cobalt compounds, including the alloy "stellite," nickel compounds, white arsenic and insecticides.

To the end of 1923 Canada has produced over 450,000,000 ounces of silver. The present rate of production is about 17,000,000 ounces. Of this about 75 per cent is exported in the form of bullion and has been marketed chiefly in Great Britain, the United States, Hong Kong, China and Japan, in the order mentioned.

The enormous territory over which metalliferous ores have been found; the comparative recent development of the many metallurgical industries for the recovery of metals, and the abundance of hydro-electric power for electro-metallurgical operations, bid far to show a vast increase in the production of these two important metals. The Mines Department of Canada is keenly interested in the developments that are taking place in gold and silver mining in Canada and looks for much progress in this direction.
