DISCUSS THEIR CHANCES

Retirement of Fitzpatrick May Shut Out Campbell and Whip Calvert.

Ottawa, July 21. — (Special.) — Everyone is guessing at the reorganization of the Laurier cabinet that must soon take place. There is no doubt that Sir Richard Cartwright is willing to retire, and that Hon. R. W. Scott will be asked to retire, and that also Hon. Mr. and that Hon. R. W. Scott will be asked to retire, and that also Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick is anxious to be relieved from the cares of a portfolio.

If Mr. Fitzpatrick goes Sir Wilfrid will be very much in need of a strong minister of justice, and the only available one in sight is Mr. Aylesworth. If Mr. Aylesworth comes in it will be to take the place in the cabinet of either Sir Richard or Hon. Mr. Scott. That will leave only one vacancy, and That will leave only one vacancy, and of Mr. Aylesworth becomes minister of justice Mr. Lemieux, who is solicitor-general, will want cabinet rank and the headship of a department. This move would send the solicitor-general-ship to Ontario, and in that case some ship to Ontario, and in that case some young lawyer from that province would be taken in to fill the position. If this is done neither Archibald Campbell of Centre York nor Mr. Calvert, the chief whip, would have a chance at the present time to get within the charmed circle, as neither is a lawyer. What might let both of these gentlement into the cabinet would be if Mr. Fitzpatrick made up his mind to continue in the government for some time longer as minister of justice, then both Sir Richard and Mr. Scott could be succeeded by Mr. Campbell and Mr. Calvert, or any other layman in the house of commons.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up; so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured, he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It seems, therefore, that it is to the best interests of averyone who suffers to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him, which will receive careful attention, and a correct diagnosis of your case will be made free of charge; if you have lost faith write him, as you have everything to gain and nothing to lose; you must remember not one penny need be paid until you are cured. Vegetable Growing in Cuba

EXTRACTS FROM PROFESSOR C. F. AUSTIN'S REPORT.

Chief of Department of Horticulture, Cuban Experiment Station, Santiago de Las Vegas.

All Classes of Vegetables Successfully Grown in Cuba.

Comparatively few people in the United States know that nearly all classes of vegetables with which they are familiar in their home gardens or markets can be successfully grown in Cuba, and the few who are aware of the main fact usually have mistaken ideas as to the conditions which govern truck gardening here.

During the past winter, from November to May, the horticultural grounds of the Cuban Experimental Station have yielded a continuous supply of the following vegetables in excellent condition: Forty varieties of American lettuce, all classes of garden and stock beets, radishes, turnips, rutabagas, endive, salsify, tomatoes, egg-plant, Bermuda onions, Swiss chard, cabbage, kohlrabi, parsnips, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, peppers, carrots and

People Coming to Cuba Can Count on Good Gardens.

From this report it will be seen that people coming to Cuba may not only count upon being able to make good gardens for their own use, but may consider vegetable growing for market as one of the openings which the country offers. Already Cuba exports several hundred thousand crates of vegetables every winter, the principal varieties now grown commercially being tomatoes, eggplant, peppers and Bermuda onions. Guines, about thirty miles from Havana on the United Havana Raflroad, has for years been the leading district for truck farming, though there is now a considerable acreage of vegetables at Taca Taca and some other points on the Western railroad. Along both these roads the opportunities for vegetable growing are excellent, as they have quick and competent service in connection with the steamship lines.

Cow peas, velvet beans and probably other leguminous crops grow successfully during the summer or rainy season and may be turned under in the fall, thus putting the fields in good condition for vegetable crops during the winter. The use of commercial fertilizers has large-

Three Distinct Types of Soil.

In the region to which I am confining this discussion there are three distinct types of soil—the red, the black and the sandy or loamy-with many intermediate grades. The Guines vegetable district is an example of what is known as "mulatto" land, an intermediate between the black and the sandy. This is a deep soil, sticky in wet weather, but loose and mellow in the dry season. When properly handled it gives excellent results. The sandy and loamy soils which prevail in Pinar del Rio Province are also proving well adapted to vegetable growing and seem to hold water better than either the black or the red lands, so that by thorough cultivation crops may be produced on them with less water than on soils of any other type. As a rule the black lands are considered to be better adapted to sugar cane than to truck gardening, being very heavy and having a poor natural drainage, yet suffering badly from dry weather on account of their tendency to bake into unfriable crusts and clods.

Red Soils Not Profitable for Vegetables Without Irrigation.

On the red lands we have been able to grow all classes of vegetables successfully, yet this soil probably suffers more severely than any of the others from drought, having almost 1 too perfect a natural drainage and at the same time a tendency to dry out; even with the most careful cultivation watering has been necessary in order to maintain the amount of soil moisture necessary to a growing crop, so that without a good system of irrigation I do not believe the red lands would be profitable for vegetables. On the other hand, I wish it distinctly understood that with irrigation just as fine vegetables and just as large a yield can be produced from this soil as from any on the island

Profitable Vegetables for Cuba-Colery.

Returning to the subject of the vegetable crops which can be most profitably grown in Cuba, I wish to a to some of the more promising ones As I have already said, tomatoes, peppers, egg-plant and Bermuda onions have made their way from Cuba into the markets of the United States and I believe that celery can also be successfully grown here for export and for local use. Our work has demonstrated that its production is possible. I enclose a photograph of our celery fields here at the station. Seed planted in October gave us excellent stalks in March. For commercial purposes the crop should be ready to handle during January, February and March, for in April the weather begins to be too warm and several fungus diseases appear, doing great damage. The celery now sold in Havana is imported from the United States and you would be surprised to know that a little poor stalk of American celery will bring 25 cents-and bring it quickly. The people of Havana seem to be exceedingly fond of this vegetable and would buy it eagerly if it were supplied to the market.

Remarkable Growth of Orange Trees In a letter recently received is the following item: visited a fruit farm and photographed an orange tree three years ago from setting. It was six inches in diameter at the base and about eighteen feet high, with branches five or six feet long and full of fruit. I also photographed a tree five years old which bore 5000 oranges last year, and another seven years old which bore 7000 oranges. Grape-fruit attains perfection in Cuba. Oranges

It is claimed by the best authorities on citrus fruits that if all the available lands suited for the purpose in this part of the world were put into cultivation it would be more than twenty years before the market would be supplied to the same extent that it was previous to the freezes in Florida and California.

It must be remembered that an orange grove will mature here in one-third less time than in California or

Governor-General Charles H. Allen says: "A ten-acre orange grove, once in bearing, gives a comfortable income, sufficient to support a family in the best country style."

When an orange tree is in full bearing it is valued at $100."—Florida Fruits and How to Grow Them.

Profits on Oranges and Other Citrus Fruits

As an indication of the profits to be derived from raising oranges and other citrus fruits, I quote from an official work on Cuba, recently published: "The person owning an orange grove in a country free from frosts is the most independent and happiest person on earth. A full-grown orange tree will yield from 1000 to 5000 oranges yearly, and, like the lemon tree, begins to bear the third year. Before Cuba got its setting back during the war orange lands were selling from $150 to $300 per acre, and a three-year-old grove was worth $1000 per acre. The old-set trees in Cuba are some 100 years old, and each year a three-year-old grove was worth $1000 per acre, and a three-year-old grove was worth $1000 per acre. The oldest trees in Cuba are some 100 years old, and each year the crop is greater than the previous year. No limit is placed upon the age of the orange tree; so in beginning an orange grove, remember, if four or five years are required to bring it into bearing, it will continue to yield its golden harvest for generations to come and when once in golden harvest for generations to come, and when once in fruit you can sit beneath its shade almost in idleness and have an abundant competency."

What Can I Do in Cuba?

THERE IS NO DROUGHT, BLIZZARD OR FLOOD, NO CROP FAILURE, NO COLD WEATHER AND NO EXTREME HEAT. SUCCESS IS ABSOLUTELY CERTAIN IF YOU ARE WILLING TO HUSTLE.
