If the new duke of Marlborough should soon drink himself to death, or break his neck, and his son would drown himself for sorrow—or joy, either—then Lord Randolph Churchill would be duke of Marlborough, and his wife (nee Jennie Jerome, of New York), would be duchess of Marlborough! After a few years' labor he was the owner of 50,000 acres in Kerry, and, as he states in his will, he had in Ircand, as he states in his will, he had in Ircland, "without the county of Kerry, in land, reversions and remainders, about £3100 ($15,500) more." In the same document he quaintly adds that he dies "in the practice of such religious worship as I find established by the law of my country." He was a strong-minded, able man—the author, among other works, of a "History of the Down Survey" and of the "Political Anatomy." This was the founder of the Lans-

By the death of the Duke of Marlborough the Marquis of Blandford, one of the most disreputable persons in English society, succeeds to the title and estates. The late duke was one of the knights of the garter, and thus a vacant blue ribbon will be at the disposal of the queen, under the advice of her prime minister. The landed property owned by the duke in Great Britain amounted to 26,333 acres, producing an annual income of more than $200,000. In annual income of most than addition to this sum there is a perpetual annuity, or pension, of £4000 sterling attached to the dukedom. The first duke received this pension in 1704 as a reward for winning the battle of Blenheim and for winning the battle of Blenheim and for for winning the battle of Bienneim and for other military services. The duke who now succeeds to the tile is noteworthy only for having won another man's wife away from her husband and for other unnumbered

From the Montreal Witness. The determination of the Laval university to obtain the canonization of Bishop Laval shows that at all events that institution is not in such pecuniary straits as one would have imagined, on hearing the cry of distress raised by those who, two sessions ago, were so busy in the lobuy of the Quebec legislature negotiating the safe carrying through of its monopoly job. One way and another, the passing of that bill must have cost something; but unless things are greatly changed it will be found that a diploma of saintship from Rome is even more expensive than a Quebec act. The diploma of saintship from Rome is even more expensive than a Quebec act. The fee, if we mistake not, used to be £20,000. To this day in Italy the saying of the Borromeo who paid for the canonization of his ancestor Charles, who now gives name to a street in Montreal, is remembered. Turning to his family after the last bill had been settled, he exclaimed: "Be always good christians, my dear children, but never, saints; one more saint and we are ruined forever." Of course we can understand on the principle that a liberal allowance is always made to the trade, an archbishop and body of priests would not be charged as much as a smple layman; and charged as much as a smple layman; and again, times are changed at the Vatican, and cash in hand nowadays ought to command a liberal discount. The Tricycle Girl The girl on a tricycle has already made her appearance at the summer resorts. As bserved at Newport, she sat between two wheels, which were connected by a short axle-tree, on a kind of saddle-astride of it, but not so circumstanced as to make divided garments necessary, as in riding horseback, man fashion. Her feet reached down to treadles, and her hands were employed in steering by means of a device connected with a low front wheel. Her posture was not that of sitting, however, but her figure was suspended nearly perpendicular, and her legs were moved a great deal like those of a horse afflicted with springhalt, or a swim mer treading water. Her knees came up high with an action more productive of good exercise than of grace. And yet she was a symmetrical and pleasing traveler. The prescribed costume is soft, thin flunnel, with a blouse waist, and a skirt reaching just to the gaiter tops. It is obvious that the latter level could not be steadily maintained, in view of the high treading required to work the tricycle, without some special modification of the garment. This want has been supplied by taking an idea from the equestrian habit. Lengthwise

Rossin House.

The Rossin is the largest hotel in Cauada, only two blocks from Union station, corner King and York streets, finest situation in Toronto. Its thoroughly first-class appointments, large corridors, lofty ceilings, spacious, clean and well ventilated rooms (the whole house having been painted, frescoed and decorated this spring), detached and en suite, polite and attentive employees in every apartment, together with unexcelled cuisine, make it specially attractive to the travelling public. Elevator running day and night. Hot and cold baths on each floor. Electric bells in rooms. Fire escape in each bed-room. Prices graduated.

If so, don't delay too long. We have cured hundreds of patients suffering from consumption, bronchitis, laryngitis, asthma, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, who could not have been helped had they delayed one month longer. And we have refused treatment to over 100 cases during the last year who delayed one month too long. By the use of cold inhalations conveyed to the diseased parts by the spirometer, the wonde ful invention of 17r. M. Souvielle, of Paris, ex-aide surgeon of the Fronch army, and other proper local and constitutional treatment, we are curing thousands of cases of the above-named diseases every year. Referring to the advertisement of this association in The World of Tu sday les", it may be explained in... the much larger sum called for by the valuation made by Profess & Cherriman, under the government standard for Canada, then is required by the valuation made by Mr. Homans on the standard for the Starts of New York, arises solely from the greater severity of the Mortality Table of the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain as compared with the "American Experience" Table of Mortality, as the same rate of interest was used in each case.

The reason why the valuation made by this Association's own actuary C-LLS FOR A STILL LARGER RESERYS than even that required by Professor Cherriman's valuation arises from the fact that the directors consider THAT SECURITY TO THE POLICY-HOLDERS is the YERST thing, and, therefore, not content to provide simply as in other companies, they add an additional TEN per cent. to the liability under all BONUS ADDITIONS and FAID UP ASSOCIATION ASS
