Husband's Forgetfulness

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 23 (Can. Press)—Last June Mayor Mikel of this City sent an invitation to Mary Pickford and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, the celebrated movie artists, to attend the celebration of the 110 years of peace between Canada and the United States which was held at Belleville the first week in August. No answer came. This surprised Mayor Mikel. The celebration of this event had met responses from the President of the United States and other prominent persons in that country and in Europe. At last, one September morn, Mary Pickford discovered Mayor Mikel's letter in her husband's pocket, unanswered. After receiving the letter he had, husband like, placed it in his coat pocket, hung up the coat and having no occasion to wear it again till September, forgot all about it. Mary Pickford at once telegraphed Mayor Mikel the cause of her seeming indifference to his invitation to the Belleville celebration, and later wrote explaining more fully. It seems that even husbands of star movie artists cannot be relied on to handle their wives' correspondence.

City Buried in Sand

We are accustomed to buried cities of the East, and even in the forests of Africa one is not surprised to hear that ancient ruins have been found buried in the jungle. But to find a buried city in Wales seems something of an anomaly.

Yet on the borders of Swansea Bay, in the heart of a great sandhill, lies the buried city of Kenfig. There is to-day a village close by called Ton Kenfig. It is behind the sandhills in which the buried city lies, and from which the broken wall of a ruined tower projects to this day.

In the days of the Conqueror Kenfig was a walled city, a great commercial centre, and filled with art men. But an insidious flood-blow and—was always liable to break down its best defences. By year bit by bit, it gained the tory, until by the time Queen Elizabeth began her reign there was but of the city to be seen except sand and a ruined tower. For ages tradition had it that town was submerged by sand and great storm, as Pompeii was overwhelmed by volcanic dust, but chronicle of Marsam Abbey, which have recently been examined, make plain that the sand encroachment lasted for many years, and that process of burying this Welsh was a slow one.
