Masterlinck Declares Hotel De Ville and Cathedral in Danger.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Oct. 21.—Maurice Masterlinck, the Belgian author, in a signed article in the Ligue, reviewing the phases of the war in Belgium, still expresses fear for the safety of the Grand Place (market place), the Hotel de Ville (the town hall) and the Cathedral of Brussels. He says he is certain and knows that they have been mined, and that of a spark is needed to reduce them to debris.

His Secretary Thinks He is on Floating Ice and Will Survive Winter.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 21.—William McConeen, who was secretary to Vilhjalmur Stefansson, believes the latter is safe, notwithstanding that the Arctic Arctic explorer has been missing since last April. Mr. McConeen arrived in New York yesterday. He expressed the opinion that Stefansson and his two men who were with him—Oleander and Storker Storker Ice—are safe on a mass of drifting polar ice, 500 miles or more north of Alaska, and will be able to withstand the hardships of the Arctic region. He said they had sufficient supplies of food and supplies to keep them alive for a year and a half.

Mr. McConnell and other members of the expedition party left Stefansson on the continental shelf on April 7 and returned to shore.

ing a landwehr brigade, who was killed in action Oct. 25.

THOUSANDS OF MILLINERS AND DRESSMAKERS IDLE

LONDON, Oct. 30.—9 p.m.—The economy being practiced by English women at present is causing lack of demand for certain kinds of hats. At a meeting of relatively unemployed people here tonight it was stated that one-third of the 65,000 dressmakers in London are out of work because even the well-to-do are buying cheap ready-made clothing. It was also said that one-fourth of the 1,400 millinery workers are out of work because of the lack of hats which are cheaply trimmed.

Statistics presented indicated that there are 3,000 more unemployed people in London than there were last year at this time.

Victory Coming.

Their views were in line along with the progress of the allies at other points, as officially announced, is taken by many as marking the first stages of an impending victory.

They also agreed that the allies had the advantage in the air, and that the hot fighting in the vicinity of Ypres, where the allies have been gaining, because of the great importance of the position of the German position, the center of the German position between the sea and the sea. They have said that they could not continue their advance much unless assured of the possession of it.

They also agreed that the allies had the route opened as far as the heights of Stoner, 22 miles southeast of Calais, is a statement attributed to them.

However, the most important positions in the hands of the allies, the French, Dixmude and Ypres are in the hands of the allies.

Aircraft a Necessity.

Gen. Florio Bernis, the military attaché, said that the French were in contact with whom he talked yesterday gave all praise to the German method of combat. The present war, he says, is a war of immense service aviation can render to the French.

The aeroplane has become an instrument of observation, not only useful but indispensable, according to Gen. Cherife.
