

which they may be called in after life, viz: Reading, Spelling, Geography, Grammar, Penmanship, Drawing, History, Correspondence, Mental and Practical Arithmetic, Algebra, Mensuration, Literature, Rhetoric, Composition, Book-Keeping, Business Training, Commercial Transactions, Business Customs, Commercial Law, Political Economy, Banking, Consignment, Brokerage, Commission, Exchange, Elocution, Etiquette, Deportment, Type-Writing, Phonographic Shorthand, Telegraphy, etc.

It is intended for young men who seek to the best English education that is given without the study of Latin and Greek.

Young men.

Whose limited time and financial means will not allow them to pursue a complete Course of English Commercial Studies, and who wish to attend College only a few months to obtain their Diploma, will have the privilege of studying only the most necessary Commercial Branches of our Curriculum, viz: Book-keeping, in all its various applications in Commerce; Commercial Law, embracing those points of the common and statute law which are of the greatest moment to business men; Commercial Arithmetic, treating in addition to the more common features of the subject, many topics not embodied in ordinary Arithmetics; Business Penmanship; Practical English Grammar; Commercial papers and Correspondence; Spelling; Practical Mensuration and Algebra.

A Diploma

stating the capacity of each pupil is awarded to all those who obtain in the graduating examination, at least 75 per cent of the marks granted for the following branches, viz:—Book-keeping, Commercial Law and Correspondence, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Spelling, Mensuration and Algebra.

Actual Business and Banking Departments.

A well-organized Business Class, into which Practical Book-keeping, Banking, Business Customs, etc., are attended to, renders pupils capable to fill, immediately after leaving College, responsible positions, which would otherwise require several years of apprenticeship.

In this Department there are Counters and a Bank fitted out for the convenience of the Students, who take an active practical part in all kinds of Business Transactions; in buying and selling; forming and dissolving partnership; giving and receiving notes, drafts, checks, receipts, orders, etc.

Each pupil is furnished with a capital consisting of cash, merchandise, notes, Real Estate, Bank Shares, etc., corresponding with the Business into which he is to engage himself, and he opens books accordingly.

The labor-saving methods of posting directly to the Ledger from the books of original entry are here practically learned and mastered. He rents a store; buys and sells merchandise; holds correspondence with different firms; computes all interest, discounts and other calculations in connection