THE JERSEY LILY.

Mrs. Langtry's Arrival at New York—What She Said and What is Said About Her.

Mrs. Langtry arrived at New York early Monday morning and was welcomed by a numb-r of theatrical and newspaper men. The papers are full of descriptions about and interviews with her. The following is from the New York Sun:

Mrs. Langtry is unquestionably a very beautiful woman. Her beauty is of the kind that baffles photography, and those who have seen her pictures only have no conception of the charm of her face. Her complexion is pure white and almost transparent. There is on either cheek a dull, rich and scarcely distinguishable color that softens the contour of the face, but otherwise her skin is as white as snow. The ears are as purely white as the forehead and the eyebrows are beautifully outlined. The mouth in repose has a pathetic or serious expression, and the lips are as clearly cut as a statue's. When she smiles perfect teeth are revealed and the cheeks wrinkle into two deep little dimples. The eyes however are the most winning feature of all. They are gray, with little jet black pupils, and are shaded by long dark lashes. They are wonderfully expressive and certainly very effective. Mrs. Langtry's voice is soft, agreeable and so clear that it travels far, and she is utterly without the broad English accent so tiresome in some of the theatrical people from the mother country.

"I have wanted to come to America, but now that I am here I begin to feel very nervous about my success. You see, it was different in London, where I had so many friends that it encouraged me to go on; but here I shall have to stand on my merits as an actress, and (with a deprecatory smile) my merits are so very few, you know!"

"Do you still suffer from stage fright?"

"Oh, dreadfully. It lasts now for ten or fifteen minutes. I can't overcome it, somehow, no matter how much I try. But still I am very anxious to get to work again. I love the work of the stage—the real hard study and rehearsals, and am very anxious to improve. I have had a good rest and am quite ready."

"Mrs. Labouchere is to remain with you during your entire stay in America is she not?"

"Yes. I don't know what I should do without Mrs. Labouchere. She drills me and takes the liveliest interest in my success."

"What is your favorite character?"

"Oh, Rosalind is by far the best. I fear I am a very poor Rosalind, but I am very fond of the character. One can do so much more with Shakespeare's words than with those of the run of plays. I studied very hard for four months on Rosalind, and feel as though I could go on studying forever."

"Do you think of taking up Juliet?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Langtry, almost aghast, "that seems so very presumptuous after the beautiful Juliets of the past and now on the stage. I remember Miss Neilson's Juliet, and feel almost afraid to take up the role."

"How did you come to enter the profession?"

It was simple enough, you know, she said, with entire frankness. "I suddenly found that it was necessary for me to make money. It was plain that I had to make my living. I appeared about this time in what was intended for an amateur dramatic entertainment at Mrs. Labouchere's for the benefit of the dramatic fund. We found just before the performance that some of the amateurs would fail us, so we got some professionals. They said I did quite creditably with the professional actors, and Mrs. Bancroft offered me a small part in "Ours" in her theatre. It was then suggested that I should go upon the stage. I was not stage struck, but loved the profession for itself. I grew fonder of it every day. One reason why I love the stage is because everybody has been so kind to me since I started in. I have done very little, but I hope to do much more. So far I have appeared in "An Unequal Match," in which I made my debut; "She Stoops to Conquer," and "As You Like it." They will all be given in New York."

"How long do you remain in America."

"Six months."

Mrs. Langtry drove from the steamer to the Albemarle hotel, where she occupies the rooms Sarah Bernhardt had. Mrs. Langtry says that she already feels at home.

The Stranger in London.

That the great city will ere long be hardly recognizable by its former denizens, all the world has heard. The visitor passing up the Thames now finds his eye gratified by the many handsome edifices recently erected. As he reaches the famous Victoria Embankment, there rises over him on the right hand the new Times office, and on the left hand the new tower-crowned works of Messrs. James Epps & Co., both phases of Italian architecture. It may be said that these two buildings are types of the far-reaching business energy of the nineteenth century, for it has resulted from such means that these two establishments have brought themselves to the fore, and that the annual issue of each has come to be estimated by millions. During the last year the number of copies of the Times issued is estimated at 16,276,000, while the number of packets of Epps' Cocoa sent off in the same period is computed at 14,749,695. The latter is a large total, when it is borne in mind that in 1830 the consumption of cocoa throughout the whole kingdom was but 42o 3s2 lbs., there then existing no preparation of it such as this, which by the simple addition of boiling water would yield a palatable drink. Truly time may be said to work many changes. tf

Not Gwendolen's Foot.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"You have stepped on my foot!"

The murmuring zephyrs of a June morning were kissing with dewy breath the rose bushes that were soon to burst forth in a wealth of bud and blossom; the twitter of the robin and the meadow lark rose cheerily upon the cool, fresh air that came from beyond the hilltops in the west, and athwart the eastern sky faint bands of crimson light, rosy harbingers of the golden flood that was to come, made a vivid contrast to the deep blue of the zenith, while over all was spread the solemn hush that comes before breakfast.

"You are mistaken darling," said Gwendolen Mahaffy, looking up tenderly at Pericles Perkins; "it was the horse."

"Perhaps you are right," the man replied, stroking the neck of the horse—a beautiful Norman that weighed nearly a ton—"but it would have deceived even a more trusting heart than mine."

MOTHERS! MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so go and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.

READABLE PARAGRAPHS.

—Impaired vigor of mind and body, in both male or female, old or young, cured by the timely use of Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment.

Nothing better ever made than those Jersey suits for the boys—last longer, look bett r and half the price of the old-fashioned suits of tweed. All sizes at White's, 55 King st. west.

How It Works.

Malarial diseases, so prevalent in the spring and fall, such as ague, chill fever, billious fever, etc., depend upon an inactive state of the liver, bowels, skin, kidneys, etc., for did these outlets of morbid poisonous matter free the system properly, no sickness would result. Burdock Blood Bitters effectually regulates these organs and corrects the absorbent and secretory system as well.

Chris. Pickering, of Baltimore, challenges any player of draughts in the three counties of Northumberland, Durham and Hastings to a match of twenty games for $50 a side.

Orin Catlin, 49 Pearl street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: I tried various remedies for the piles but found no relief until I used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which entirely cured me after a few applications.

Judge William Viers Bouic of Rockville, Md., was told by his physician that he had only a few hours to live. His daughter's wedding had been appointed for the following week, but, on his urgent desire, the marriage ceremony was performed at his bedside. He was too weak to pronounce a blessing upon the bride, and a feeble kiss was his last act.

A cure for Headache—Thousands are suffering martyrs to this distressing trouble. If you have pure and properly vitalized blood coursing freely through your veins; if the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels act rightly you will never experience headache. Burdock Blood Bitters will effect this desirable condition, if properly used. Try it.

Forty-seven hats were found lately at the home of a Paris hat stealer, who used to enter cafes hatless and leave with the best he could find. He pleaded absence of mind, but went to jail for six months.

Mr. Abraham Gibbs, Vaughan, writes: "I have been troubled with Asthma since I was ten years of age, and have taken hundreds of bottles of different kinds of medicine, with no relief. I saw the advertisement of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda, and determined to try it. I have taken one bottle and has given me more relief than anything I have ever tried before, and I have great pleasure in recommending it to those similarly afflicted."

According to recently issued returns of the agricultural holdings in Scotland, there are 278 tenants who pay £1000 a year and upwards, 41 at over £1500, and one at over £3000.

A Good Investment—Twenty-five cents expended to your druggist for a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil will allay more pain and care more diseases than many dollars spent for ordinary medicines would do. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, burns, scalds, frost bites, sore throat, croup, stiff joints contracted cords, and all lameness and inflammation.

New Zealand has had a wonderful hop crop this year. Soil and climate both favor the production, and there are plenty of colonists who understand the culture.

After years of suffering persons who have vainly sought remedial help from other sources have obtained the long desired relief from Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which puts a stop to the torments of Dyspepsia, renews activity of the Bowels and Liver, relieves maladies incident to the gentler sex and builds up failing health and strength, gives purity to the blood, and tone to the whole system.

The German government has adopted a new regulation on its lines of railway. In future the carriages will be painted of the same color as the tickets of the different classes—first, yellow; second, green; third, white.

Deafness that is caused by colds, inflammation of the membrane of the ear, and earache, is often cured by Haggard's Yellow Oil, the great external and internal remedy for all pain, soreness and inflammation, rheumatism, burns, scalds, frost bites, sore throat, croup, contracted muscles, etc. Never be without it.

The stock raisers of Colorado estimate the aggregate value of their flocks and herds at $35,000,000. The number of horned cattle is placed at 2,250,000.

Mr. T. C. Borchard, public school teacher, Norland, writes: "During the fall of 1881 I was much troubled with Billiousness and Dyspepsia, and a part of the time was unable to attend to the duties of my profession. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure was recommended to me, and I have much pleasure in stating that I was entirely cured by using one bottle. I have not had an attack of my old complaint since, and have gained fifteen pounds in weight."

At Schwalbach in Germany, some Englishmen got up lawn tennis. After a day or two the mayor requested that the gentlemen would play with their coats on, as the ladies of the place were shocked at the want of decency shown by the foreigners.

Mr. J. R. Seymour, druggist, St. Catharines, writes that he finds an ever-increasing sale for Burdock Blood Bitters, and adds that he can, without hesitancy, recommend it. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand specific for all diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys.

The extent to which Highland estates are now being cleared of sheep, with a view of "foresting," is likely to excite the attention of parliament before long. Deer forests are very profitable possessions; but if the whole country is to be turned into a vast game preserve, rents are likely to fall considerably. Since the beginning of August nearly 50,000 sheep have passed through Inverness, by the Highland railway, on their way south.

The Cheapest medicine in use is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, because so little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the chest or throat, for taking internally or inhaling it is a matchless compound.

A bill is before the Vermont legislature prohibiting a divorced person from marrying within a year, and a person from which a divorce is obtained from marrying within five years or ever, if the ground of complaint is a crime, in which case criminal prosecution must follow the divorce proceedings.

Mrs. Wm. Allan of Acton, says he has never been without a bottle of Haggard's Yellow Oil in the house for the last twenty years, and would not be for ten times the cost: adding that he has never known it to fail for colds and croup, sore throat, stiff neck, burns, scalds, etc. She concludes by saying, "if any one doubts its efficacy refer them to me."

A Perfect Fit.

Why, Mrs. B——, how beautifully your dress fits you; where did you get it? I got it at Petley's, of course, all the ladies go there now; they have a new head dress maker and she fits beautifully. I was never so well pleased before. tf

"Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle

A Jealous Actress.

Bernhardt is terribly jealous of her new husband, whom marriage has not entirely cured of a passion for flirting. She keeps a close eye upon his movements, and is never comfortable when he is out of her sight. During her stage performances the bare thought that her attractive lord and master is engaged in "mashing" some of the foot light beauties behind the wings drives her nearly distracted. At Blackpool recently, where an immense audience had assembled to see her in Camille, she refused after the first act to play any longer. She alleged sickness as the reason for this sudden whim, and pointed to the blood which she was raising from her lungs with a violent attack of coughing as a proof of it. It was shrewdly surmised, however, that the blood was merely "stage blood," which Sarah had used with realistic effects, and it was afterward discovered that her jealousy was the real reason of her refusal to continue the play. She had detected Damala in a new flirtation and could not remain on the stage while he was out of her sight. If she doesn't shoot or poison this fickle benedict before long, or kill off herself or every beauty whom he is likely to admire, she will not be true to the traditions of the disappointed actress of the French stage.
