CAPITAL AND LABOR

The Montreal Gazette has grave soberly says:

"To grant the laborer control over capital, jointly or otherwise, is to give him practical possession of the property of another, and if control means anything, he is enabled to direct the use of such property to his own advantage without risk to himself or, responsibility to others. Labor has shown itself lately to be possessed of predatory instincts. The demands of labor have become more and more burdensome, and what has occurred under existing conditions is sufficient evidence of the use to which labor would put its share in the control of capital. If Mr. King is seeking to frighten capital out of industry he is going the right way about it." If Mr. King proposed to grant the laborer control over capital wc. too. ance. Your hair is your charm. It disagree. But we don't think that is
