STATE OF TRADE.

(Montreal Trade Bulletin.) (Montreal Trade Bulletin.)
The past week has been another quiet one in most departments of the wholesale trade, but as regards the volume of business, it is fully up to that of a year ago. We have had an active time in a number of leading staples, and the present quietness is but the natural reaction that was bound to come some time. In general trade our wholesale men report the volume of business fair for the season, but undoubtedly suffering from over-production, as we have repeatedly pointed out in these columns, and consequently great cau columns, and consequently great cau tion is needed still. Money is steady at 5 per cent., exception loans having been obtained at a shading of this figure. Discounts on mercantile paper are steady at 6 to 7 per cent.

HAT TIPS.

The hat of the modern American is a more or less direct descendant from the ancient helmet. The shape of a derby could have been evolved from 10thing else, and it has little save tradition to recommend it. It is not beautiful or comfortable, as compared 10th the cowboy's soft felt hat or the cap of the European peasant. It does not keep the ears warm, nor stay on with any degree of success; and it goes out of fashion every season, reappearing later in a slightly different form. Its sole recommendation is the tradition that it is the proper headgear for a civilized and enlightened man; and when it is cocked on one side on the head of a rowdy it does not make him took other civilization that the step of the proper headgear for a civilized and enlightened man; and head of a rowdy it does not make him look either civilized or cultured.

The woman had her arms in the tub, and was fiercely scrubbing one dirty garment after another. Book agents don't often penetrate to that part of Chicago, but this one did. He knocked on the front door until he was tired, and then he went around to the back door. The woman was bobbling up and down over the washboard. "Good morning, madam," said the book agent, pleasantly. "Good mornin," said the weman, shortly,

"Good mornin'," said the weman, shortly,
"Pleasant day," observed the book agent, sparring for an opening,
"Good enough," answered the weman,
"Excuse me, madam," said the book agent, "but I have here a work that I would like to show you."

"Have you?" answered the woman,
"Well, I've got a lot of work that I'd like to show you." She took one soaly hand out of the tub and waved it at a great nile of dirty clothes.

FERGUSON & PAGE,

(Woman's Home Companion.)
When it comes to the matter of ventilation the woman theorist shines. If, indeed, she has thought about it enough to have a theory at all (and many have) she does nothing short of sointiliating. As a consequence more persons die avery ven from the much scintillating. As a consequence more persons die every year from too much fresh ahr than the record from vitiated atmosphere can show. Not one person in a hundred can sleep—in the winter time—with an open window in their room without bad consequences, or at least without running dangerous risks. Many more cases of pneumonia may reasonably be said to be due to "ventilation" than to all other causes combined.

I recall the death of a trained nurse I recall the death of a trained nurse while on duty in the home of a neighbor, from pneumonia contracted from sleeping near an open window. As a graduate of one of the leading training schools she had thoroughly studied the subject of ventilation under supposedly intelligent professors. Yet she died in her youth from downright ignorance of the subject.

AN ECCENTRIC HUSBAND.

AN ECCENTRIC HUSBAND.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Mrs. Trank Lossick appealed to Justice Dooley for some relief from an eccentric husband.

"He won't walk any way in the house but backward," she said. "He hasn't shaved or had his hair cut for six months. He smokes in bed in the middle of the night, and sometimes gets up in the night and sings. He always throws matches over his right shoulder, no matter where they land, and twice he set a bed on fire. He won't allow anybody to pass him on the right side. And I ask any right-thinking man to look at him," said Mrs. Lossick "Just see what I've got to put up with."

The husband smiled as if he rather enjoyed the distinction. He was fined $15, which the wife paid.
