They marched. Marched up until they invested the whole City of Winnipeg nor did they trust the C. P. R. For they said unto themselves, "lo! the Winnipegers have bought up the rolling stock."

XVII.

These things must be told by an abler pen than mine. I can but briefly state the preliminaries of that memorable siege.

The Winnipegers made a brave defence. They surrounded the city with a wall made up of the paper towns with which the Winnipegers have flooded Ontario for three years.

the Winnipegers and three years.

Some of these paper town papers contained strange oaths, such as "we guarantee." When these oaths were flung at the Winnipegers—lo! they succumbed and said, "Hoist by our ewn petard!"

Then ensued a glorious sight.
The triumph of Dominion forgiveness, the concummation of Provincial autonomy.
A glorious sight at which the Winnipegers lifted up their hands and wept.
It was McMahon and Cameron's cow walking with stately tread down Main street, from Lot 40 to Lot 45. At the same time G. W. Allan's mustang entered into the Winnipeg Post Office and pranced about.

And Winnipeg rose up as one man at these glorious sights and sang Old Grimes. The Nihilists Will Continue to Annihilate ST.
