

MALARIAL POISON IN THE AIR.

Malaria is an endemic disease; that is to say, malaria is a poison that infests certain localities. This poison germinates in the ground and finds its way into and in the air we breathe, the water we drink, the food we eat. There are two kinds of malarial poison, the acute and the chronic. The acute malarial poison is more common to new localities where the ground has not been thoroughly tilled. This kind produces the regular old-fashioned chills and fever, or fever and ague. The poison of chronic malaria is common to older sections and is more or less prevalent in all parts of the United States. It occurs in late summer and fall. Chronic malaria finds its greater number of victims after a hot summer. The heat and moisture of the past summer will undoubtedly be followed by a great deal of chronic malaria. This poison does not produce distinct chills or fever like the acute variety, but makes its victims horribly miserable in many indescribable ways. One will have nasty cold sweats, followed by flashes of heat, aching bones, creeping rigors, and great irritability. Furred tongue, foul breath, irregular appetite, sluggish feelings, constipation, dizzy head—all these, in whole or in part, mark the presence of chronic malaria. The proper way to eradicate it from the system is to take Parke's Liver Cure. (See pages 6 and 7.)

PARKE'S SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES

Is an excellent remedy for the overwrought business man, or the woman harassed by home cares and anxieties. It braces up the nervous system, raises the spirits, keeps the blood in good order, and builds up and gives tone to the whole body. An exceptional and valuable feature of Hypophosphites is that it does not constipate and cause headache, neither does it upset the stomach and injure the teeth.

WM. SIRMAN, foreman of the Ham Oil Co. warehouse, says:—Last winter, after an attack of the grippe, my nerves were so unstrung that I kept fainting away; I was very weak and completely run down. I tried several remedies, Celery Compound, Warner's Safe Cure, Burdock Bitters, and found none of them do any good. Mr. Parke recommended his SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES and after taking only one bottle I regained perfect health, and have been so for the past year.
