LLOYD GEORGE STARTLES

BRITISH LAND LORDS

In Remarkable Address Chancellor of Exchequer Calls For a Socialistic Spirit.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(New York American Cable.)—(Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, started Conservative England by a speech last night, which is the most radical delivered by any cabinet officer for many years.

The speech created a political-social sensation.

The chancellor of the exchequer boldly tackled the problem of poverty, which is now England's most sinister issue. The chancellor's speech was full of fire and spirit, pity for the poor and compassion for the weak.

He boldly, the millionaire nobodies in the house of lords, which chamber always attempts to block all social reforms.

There are no more of the unemployed in England nowadays, and the chancellor declared that no country is civilized that allows its workers to starve.

He bluntly told the wealthy classes of England that they do not realize the privations of unemployed workmen.

The chancellor passionately described the horrors of poverty and unemployment, the starving of mothers to save the lives of their children, the feelings of desperate men walking the streets day vainly seeking work.

He said that the unemployed are suffering at nightfall hungry to their foodless and fireless homes. The chancellor boldly predicted:

"The day will come, and it is not distant, when England will shudder at its toleration of this state of things when it was rolling in wealth. I say again that poverty is the enemy of our country and its essential injustice, it is guilty of robbery and confiscation of what is the workman's share of the riches of the land. I have heard of the state of things that much recognition of this fact in legislation may drive capital away. There is nothing capital need fear so much as the fact that the multitude, I should like to know where it will flee, for, judging by the unmistakable symptoms of the times there will soon be no charity for the unemployed world where proper provision for the aged, the broken and the unfortunate among those who toil will not be regarded as the first charge upon the wealthy of the land."

"There is a good deal of nonsense talked about capital," he said, "you would imagine that if capital is offered it will immediately shake the dust of this country off its feet and go to other lands where there are no agitators, no radicals, no socialists. The fact of the matter is, the greatest capitalist of this country is nature. England's natural resources have made England rich."

"You might also imagine that all our natural resources were the result of some capitalist's generosity. The workman has, or should have, his share of these investments of nature. Anyway, it is fair for him to insist that the wealth which is attributable to them shall be utilized to protect him and his children from hunger in the dark days of misfortune."

"Nobody can honestly defend the present system. All classes are not taking their fair share of the burden of industrial depression. I can name twelve men whose gross income during the worst days of depression would suffice to maintain comfortably during one month at least 50,000 workmen and their families. Yet you will find these twelve men demanding a protective tariff, and proclaiming that the distress incident to the present state of affairs is attributable to the fact that the workman's bread is still untaxed."

"I assert, without fear of misrepresentation, that the first charge on the great natural resources of England ought to be the maintenance above want of all those who are giving their labor, brain and skill to England's cultivation and development."

In the Autumn Rhetoricism is so general that all our readers so entering will be glad to hear that a letter addressed to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., will be to their advantage. Write to-day.

AN ITALIAN "SMOKER."

The it was conducted under strictly private lines, the "Campagna Bughighe" smoke-devices land in the political meeting pure and simple.

Mr. Robinette, who is an honorary colonel of the society, was accorded a seat of honor at the platform and addressed the meeting for 10 minutes in Italian.

Freely he was interrupted by the multitude of his hearers, who were replete with organization appeared resplendent in gay uniforms. Cigars and stories replaced pipe and tobacco.

Among the orators were Rev. G. Merline, who denied the rumor that he had been paid $1000 to work for Robinette; P. Nicoletti, Caesar Franco and A. R. Spada.

War in Progress
A stockbroker's "licker" yesterday brought the following "London special":

Actual warfare between 120,000 Austrians and thousands of insurrectionists in Bosnia and Herzegovina has been in progress for ten days; the startling information brought to London today by a Montenegro agent, who is here to investigate the exact count that England will pursue in case Serbia and Montenegro declare war against Austria. Scores are reported killed. Austria is exercising the strictest censorship and has been able to keep the situation from the world.

This is the ninth successive season for "Ben Hur."

"The Bonnie Belle of Scotland" is about to begin rehearsals with Alice Lloyd as the belle.

Lulu Glaser is said to have a suitable role in "Mlle. Mieschke," in which she is being presented at the Lyric.

Frances Starr will have a new play by David Belasco for presentation in January.

Dave Warfield is giving, "The Music Master" in San Francisco, his native city.

The competition between the rival Pliska and Belasco productions of "The Devil" hasn't begun to show many signs of flagging.

Louise Gunning, who was prima donna in "Tom Jones," which visited Toronto last season, is doing well in the Pixley-Luders operetta, "Marcelle" at the Casino.

Paul Armstrong, who wrote "Salome," has produced a naval play, "In Time of Peace," Klav and Erlanger are to produce it in a few weeks.

McIntyre and Heath are back in vaudeville, but are booked for an early return to musical comedy in "The Steeplechasers," a Klav and Erlanger offering.

Frank Keenan, who is a high light in "The Warrens of Virginia," has written a number of essays on stagecraft and is now driving the quill on a book dealing with character acting.

"The Prima Donna," which has the attractive combination of Henry Blossom, librettist, and Victor Herbert, composer, is claimed to be an improvement on "Mlle. Modiste," which pleased Torontonians last season. Fritz Schief has opened in the new vehicle in Chicago.

James T. Powers is to be featured in "Havre," a thru-out musical comedy, the music of which is supplied by Leslie Stewart. The piece has had a good run in London, and an artist being ported to America by the enterprising Shuberts.

Blanche Bates, who scored heavily for two seasons in "The Girl of the Golden West," has a widely different role in "The Fighting Hope," Wm. J. Hurlbert's play. She plays the part of a stenographer, who is an artist in deft keyboard manipulation. The play has emphatically "caught on" at the Belasco Theatre.

"The Right of Way," which was given in Toronto a year ago, practically at the outset of its career, is enjoying quite a lease of life across the border. It is now touring the west and meeting with very fair success, very largely owing to the sterling character work of the veteran, Theodore Roberts.

Novel comic effects are springing in Klav and Erlanger's "Little Nemo." The curtain falls on the second act amid a blazing glory of rockets, firecrackers and pin-pots, the effect being produced by electricity and compressed air. The piece is chock-full of Yankee Doodle sentiment.

Bertha Kalich, in a new play by Max Gerson, Prod de Gress, creates the role of a gifted, fascinating and impulsive woman, who is swayed by the conflicting claims of love and an artist's devotion to his art.

In refreshing contrast to most modern French plays there is no discussion in the piece of the sex question or problem or morals.

POPULARITY OF "CANADA WEST."

Canada seems to be rapidly developing as a field for magazines and illustrated papers. The people of this country are reading more and more than they did a few years ago and appreciate the efforts of those who are producing publications of a high quality.

The Canada West Magazine, published by Vanderhoof-Gunn Co., has been making strong headway amongst monthlies of its class in America and the October number contains some exceptionally attractive features. Emerson Hough's "The Sowing" is continued. It has awakened wide interest.

"Canada Fakers" is a bold review of a list of characters with Sir Gilbert Parker and Jack London at the head, who he claims, give erroneous impressions of Canada. This is one of the brightest magazine features that any Canadian periodical has put out in recent years. Among the shorter articles and poems there are many splendid things and growing as it is we may look for some numbers of "Canada West" in the future that will easily take the place of the latest magazines from the United States.

"Gibbons' Toothache Gum" acts as a temporary filling and stops toothache instantly. Price 10c.

JUDGE FELT INSULTED AT LAWYER'S REMARKS

And There Was a Pretty Howdy-do at "Bush Poll" Appeal Session.

The clause of the Aylesworth bill providing for the making of new voters' lists in the unorganized portions of Ontario went thru parliament in spite of the determined opposition of the Conservatives.

The opposition claimed that the lists prepared for the provincial elections in June were sufficient, but Mr. Aylesworth urged the present bill, that many eligible voters would be disfranchised if new lists were not made. It was provided that any move to effect the disfranchisement of voters in the district on Aug. 1 should be entitled to vote.

Now the bush poll in West Algoma will be abolished, and no one who lives on the regular lists will be entitled to vote.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—As election day draws near, the uncertainty of the local position in regard to the balloting on the famous "bush poll" lists increases excitement to fever heat.

The board of registration has come in from A. C. R., where it sat for a couple of days in an endeavor to proceed with its work of placing numbers of men on lists, as the Conservative party maintain, legally. Also the efforts of the board have been checked at every turn, the board is still sitting in the Soo, endeavoring to reach a decision on sixty-five names yet disputed by the Conservatives.

On the A. C. R. bush poll alone, 188 names have been struck off, thus the energy of Boyce's representatives.

While no official notice has arrived that the "bush poll" will not be opened, A. C. R. has been unofficially advised to this effect from Ottawa, but the board has not.

It is certain that the list now under preparation by the board cannot be begun Judge McCallum.

"The idea of calling yourselves a judicial body after what you did at Blind River," retorted Mr. Martin.

"I move that this man be forthwith expelled from court," exclaimed Judge McCallum rising. "You're a coward," he shouted at Martin.

"And your a poor political," retorted Martin, checked by Frank Hodgins, K.C.

"Assuming that I did wrong, he has no right to talk as he does," rejoined the judge.

"This must stop all round," declared Judge Johnston, the chairman. "Apart from the improper language, it degrades the court to jangle in this unseemly manner. Mr. Martin must not talk as he has."

"Mr. Chairman," said Judge McCallum, addressing his presiding colleague, "we have been irritated, provoked, insulted and traduced. The government has entrusted us with a certain duty, and we have done it."

"I never heard the like of it. I'm ashamed that any party will allow such a man to come on their behalf. Nevertheless, I'll go on and do my duty."

Hadn't Seen the Men.
To Mr. Hodgins Enumerator Stevenson admitted that he had never seen lots of the men he had put on the lists.

"If I had only put on the men I saw you wouldn't have any lists at all," he stated.

The enumerator said he could not remember from whom he got the names, and as to whether he got them from the Liberal agent, he said: "I guess perhaps I did, I forget."

Some of the men appealed against could not be examined. They were intimidated when they reached the court.

"We cannot deal with the men in this condition," said Judge Johnston, who subpoenaed and must present themselves in a sober condition."

The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, have been appointed Ontario administrators of the estate of the late S. J. Ritchie of Akron, Ohio. The Ontario estate is inventoried at over half a million dollars.

HAVE AN HOUR TO VOTE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—The vote of the civil servants will be polled on Monday between 9.30 and 10.30. An order to this effect has been issued, instructing the army of government employees on the hill that they would be expected to cast their votes at that hour.

WHEN DOCTORS AGREE!

HAT "doctors differ," is proverbial, but there are many points upon which the medical profession is practically unanimous. One of them is, that of all stimulants, the safest and most wholesome is a good, well-matured whisky.

The advice of one of Canada's most distinguished physicians was:—"In Scotland drink Scotch, In Canada drink Rye."

In each country you can be sure of the age and quality of the native product, the sale of new whisky for home consumption being forbidden by law.

In Canada, the best Rye Whisky is

Corby's "Special Selected"

Because: It is absolutely pure whisky, being manufactured entirely from the best and cleanest grain, without admixture of coloring or flavoring matter of any kind.

Its excellent flavor is derived entirely from the pure grain.

Its mellowness is due to its age, and its age is certified by the government label.

Do not ask simply for Rye. Ask for Corby's "Special Selected."

DISCOVERED.

A Meaford subscriber of The World on Tuesday wrote stating that he had given a pair of pants to the agent of a Toronto firm of dyers some days ago.

They were brown pants, and good pants at that, he explained, and he wanted The World to assist him to locate them.

They were wrapped in brown paper, he said, and an excellent, exhaustive and comprehensive description was placed in the hands of the editor.

"And your a poor political," retorted Martin, checked by Frank Hodgins, K.C.

"Assuming that I did wrong, he has no right to talk as he does," rejoined the judge.

"This must stop all round," declared Judge Johnston, the chairman. "Apart from the improper language, it degrades the court to jangle in this unseemly manner. Mr. Martin must not talk as he has."

WHITNEY AT WINDSOR.

Address Aid Essex Candidate—Princess Reame and Tella of Ontario Reformers.

WINDSOR, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Before an audience of 5000 persons in the armory to-night Sir James Whitney made his final speech of campaign, and incidentally appeared for the first time on a Windsor platform since he became premier. His address consisted of a masterly arraignment of the federal government, and was applauded to the echo.

It was admittedly a value to O. E. Fleming, who is running against Hon. K. F. Sutherland, and perhaps will do more to secure him a seat in parliament than any other speech he has ever made.

The prime minister in opening took occasion to thank the electors of North Essex for sending him such a capable cabinet minister as Hon. Dr. Reame.

He took it for granted that people wanted honest government, and that they were able to get it was the duty of the administration in Ontario under the present regime, the speaker going over a
