

Opinions of the English Press.

MORNING POST.

436

"LORNE HIGHLAND WHISKY .- If all the samples of the Scotchman's favourite beverage were equal to those which come from the celebrated distilleries of the Messrs. GREENLEES, on the Argyll Estates, Englishmen would then know what to drink. This Whisky has that pure mellow flavour which results from age and judicious blending of Whiskies distilled from Malt of the finest quality, prepared under the personal supervision of the proprietors. Not only may it be safely asserted that there is not a 'headache in a hogshead of it,' but it also possesses all those qualities which the best medical authorities value so highly, and which render it one of the best agents in their pharmacopreia. So long, then, as alcohol has to be prescribed for constitutional ailments, it cannot be taken in a more agreeable, safer, or beneficial form than the Lorne Highland Whisky, which is worthily name1 after the most popular of Scotchmen, the MARQUIS OF LORNE, Messrs. GREENLERS, having availed themselves of his express approval to name it the LORNE HIGHLAND WHISKY, by which title it is now recognized by connoisseurs. It is rapidly finding its way throughout England and the Colonies."

STANDARD.

"LORNE HIGHLAND WIIISKY.—To those who, like the great national poet Burns, think Scotch Whisky the pearl of all drinks, the LORNE HIGHLAND WHISKY will recommend itself as a boon long sought after. Its delightful mellow flavour may be attributed to the selection of the very finest malt, to purity in distillation, and to that tone which age alone can impart. Distilled by the proprietors, Messrs. GREENLEES, on the Argyll Estates, the name and title given to it are doubly appropriate. It may be safely pronounced, after a trial and comparison with other Whiskies, to be superior to any in the market."

SOLE AGENTS FOR CANADA, W.F.LEWIS & CO., MONTREAL

CIVIL SERVICE GAZETTE.

⁶ LORNE HIGHLAND WHISKY,—On the estates of MacCallum More, in Argyleshire, the dist. lation of pure Malt Whisky has long been car ied on by Messrs. GREENLERS, who, by careful and personal supervision, have gained for their Whiskies a proud pre-eminence among the best braids of the Scotchman's national beverage. Their LORNE HIGHLAND WHISKY, which has the written and spoken approval of the noble Marqu's, was, we noticed, specially supplied for the Scottish Corporation Dinner on St. Andrew's Day, at which Lord Lorne occupied the chair. There can be no doubt that this excellent blend will secure a reputation and popularity worthy of its sponsor."

MEDICAL REVIEW.

"LORNE IHGHLAND WHISKY. — Sole proprietors, GREENLEES BROTHERS, London and Argyleshire. This Whisky is a pure, unadulterated spirit, very mellow, in quality excellent, and in our opinion perfectly wholesome. Where a stimulant is required, it is to be preferred to brandy."

EVENING CITIZEN, GLAS-GOW.

"GOD ELESS THE PRINCE OF WALES."-Loyalty, having burst into song, is making a sad raid on the music shops. 'God Bless the Prince of Wales' seems quite as popular as Lorne Whisky was after the marriage of the young Marquis to the Princess Louise."

SHEFFIELD POST.

" It is of the finest pure malt that the highly prized and ever enjoyable LORNE HIGHLAND WHISKY is made-its distillation and after manipulation is so thoroughly understood and so conscientionsly carried out by the proprietors, Messrs. GREENLEES BROTHERS, of London and Argyleshire, that the Whisky bearing the brand 'Lorne' is everywhere regarded as the crême de la crême of Whiskies. To mention its name is to cause a smacking of the lips on the part of those who are judges of 'toddy' and who know how to make it. Not only is such a Whisky as the Lorne most enjoyable as a beverage; not only is it absolutely without injurious properties; but it possesses all the bracing, carminative, and tonic properties of the finest cognac. Hence, medicinally speaking, it is highly valuable. But to those more especially do we speak who enjoy ' the cup o' kindness.' The man who has fagged through his day's labour, he who has 'Something attempted, something done, to earn a night's repose,' and who in the quiet of the evening seeks and finds his easy chair-that is the man who will enjoy his 'Lorne.' While from his 'yard of clay' he blows the fragrant fume, benign and be-slippered, cosy and comfortable, his 'Lorne' will be found not altogether an unimportant element in causing him to feel at peace not only with himself but with all mankind."